Improvements Program (MsCIP), Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson Counties, 2009 Handbook of Sustainable Development and Leisure Services Adrian Lubowiecki-Vikuk, Bruno Miguel Barbosa de Sousa, Bojan M. Derčan, Walter Leal Filho, 2021-01-16 This book reviews empirical and theoretical research on sustainable development in the context of leisure management for communities. Although leading research centers are pursuing interdisciplinary research on leisure in the context of sustainable development there are still few papers that holistically address the current challenges in this area. In addition demographic changes have made the promotion of a healthy lifestyle essential. Doing so requires responsible behavior on the part of various stakeholders in this market. This book fills an important gap in the literature and gathers contributions from an interdisciplinary and international team of authors whose fields of expertise include human geography management intersections of sustainability and leisure behavioral psychology and tourism. Civil society organizations' roles in land-use planning and community land rights issues in Kapuas Hulu regency, West Kalimantan, Indonesia Anis Chakib, 2014-12-29 In Indonesia logging and oil palm concessions attributed by the government have caused high rates of deforestation and forest degradation. Community land rights have been generally ignored on the pretext of development needs and general interest. In reaction a growing number of civil society organizations CSOs have addressed these environmental and social issues at the national level. With the introduction of the decentralization process following the fall of the dictator Suharto in 1998 land use planning became relevant at the province and regency levels. The Kapuas Hulu regency in West Kalimantan revised its land use plan in 2010. A variety of CSOs have tried to influence land use planning LUP processes and community land rights issues in Kapuas Hulu. Few international conservation NGOs have used soft lobbying approaches with the Kapuas Hulu Government. They contribute to the policy decision making process and to field project implementation. At the same time at the province scale a large Indonesian CSO coalition challenged the government and criticized the lack of civil society participation and community land rights recognition during the LUP process. Thus CSOs play various roles in LUP and community rights issues using different strategic approaches at different scales. Survival and Sustainability Hüseyin Gökçekus, Umut Türker, James W.
