Housing Management Consumers And Citizens:

Housing Management, Consumers and Citizens Liz Caincross, David Clapham, Robina Goodlad, 2013-02-01 Tenant participation has grown substantially over the last decade following government legislation advice from professional bodies and development agencies and promotion by all major political parties On few housing issues is there such consensus Yet in practice it is obvious that participation can mean very different things in different contexts This book explains why this is the case and examines the growth of participation in the context of changes in the role of local authorities and their relationship with their electorates These issues are examined in the first part of the book which sets the context for exploring the roles of housing managers councillors tenants and tenants associations in the second part The book argues that the rise in arrangements for tenant participation masks considerable differences in the role played by tenants in different areas These differences raise questions about the nature of power in the tenant landlord relationship and more generally in the relationship between local government citizens and consumers These issues are examined in the final third part of the book

The Consumer in Public Services Ian Greener, Martin Powell, Richard Simmons, 2009-04-15 The consumer in public services critiques established assumptions surrounding citizenship and consumption Drawing on empirical research it challenges existing stereotypes about the consumer as chooser and shows how we must develop a more sophisticated understanding of consumers examining their place and role as users of public services

Inclusive Housing Management and Community Wellbeing Kwok-yu Edward Lee, Wai-wan Vivien Chan, 2024-07-01 This book examines the contributory role of inclusive housing management services in safeguarding the living environment empowering neighborhoods sustaining lovable home building social capital fostering community wellbeing and social sustainability from the perspective of the sociology of housing By repositioning professional housing management as an important driving force in community building this book argues that the community initiated inclusive housing management model has been acting as a cornerstone in enhancing a sense of belonging cultural renewal environmental sustainability social integration and community cohesion particularly in cities with high density and compact development This case study in Hong Kong will make an important contribution to interdisciplinary research in urban sociology business management community development leadership building and environmental health This study also contributes to the international literature on the dynamics of neighborhood and community governance by addressing the concrete local community initiatives and collaborative management practices in meeting the ever changing environmental social and health risks in Hong Kong and beyond It will be of value to scholars researching on housing management and inclusive community building in world cities globally

The meaning of housing Clapham, David, 2005-07-20 This book offers a fresh new approach to the study of housing It explores the meaning that housing has for individuals and households by examining housing pathways Housing pathways refer to the varying household forms that individuals experience and the housing routes that they take over time

The book argues that housing has increasingly become a means to an end rather than an end in itself. The end is personal fulfilment and the main task of housing research is to elucidate the links. In this pursuit the concepts of identity and lifestyle are key. Specifically the book examines the structure and functioning of households and links this to changing discourses of the family, explores the important interconnections between housing and employment, considers the relationship between people and the physical aspects of a house and its location, looks at housing in terms of lifestyle choice from youth to old age and discusses the implications of the pathways approach for housing policy and future research in the field. The meaning of housing is recommended to anyone researching and studying housing and particularly to those wishing to engage with the new research agenda set out here.

Housing Policy in the UK David Mullins, Alan Murie, 2017-09-16

Housing Policy in the UK is a major new textbook that traces the emergence of a new comprehensive housing policy in the wake of the Communities Plan and regionalisation. Grounded in cutting edge research and analysis it provides a clear account of the evolution and current dimensions and tensions at the heart of this policy.

Decentralising Public Service Management Johnston Birchall, Keith Putman, Christopher Pollitt, 2016-01-01

Decentralise authority and let managers manage has been an almost universal message in UK public services over the last 15 years. But does it really work? Drawing on their own and a wide range of other research the authors show that behind the ministerial rhetoric the experiences of NHS trusts, grant maintained schools and housing associations were in practice distinctly mixed. The book offers a sophisticated theoretical analysis of the origins and results of decentralised public management in the UK.

Zero-carbon Homes Joanna Williams, 2013-04-15

Housing is a major contributor to CO₂ emissions in Europe and America today and the construction of new homes offers an opportunity to address this issue. Providing homes that achieve zero carbon, carbon neutral, zero net energy or energy plus standard is becoming the goal of more innovative house builders globally whilst energy providers seek to decarbonise the energy supply to new and existing development. Various new technical systems for achieving these goals are beginning to emerge. For example the passive house whose energy requirement for space heating and cooling is almost zero, the smart grid that has revolutionized the management of energy whilst enabling the connection of small scale renewable energy producers and electric vehicles to the grid or the European super grid which will enable zero carbon energy to be generated in the Sahara desert and stored in Norway. This book explores the diverse approaches that are being adopted around the world to deliver zero carbon homes and the different societal systems and geographic circumstances in which they have developed. It postulates a roadmap for delivering zero carbon homes together with a toolbox approach for policy and practice to suit particular national and local circumstances. A series of case studies are presented that offer lessons for delivering zero carbon homes. These examples are also used to demonstrate how prototype systems can move into the mainstream. The book highlights some of the instruments and mechanisms that could be used to support this transformation and addresses the wider implications of introducing these innovative systems in terms of industry lifestyle.
