Ladies on the Lot Helene M. Lawson, 2000 In this unique and lively ethnography of women who sell cars sociologist Helene M. Lawson and the ladies on the lot take readers behind the scenes of one of the last bastions of a predominantly male workplace the car dealership Linking the women's own stories within the broader framework of gender and occupation Lawson presents an engaging and important case study on the impact of gender differences and behavior in the workplace In doing so Ladies on the Lot makes an original contribution to the field and will be of interest for a wide variety of courses including gender and occupations the sociology of work the sociology of women and various courses in women's studies and qualitative methods

Mama Learned Us to Work Lu Ann Jones, 2003-10-16 Farm women of the twentieth century South have been portrayed as oppressed worn out and isolated Lu Ann Jones tells quite a different story in Mama Learned Us to Work Building upon evocative oral histories she encourages us to understand these women as consumers producers and agents of economic and cultural change As consumers farm women bargained with peddlers at their backdoors A key business for many farm women was the butter and egg trade small scale dairying and raising chickens Their earnings provided a crucial margin of economic safety for many families during the 1920s and 1930s and offered women some independence from their men folks These innovative women showed that poultry production paid off and laid the foundation for the agribusiness poultry industry that emerged after World War II Jones also examines the relationships between farm women and home demonstration agents and the effect of government sponsored rural reform She discusses the professional culture that developed among white agents as they reconciled new and old ideas about women's roles and shows that black agents despite prejudice linked their clients to valuable government resources and gave new meanings to traditions of self help mutual aid and racial uplift

Roads Taken Hasia R. Diner, 2015-01-01 Between the late 1700s and the 1920s nearly one third of the world's Jews emigrated to new lands Crossing borders and often oceans they followed paths paved by intrepid peddlers who preceded them This book is the first to tell the remarkable story of the Jewish men who put packs on their backs and traveled forth house to house farm to farm mining camp to mining camp to sell their goods to peoples across the world Persistent and resourceful these peddlers propelled a mass migration of Jewish families out of central and eastern Europe north Africa and the Ottoman Empire to destinations as far flung as the United States Great Britain South Africa and Latin America Hasia Diner tells the story of millions of discontented young Jewish men who sought opportunity abroad leaving parents wives and sweethearts behind Wherever they went they learned unfamiliar languages and customs endured loneliness battled the elements and proffered goods from the metropolis to people of the hinterlands In the Irish Midlands the Adirondacks of New York the mining camps of New South Wales and so many other places these traveling men brought change to themselves and the families who later followed to the women whose homes and communities they entered and ultimately to the geography of Jewish history
