Service-eLearning Amber Dailey-Hebert, Emily Donnelly Sallee, Laurie N. DiPadova-Stocks, 2008-06-01 This edited collection the first of its kind marries the two fastest growing movements in higher education service learning and eLearning While these two innovative pedagogies are widely assumed to be incompatible this collection highlights their complementary approaches as a new teaching method for 21st Century learners The collection offers a new pedagogical model service service eLearning defined as an integrative pedagogy that engages learners through technology in civic inquiry service reflection and action Service learning is an academically rigorous instructional method that incorporates meaningful community service into the curriculum Focusing on critical reflective thinking and civic responsibility servicelearning involves students in organized community service that addresses local needs while developing their academic skills respect for others and commitment to the common good DiPadova Stocks 2006 At the same time distance education has grown from paper based correspondence courses to highly interactive and dynamic pedagogies that incorporate online technologies to ensure rapid and meaningful interaction between geographically dispersed faculty and students The goal of this edited collection is to consider how these two educational innovations have and can combine to further encourage civic engagement while meeting the demands of an increasingly global competitive and diverse educational marketplace This edited collection the first of its kind defines and addresses the emergent blending of service learning and eLearning to create a new integrated pedagogical model service eLearning Service eLearning Educating for Citizenship starts a conversation about the marriage of two powerful educational innovations While readers of this collection may be familiar with existing work on service learning and technology use this book demonstrates the potential of a new model which acknowledges eLearning as a pedagogy within its own right The new model presented here blends eLearning pedagogy with existing approaches to service learning The result is an integrated pedagogical approach Service eLearning As the work presented herein highlights service eLearning responds to the challenges of today s rapidly changing technology mediated reality Leading the eLearning Transformation of Higher Education Gary E.

Miller, Kathleen S. Ives, 2023-07-03 Published in Association with eLearning has entered the mainstream of higher education as an agent of strategic change This transformation requires eLearning leaders to develop the skills to innovate successfully at a time of heightened competition and rapid technological change In this environment eLearning leaders must act within their institutions as much more than technology managers and assume the prime role of helping their institutions understand the opportunities that eLearning presents for faculty for students and for client organizations in the community They need to prepare to participate in policy development around these opportunities They must understand the multiple dimensions of practice in the field operations administration and working within the complex culture of a higher education institution while also functioning as scholars of the field who can bring the best ideas from other institutions to help shape policy around eLearning The second edition builds on the success of the first edition and presents both the collective expertise of veterans who have pioneered the field for 20 years and of a rising generation of eLearning leaders that are transforming online programs at their own institutions to address these challenges This edition has been updated and expanded to reflect the increasing complexity of the field with seven new chapters and the revision of eight chapters that appeared in the first edition New and updated topics include The evolving role of the chief online learning officer Issues of diversity as more women and minorities enter leadership roles in the field The increasing role of learning analytics and data based decisions The potential tensions involved in cohort based versus individualized instruction The increasing need for faculty professional development The affordances of cloud computing adaptive learning artificial intelligence the internet of things and mobile learning to the field The open educational resources movement and the implications for institutional policy and practice The challenges of an increasingly complex competitive environment Accessibility There are few comparable positions in higher education than that of eLearning leaders who work across multiple academic and support units and whose work fundamentally affects the institution as a whole This volume is written for them Electronic Learning Communities
