Reporting from the Front Brian Best,2014-11-30 When the war was declared in August 1914 one of the first acts to be implemented by the politicians and military was a strict censorship on the newspapers As the poacher turned gamekeeper Winston Churchill said The war is going to be fought in a fog and the best place for correspondence about the war is London

The military sought to have one of their officers dubbed Eyewitness to be the official spokesman to enable them to control what the newspapers could print In the early stages of the war there were many reporters on the Continent who were evading military arrest and sending back reports about the reality of the situation Several volunteered with the various ambulance services just to disguise their real purpose but all were eventually banished Having finally cleared all reporters from fighting area the military was persuaded to allow a small number of accredited war reporters to be chaperoned around the battle fronts They were closely watched and their reports thoroughly scrutinised until they eventually became almost a part of the Headquarters hierarchy Later diaries and letters revealed how many of them really felt and they had to bear the post war shame of not writing the truth The Western Front was not the only front in this world war Reporters found censorship less rigidly applied on the Eastern Front Palestine and Italy One correspondent whose reports famously brought about the sacking of the campaign commander and the ending of the fruitless and bloody Gallipoli Expedition bravely broke ranks and was finished as a war reporter War reporting was not confined to print The emergence of photographers and cinematographers on the battlefield has left us with an extraordinary record Unlike their writing brothers the photographers could get close to the action and shoot what they liked The resultant film was of course censored but thankfully nothing was discarded and museum archives are full of their stunning work Having been the pre war stars of their newspapers the war reporters experienced a post war wave of anger and cynicism which took years to overcome Dispatches from the Front Stanley Hauerwas,1995 God knows it is hard to make God boring Stanley Hauerwas writes but American Christians aided and abetted by theologians have accomplished that feat Whatever might be said about Hauerwas and there is plenty no one has ever accused him of being boring and in this book he delivers another jolt to all those who think that Christian theology is a matter of indifference to our secular society At once Christian theology and social criticism this book aims to show that the two cannot be separated In this spirit Hauerwas mounts a forceful attack on current sentimentalities about the significance of democracy the importance of the family and compassion which appears here as a literally fatal virtue In this time of the decline of religious knowledge when knowing a little about a religion tends to do more harm than good Hauerwas offers direction to those who would make Christian discourse both useful and truthful Animated by a deep commitment his essays exhibit the difference that Christian theology can make in the shaping of lives and the world
