Recharting the Caribbean Bill (William) M. Maurer, 2025-10-01 If as many cultural critics have asserted the world is becoming more like the Caribbean then the task of charting what we mean by the Caribbean is an urgent one This careful study of the British Virgin Islands BVI calls attention to the ways in which ideas about nature and choice have come to justify a social order in which half the population is deemed not to belong and is denied legal rights The BVI one of Britain's few remaining colonial possessions has become an important destination point for Caribbean migrants and a center for international financial services Bill Maurer traces how the BVI came to be defined legally and popularly as a territorial entity and how BVI Islanders came to define themselves as a people sharing a culture He argues that law has been central to the construction of ethnic racial and cultural differences that create boundaries between peoples and places and that facilitate the exploitation of labor the exclusion of people from the political process and the globalization of capital Recharting the Caribbean will be important reading for anthropologist legal scholars and historians of colonial discourse Bill Maurer is Assistant Professor of Anthropology University of California at Irvine

The New Family ? Elizabeth Bortolao Silva, Carol Smart, 1999-02-08 Concern and debate over changes to family life have increased in the last decade as a result of evolving employment patterns shifting gender relations and more openness about sexual orientation Most politicians and researchers have viewed these changes as harmful suggesting that the family as an institution should not alter The New Family challenges these dominant views Leading academics in the field consider current diverse practices in families and reveal the lack of balance between policies based on how families should be and how they actually are illustrating the need for a broader definition of family This book shows the need to take fluidity and change in family arrangements seriously rather

Tourism, Tradition and Culture David Harrison, 2020-11-18 David Harrison has contributed to the academic study of tourism over the last 30 years This book brings together a collection of his published material that reflects the role played by tourism in development both in societies emerging from Western colonialism and in societies previously part of the Soviet system The overarching theme looks at how promoted as a tool for development tourism can lead to conflict between competing elites but can also empower groups previously subject to constraint by traditional authorities Tradition is intensely manipulatable and always reflects power relations Such pressure on tradition is but one aspect of tourism s wider social impacts This includes changes in economic and social structure which for many constitute social problems that need to be addressed At the same time sustainability though apparently a worthy aim can be a problematic concept especially when applied to traditional cultures and may conflict with such ideals as egalitarianism

The Manor: Three Centuries at a Slave Plantation on Long Island Mac Griswold,2013-07-02 In 1984 the landscape historian Mac Griswold was rowing along a Long Island creek when she came upon a stately yellow house and a garden guarded by looming boxwoods She instantly knew that boxwoods that large twelve feet tall fifteen feet wide had to be hundreds of years old So as it happened was the house Sylvester Manor had been held in the same family for eleven generations Formerly encompassing all of Shelter Island a pearl of 8 000 acres caught between the North and South Forks of Long Island the manor had dwindled to 243 acres Still its hidden vault proved to be full of revelations and treasures including the 1666 charter for the land and correspondence from Thomas Jefferson Most notable was the short and steep flight of steps the family had called the slave staircase which would provide clues to the extensive but little known story of Northern slavery Alongside a team of archaeologists Griswold began a dig that would uncover a landscape bursting with stories Based on years of archival and field research as well as voyages to Africa the West Indies and Europe The Manor is at once an investigation into forgotten lives and a sweeping drama that captures our history in all its richness and suffering

The Other Half of Gender Ian Bannon,Maria Correia,2006-01-01 This book is an attempt to bring the gender and development debate full circle from a much needed focus on empowering women to a more comprehensive gender framework that considers gender as a system that affects both women and men The chapters in this book explore definitions of masculinity and male identities in a variety of social contexts drawing from experiences in Latin America the Caribbean and sub Saharan Africa It draws on a slowly emerging realization that attaining the vision of gender equality will be difficult if not impossible without changing the ways in which masculinities are defined and acted upon Although changing male gender norms will be a difficult and slow process we must begin by understanding how versions of masculinities are defined and acted upon
