Spaces of the Mind Elaine Jahner, 2004-01-01 Spaces of the Mind reveals how both immigrant European and modern Native communities and individuals use oral and written narratives to define and center themselves in time and space Elaine A Jahner skillfully weaves together years of fieldwork among the Standing Rock Sioux in North Dakota her own memories of growing up in a German Russian town across the Missouri River from the Standing Rock Sioux and an illuminating set of narrative concepts Spaces of the Mind proposes a theory of cognitive style that emphasizes the ways in which distinct cultural identities are expressed through the structure of a narrative and the unfolding of its performance telling or reading Themes of creativity and survival amid loss pervade the stories told by Natives about themselves and their past when discussing the inundation of the original Standing Rock Sioux village during the Oahe Dam construction in the 1950s Immigrant Germans and Alsatians struggled to reconcile the hardships of the northern Plains with what they left behind in the Old World and the narratives of a German Russian community reflect and encourage survival in the face of transition Jahner also studies how two prominent novelists James Welch a member of the Blackfeet community and Mildred Walker who left her native New England for the West perceive a single landscape the state of Montana and how it has influenced their thought and narratives Spaces of the Mind provides a fresh understanding of Western literature and culture encourages a reconsideration of the formation and modern character of the American West and contributes to a fuller appreciation of the significance of narrative

Spirit and Resistance George E. Tinker, 2004-09-15 Writing from a Native American perspective theologian Tinker probes American Indian culture its vast religious and cultural legacy and its ambiguous relationship to the tradition historic Christianity that colonized and converted it He offers novel proposals about cultural survival and identity sustainability and the endangered health of Native Americans

Bad Land Pastoralism in Great Plains Fiction Matthew J. C. Cella, 2010-04-15 At the core of this nuanced book is the question that ecocritics have been debating for decades what is the relationship between aesthetics and activism between art and community By using a pastoral lens to examine ten fictional narratives that chronicle the dialogue between human culture and nonhuman nature on the Great Plains Matthew Cella explores literary treatments of a succession of abrupt cultural transitions from the Euroamerican conquest of the Indian wilderness in the nineteenth century to the Buffalo Commons phenomenon in the twentieth By charting the shifting meaning of land use and biocultural change in the region he posits this bad land the arid West as a crucible for the development of the human imagination Each chapter deals closely with two novels that chronicle the same crisis within the Plains community Cella highlights for example how Willa Cather reconciles her persistent romanticism with a growing disillusionment about the future of rural Nebraska how Tillie Olsen and Frederick Manfred approach the tragedy of the Dust Bowl with strikingly similar visions and how Annie Proulx and Thomas King use the return of the buffalo as the centerpiece of a revised mythology of the Plains as a palimpsest defined by layers of change and response By illuminating these fictional quests for wholeness on the Great Plains Cella leads us to understand the intricate interdependency of people and the places they inhabit Cella uses the term pastoralism in its broadest sense to mean a mode of thinking that probes the relationship between nature and culture a discourse concerned with human engagement material and nonmaterial with the nonhuman community In all ten novels discussed in this book pastoral experience the encounter with the Beautiful leads to a renewed understanding of the integral connection between human and nonhuman communities Propelling this tradition of bad land pastoralism are an underlying faith in the beauty of wholeness that comes from inhabiting a continuously changing biocultural landscape and a recognition of the inevitability of change The power of story and language to shape the direction of that change gives literary pastoralism the potential to support an alternative series of ideals based not on escape but on stewardship community continuity and commitment

The Appropriation of Native American Spirituality Suzanne Owen, 2011-10-20 Native Americans and Canadians are largely romanticised or sidelined figures in modern society Their spirituality has been appropriated on a relatively large scale by Europeans and non Native Americans with little concern for the diversity of Native American opinions Suzanne Owen offers an insight into appropriation that will bring a new understanding and perspective to these debates This important volume collects together these key debates from the last 25 years and sets them in context analyses Native American objections to appropriations of their spirituality and examines New Age practices based on Native American spirituality The Appropriation of Native American Spirituality includes the findings of fieldwork among the Mi Kmaq of Newfoundland on the sharing of ceremonies between Native Americans and First Nations which highlights an aspect of the debate that has been under researched in both anthropology and religious studies that Native American discourses about the breaking of protocols rules on the participation and performance of ceremonies is at the heart of objections to the appropriation of Native American spirituality

Lakota Portraits Joseph Agonito, 2011-08-02 A moving thoughtful beautifully illustrated look at the lives of men and women who helped shape the history of the Lakota people and the American West Lakota Portraits weaves together vignettes of Lakotas including both prominent and ordinary individuals to tell the story of the Lakota people It covers the sweep of Lakota history from earliest years focusing on the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Examining the question of who the Lakota people are Joseph Agonito explores the days of nomadic freedom on the Great Plains Lakota culture and religion internal struggles the coming of European settlers conflicts generated by waves of miners and immigrants clashes with white authorities war with American soldiers the loss of freedom the countless challenges encountered in transitioning to the reservation and life on and off the reservations While numerous books tell the history of the Lakota people Lakota Portraits tells their story through the colorful lives and experiences of various notable individuals who span that history Each vignette tells a piece of the narrative both grand and commonplace stories of men and women Together these stories paint a picture of a courageous vibrant people full of life and love for the Lakota nation and their homeland Unlike other books on the Lakota Lakota Portraits spends considerable time on the reservation years well into the twentieth century and the characters who helped shape the difficult and painful adjustments the Lakota people made to life on and off the agencies

Masculinities in Literature of the American West Lydia R. Cooper, 2016-11-15 The Western genre provides the most widely recognized iconic images of masculinity in the United States gun slinging laconic white male heroes who emphasize individualism violence and an idiosyncratic form of justice This idealized masculinity has been fused with ideas of national identity and character Masculinities in Literature of the American West examines how contemporary literary Westerns push back against the coded image of the Western hero exposing pervasive anxieties about what it means to act like a man Contemporary Westerns critique assumptions about innate connections between power masculinity and American character that influence public rhetoric even in the late 20th and early 21st centuries These novels struggle with the monumental challenge of all Westerns the challenge of being human in a place where being a man is so strictly coded so unachievable so complicit in atrocity and so desirable that it is worth dying for or perhaps worth nothing at all Contemporary Native Fiction James Donahue, 2019-02-21 Contemporary Native Fiction Toward a Narrative Poetics of Survivance analyzes paradigmatic works of contemporary Native American First Nations literary fiction using the tools of narrative theory Each chapter is read through the lens of a narrative theory structuralist narratology feminist narratology rhetorical narratology and unnatural narratology in order to demonstrate how the formal structure of these narratives engage the political issues raised in the text Additionally each chapter shows how the inclusion of Native American First Nations authored narratives productively advance the theoretical work project of those narrative theories This book offers a broad survey of possible means by which narrative theory and critical race theories can productively work together and is key reading for students and researchers working in this area Other Destinies Louis Owens, 1994 This first book length critical analysis of the full range of novels written between 1854 and today by American Indian authors takes as its theme the search for self discovery and cultural recovery In his introduction Louis Owens places the novels in context by considering their relationships to traditional American Indian oral literature as well as their differences from mainstream Euroamerican literature In the following chapters he looks at the novels of John Rollin Ridge Mourning Dove John Joseph Mathews D Arcy McNickle N Scott Momaday James Welch Leslie Marmon Silko Louise Erdrich Michael Dorris and Gerald Vizenor These authors are mixedbloods who in their writing try to come to terms with the marginalization both of mixed bloods and fullbloods and of their cultures in American society Their novels are complex and sophisticated narratives of cultural survival and survival guides for fullbloods and mixedbloods in modern America Rejecting the stereotypes and cliches long attached to the word Indian they appropriate and adapt the colonizers language English to describe the Indian experience These novels embody the American Indian point of view the non Indian is required to assume the role of other In his analysis Owens draws on a broad range of literary theory myth and folklore structuralism modernism poststructuralism and particularly postmodernism At the same time he argues that although recent American Indian fiction incorporates a number of significant elements often identified with postmodern writing it contradicts the primary impulse of postmodernism That is instead of celebrating fragmentation ephemerality and chaos these authors insist upon a cultural center that is intact and recoverable upon immutable values and ecological truths Other Destinies provides a new critical approach to novels by American Indians It also offers a comprehensive introduction to the novels helping teachers bring this important fiction to the classroom What are They Saying about Environmental Theology? John Hart, 2004 This book offers a comprehensive analysis of Catholic teachings on environmental themes by exploring official statements from Rome and the bishops of the Americas as well as from contemporary visionary theologians p 4 cover
