Biblical Economic Policy: Ten Scriptural Truths for Fiscal and Monetary Decision-Making David Arnott

PhD, Sergiy Saydometov PhD ,2021-09-06 What does the Bible say about economics A lot What about socialism which is becoming an increasingly common concern in US economic policy discussions In Biblical Economic Policy Arnott and Saydometov build a biblical framework for analyzing national economic policy that takes on everything from taxes to spending to tariffs to minimum wage The Bible has something to say about all these critical present day issues and this book explains how to apply it to 21st century policies Authors Dave Arnott and Sergiy Saydometov hold up the mirror of the Bible and ask their fellow Christians Is this the way we re supposed to run a biblical economy What the book is not It is NOT a financial advice book It is NOT about how to apply business principles at work It is NOT about stewardship or giving It is NOT about how to run your business for the glory of God Biblical Economic Policy takes the macroeconomic view and analyzes how well America s economic policies align with biblical principles This book tackles difficult present day economic policies including taxes spending national debt interest rates and money supply Written with sound biblical grounding in accessible language Biblical Economic Policy will turn the common reader into a biblical economic analyst

Handbook of Behavioural Economics and Smart Decision-Making Morris Altman,2017-05-26 This Handbook is a unique and original contribution of over thirty chapters on behavioural economics examining and addressing an important stream of research where the starting assumption is that decision makers are for the most part relatively smart or rational This particular approach is in contrast to a theme running through much contemporary work where individuals behaviour is deemed irrational biased and error prone often due to how people are hardwired In the smart people approach where errors or biases occur and when social dilemmas arise more often than not improving the decision making environment can repair these problems without hijacking or manipulating the preferences of decision makers This book covers a wide range of themes from micro to macro including various sub disciplines within economics such as economic psychology heuristics fast and slow thinking neuroeconomics experiments the capabilities approach institutional economics methodology nudging ethics and public policy

Decision making behaviour and its influence on social and economic performance of farm households in Hyderabad-Karnataka region Nagesh N. S, Amrutha T. Joshi , Prem Jose Vazhacharickal, Farmers in developing countries are frequently exposed to the uncertainties of weather prices and disease Thus decision making behaviour plays a crucial role every day affecting farming operations The study was carried out in Raichur Kalaburagi and Koppal districts From each district two taluks were selected and from each taluk two gram panchayats were selected randomly and from each panchayat a village was selected randomly From each selected village 15 farmers were randomly selected and the total sample size constituted 180 respondents The attitude of farmers towards farming in irrigated situation was better than the attitude of farmers in rainfed situation The overall decision making behaviour was better in irrigated situation compared to rainfed situation Achievement motivation and decision making behaviour were found to be significantly influencing the annual agricultural income As the decision making behaviour score increased by one unit the annual agricultural income increased by 9231 28 Irrigated rainfed dummy number of years of schooling achievement motivation risk orientation and mass media participation were found to be significantly influencing the institutional participation In irrigated situation as evident from the experiment there were 38 per cent of the respondents in the risk averse category In the case of rainfed situation it is alarming to note that as high as 52 per cent of the respondents were in the risk averse group on loss of toss The irrigated farmers were more likely to take up loan in comparison to rainfed farmers Number of family members had a positive influence on migration while the decision making behaviour score had a negative influence on migration There is evidence of framing bias and anchoring bias among the sample respondents The farmers were willing to pay more for weather information compared to market and plant protection information

Behavioral and neuroscientific analysis of economic decision making in animals Tobias Kalenscher, Marijn Van Wingerden, The experimental analysis of animal behavior has a rich tradition in psychology behavioral ecology and many other scientific branches dedicated to the study of decision making However it has never enjoyed a similar popularity in economics This has recently changed with the dawn of neuroeconomics a discipline combining the analytic and experimental tools of psychology and economics with the technologies available in neuroscience to unravel the neurobiological mechanisms underlying economic behavior Since many of the sophisticated neuroscientific techniques can only be used on animals neuroeconomists have come up with a large and ever growing repertoire of animal models to probe economic decision making Besides the value of using animals as model systems to emulate human economic behavior the discipline of animal economic decision making exists in its very own right an abundance of animal species at various evolutionary stages show behavior that complies with many of the predictions of economic theory whilst at the same time demonstrating violations of optimal choice models that are reminiscent of similar anomalies found in human behavior Hence the analysis of animal choice does not only offer insights into the evolutionary origins of economic decision making it also testifies that the analysis of animal behavior is a convenient economical and sound way to test competing economic decision models in optimally controlled experimental environments to probe their neural implementation and to yield common denominators in choice behavior In short economic theory provides more than just an alternative language to describe animal psychology its combination with biology psychology and neuroscience gives way to synergy effects that open up new venues for studying economic choice In this special issue we would like to gather the latest results from this cross disciplinary topic address the overlap and discrepancies in the neurobiology of economic decision making found between species and identify the challenges that lie ahead in translating results from species to species and ultimately to humans The exclusive focus on non human animals makes this Research Topic unique and distinct from previous special issues which covered a broader range of matters and subjects in the neurobiological analysis of decision making

Psychology of Decision Making in Economics, Business and Finance Klaus P. Hofmann, 2007 In a fast moving world the necessity of making decisions and preferably good ones has become even more difficult One reason is the variety and number of choices perhaps available which often are not presented or understood Alternatives are often unclear and complex paths to them confusing and misleading Thus the process of decision making itself requires analysis on an ongoing basis Decision making is often made based on cultural factors whereas the best alternative might be quite different The subject touches ethics aspects as well as psychological considerations This book presents important research on the psychology of decision making related to economics business and finance Behavioral Economics Unveiled: Essential Techniques for Understanding and Shaping Consumer Decisions Herb French, 2025-04-09 Are you fascinated by the hidden forces that drive our choices Have you ever wondered why people behave irrationally even when it comes to their own best interests This book offers a captivating exploration of behavioral economics a field that blends psychology and economics to reveal the often surprising ways people make decisions You ll uncover the biases heuristics and cognitive shortcuts that influence our spending habits risk tolerance and overall behavior as consumers Prepare to have your assumptions challenged as we explore concepts like Loss aversion Why the pain of a loss outweighs the pleasure of an equivalent gain Framing effects How the way information is presented can drastically alter our choices The power of social influence Why we often follow the crowd even when it doesn t make sense This book arms you with practical techniques to understand and leverage these insights Whether you re a marketer seeking to refine your strategies an entrepreneur aiming to connect with your target audience or simply someone curious about the human mind the knowledge within these pages will empower you to make more informed decisions both for yourself and those you hope to influence
