Art, Farming and Food for the Future Barbara L. Benish, Nathalie Blanc, 2022-09-30 This book explores the impact of artistic experiments in inspiring people to turn away from current food consumerism and take an active role in preserving sustaining and protecting the environment As artists are expanding their practice into social justice and community concerns erasing traditional forms of expression and integrating others the culture around food and its production has been added to a new vocabulary of experiential art The authors measure the impact of such experiments on local food consumption and production focusing on education and youth both in the surrounding community and culture at large They suggest how these projects can be up scaled to further encourage sustainable solutions for our environment and communities The book explores the reflections and motivations of case study practitioners in urban and rural areas and through interviews engages with artists who are pioneering a new trend to create hubs of activity away from traditional art spaces in cities to follow a non hierarchal practice that is de centralized and communally based This book will be of great interest to academic readers concerned with issues related to environmental aesthetics eco design eco criticism culture heritage memory and identity and those interested in the current debates on the place of aesthetics and culture in sustainability Ecoagriculture for a Sustainable Food Future Nicole Y. Chalmer, 2021-05-03 Global food security is dependent on ecologically viable production systems but current agricultural practices are often at odds with environmental sustainability Resolving this disparity is a huge task but there is much that can be learned from traditional food production systems that persisted for thousands of years Ecoagriculture for a Sustainable Food Future describes the ecological history of food production systems in Australia showing how Aboriginal food systems collapsed when European farming methods were imposed on bushlands The industrialised agricultural systems that are now prevalent across the world require constant input of finite resources and continue to cause destructive environmental change This book explores the damage that has arisen from farming systems unsuited to their environment and presents compelling evidence that producing food is an ecological process that needs to be rethought in order to ensure resilient food production into the future Cultural sensitivity Readers are warned that there may be words descriptions and terms used in this book that are culturally sensitive and which might not normally be used in certain public or community contexts While this information may not reflect current understanding it is provided by the author in a historical context Food for the Future Joséé Boveé, François Dufour, 2005-09-02 It s not easy to eat well To choose food wisely you need to know where it comes from and how it s produced As consumers most of us don t know what we re getting and eating in our supermarkets and restaurants When rumours and food scares circulate in the media we panic Since most of us know very little about the real state of agriculture today and the ways in which the global agricultural industry produces the foods that end up on our plates we have no basis on which to make informed judgements In this important new book Jos Bov and Fran ois Dufour two men from modest farming backgrounds who have become international icons of the resistance to global capitalism unveil the workings of the agricultural industry today and lay down the principles for the creation of a new agriculture for the twenty first century Following on from their international bestseller The World is not For Sale Bov and Dufour have joined forces again to build a constructive programme for the food of the future They seek to make available to every citizen the facts they need in order to understand the crisis of agriculture today and to see how we can move beyond it Presenting a positive agenda for a new kind of agriculture they lay the foundations for a renewal of trust between farmers and citizen consumers in a way that would bring food and the production of food back into the heart of modern society

Elmore, 2021-10-12 Winner of the 2022 IACP Award for Food Issues and Matters Finalist for the 2022 George Perkins Marsh Prize Finalist for the 2022 Hagley Prize in Business History An authoritative and eye opening history that examines how Monsanto came to have outsized influence over our food system Monsanto a St Louis chemical firm that became the world s largest maker of genetically engineered seeds merged with German pharma biotech giant Bayer in 2018 but its Roundup Ready seeds introduced twenty five years ago are still reshaping the farms that feed us When researchers found trace amounts of the firm s blockbuster herbicide in breakfast cereal bowls Monsanto faced public outcry Award winning historian Bartow J Elmore shows how the Roundup story is just one of the troubling threads of Monsanto s past many told here and woven together for the first time A company employee sitting on potentially explosive information who weighs risking everything to tell his story A town whose residents are urged to avoid their basements because Monsanto s radioactive waste laces their homes foundations Factory workers who peel off layers of their skin before accepting cash bonuses to continue dirty jobs An executive wrestling with the ethics of selling a profitable product he knew was toxic Incorporating global fieldwork interviews with company employees and untapped corporate and government records Elmore traces Monsanto s astounding evolution from a scrappy chemical startup to a global agribusiness powerhouse Monsanto used seed money derived from toxic products including PCBs and Agent Orange to build an agricultural empire promising endless bounty through its genetically engineered technology Skyrocketing sales of Monsanto s new Roundup Ready system stunned even those in the seed trade who marveled at the influx of cash and lavish incentives into their sleepy sector But as new data emerges about the Roundup system and as Bayer faces a tide of lawsuits over Monsanto products past and present Elmore s urgent history shows how our food future is still

of Food Evan Bowness, Evan Fraser, Robert Newell, Lenore Lauri Newman, Rodrigo Luiz Morais-da-Silva, Alesandros Glaros, Sarah-Louise Ruder, Mariana Hase Ueta, Jessica Mukiri, 2025-04-24 Cellular agriculture refers to a suite of technologies for using cell cultures and advanced fermentation instead of live animals e.g. livestock, poultry, fisheries to produce food for human consumption. Cellular agriculture is positioned to drive significant changes across the food system. While there is much and growing interest in this area of research, a focused and in-depth critical examination of the social implications surrounding this emerging technology remains underdeveloped. Social science research that assesses the degree to which these technologies both alleviate and reproduce existing social and ecological problems is therefore needed. This Research Topic will feature research that responds to this need. We seek empirical, theoretical, and analytical papers that address the social, political, ethical, and cultural implications of cellular agriculture. Ideally, these papers will examine the prospects of cellular agriculture as a vehicle for, but also a potential hindrance to, social and ecological sustainability and justice. We welcome disciplinary, interdisciplinary, and transdisciplinary submissions of conceptual and empirical research, articles, reviews, and commentaries from within and beyond geography, sociology, economics, urban studies, philosophy, political economy, and political science. We also seek work resulting from transdisciplinary collaborations that extend beyond the academy.

Crop Yields and Prices, and Our Future Food Supply George Frederick Warren, 1914

The Future of Food Mustafa Bayram, Çağlar Gökırmaklı, 2020-03-30 The destiny of humans is parallel to the destiny of food. If the latter is available, then the former will also be present. The definition of food today is very different from that of our ancestors who saw it as a nutritious thing that may be obtainable through collecting or planting. However, today food can be modified genetically and made through molecular synthesis. This book discusses the future of food and explores the context of novel definitions of food through horizon scanning. It considers the most cutting-edge developments in the food industry, including lab meat, nano-engineered foods, vertical agriculture, foodomics, and Marsfoods. The book also investigates new food engineering, processing techniques, future technologies, and future consumption trends.
