Social Work, Parents and the Child Protection Process Katrin Bain, John Harris, 2024-10-18 Despite the pivotal role played by parents in the child protection process little attention has been paid to how social workers perceive them Exploring representations of parents within Children's Services at the levels of policy organisation and frontline practice the concept of citizenship is used to construct a typology with ten variants of parent citizenship The typology reveals the complexities of parental representations and their relationship to the content of policy organisational environments and dominant societal themes as it uncovers how social workers represent parents in their day to day practice The book is a resource that can be used by students practitioners researchers and parent advocacy organisations to evaluate policy and practice and to contribute to the search for the best possible outcomes for families Arguing that parental participation in the child protection process is essential the book increases the visibility of parents and contributes to a much needed dialogue about working with parents in Children s Services

Improving services and support for people with dementia Great Britain: National Audit Office,2007-07-04 Dementia is a term for a range of progressive terminal organic brain diseases including Alzheimer s Some 560 000 people in England are estimated to have dementia with a steeply rising trend over the coming years Some 476 000 people are unpaid carers of people with dementia Direct costs to the NHS and social care are currently at least 3 3 billion a year but the overall annual economic burden is estimated at 14 3 billion This report examines what health and social care services are available for people with dementia and their unpaid carers in England and whether they are providing effective and good quality support Until 2005 the Department of Health attached little priority to dementia and progress was hampered by a lack of good quality data by stigma and by the low level of political and national focus on older people s mental health The NAO conclude that services are not currently delivering value for money to taxpayers or people with dementia and their families Whilst health and social care services are spending significantly on dementia spending is late too few people are being diagnosed or being diagnosed early enough Early interventions that are known to be cost effective and which would improve quality of life are not being made widely available Services in the community care homes and at the end of life are not delivering consistently or cost effectively against the objective of supporting people to live independently as long as possible in the place of their choosing The rapid ageing of the population means costs will rise and services are likely to become increasingly inconsistent and unsustainable without redesign Recommendations cover improving diagnosis and early intervention improving management of services gearing the system to respond to the major challenges of dementia in the future
