Educational Leadership for a More Sustainable World Mike Bottery, 2016-02-25 Educational Leadership for a More Sustainable World argues that current crises in educational policies and practice including the recruitment and retention of educational leaders ultimately derive from the interactions between four key challenges which also underpin current global and societal issues of sustainability A culture of consumption Global energy demands Climate change Emerging population patterns Mike Bottery argues that problems in dealing with these four global challenges as well as many crises in education are in large part due to a failure to appreciate their complex interactions and effects and of the need for sufficiently complex responses The result is that many policies in many areas hinder rather than facilitate appropriate solutions However by showing that the dynamics of crises in educational sustainability have many similarities to those of global systems this book argues that the adoption of a number of core practices and values can help educational leaders develop greater sustainability not only in their own area of activity but can also help them make a valuable contribution to greater sustainability at the global level as well Medical Surgical Nursing Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2024-01-14 EduGorilla Publication is a trusted name in the education sector committed to empowering learners with high quality study materials and resources Specializing in competitive exams and academic support EduGorilla provides comprehensive and well structured content tailored to meet the needs of students across various streams and levels
