From Aberdeen to Oxford Fergus Kerr, 2023-10-30 Academic theologians when they write normally decide for themselves what to discuss Admittedly these days they may work under pressure to ensure tenure to advance their prospects or to secure funding for a departmental project Mostly however they work sometimes for years on the books which consolidate the vision of theology that has energised their teaching Sometimes of course the contingencies of being invited to review a book or take part in a conference lead to what for medieval theologians were quodlibets responses to whatever topics raised by members of the class during open ended discussions sometimes unexpected even random treated suggestively rather than fully worked out This volume is a miscellany of just such papers a wide ranging collection of papers from books and journals with a strong philosophical leaning humanism attempts to reconcile universal moral values rooted in natural law with local particularist loyalties In articulating this position the authors show that the West contra various contemporary critics does in fact have a great deal of wisdom to offer The authors begin with an overview of the conservative thought world situating their proposal relative to two major poles liberalism and nationalism They move on to show that conservatism must fundamentally take the form of a defense of humanism the master idea of our civilization The ensuing chapters articulate various aspects of conservative humanism including its metaphysical institutional legal philosophical and economic dimensions Largely rooted in the Anglo Continental conservative tradition the work offers fresh perspectives for North American conservatism "I Could Not Speak My Heart" University of Regina. Confessing and Commending the Faith Alan P.F. Sell, 2006-09-01 Since Christianity is a way and not simply a theory commending the faith to others is an activity in which every Christian participates. Confessing and Commending the Faith discusses the presuppositions which underlie the intellectual commendation of Christianity in the face of the philosophical challenges of the present day. Following his earlier books John Locke and the Eighteenth Century Divines and Philosophical Idealism and Christian Belief, Alan Sell proposes a way of proceeding with Christian apologetics in the twenty first century. He discusses what Christians wish to proclaim, asks whether these claims are reasonable, and examines what is involved in the intellectual commendation of the Christian faith. Confessing and Commending the Faith makes extensive use of the historical tradition of apologetics and brings this work to bear on contemporary questions such as the meaning, use and reference of religious language and the question of transcendence in relation to history. Alan Sell argues that if the intellectual commendation of Christianity's claim to truth is to be viable, contemporary apologetics must draw upon reason, revelation and experience to do justice to Christianity's basic confession of Christ as Saviour and Lord.
