Horton Foote's Three Trips To Bountiful:

Horton Foote's Three Trips to Bountiful Horton Foote, Barbara Moore, David G. Yellin, 1993 The acclaimed playwright and screenwriter Horton Foote wrote The Trip to Bountiful for Philco Goodyear Television Playhouse in 1953 during the golden age of live television drama. The teleplay was so successful that an expanded version opened on the Broadway stage eight months later starring the same leading lady Lillian Gish. Over thirty years later Foote converted the play into a screenplay that became the vehicle for Geraldine Page's Oscar winning performance as Carrie Watts, the aging widow who yearns to return to her home place to the vanished Texas town of Bountiful. This volume is a comparative media study that collects the three scripts and examines the way Horton Foote's words and vision make the transition from television screen to stage to film. Moore and Yellin show Foote to be a preservationist making minimal changes as he adjusts for the restrictions of time and technology in each medium. In a general introduction the editors discuss Foote's themes going away and coming home again, the need for a sense of continuity with the past, and define his typical characters: small town simple folk who face the knowledge that their straitened lives probably will not improve. Moore and Yellin briefly analyze the differences and similarities among the three versions of the play, demonstrating the necessity for each to meet the demands of a profit making business. Preceding each script the editors discuss the circumstances surrounding the production, the technical and aesthetic limitations influencing and shaping the performance. This volume also includes four interviews with Horton Foote: with the film's co-producer Sterling Van Wagenen, with Peter Masterson its director, and with Carlin Glynn who played the supporting role of Jessie Mae in the film. What ultimately emerges from the discussion of the three versions is a glimpse into the way a writer can function within the structure of the entertainment industry, respond to the limitations of the various media, share the creative process with co-workers, and yet remain true to an original vision. BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc. All Rights Reserved Horton Foote Charles S. Watson, 2010-01-01 Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Drama for The Young Man from Atlanta and Academy Awards for the screen adaptation of To Kill a Mockingbird and the original screenplay Tender Mercies as well as the recipient of an Academy Award nomination for the screenplay of The Trip to Bountiful and the William Inge Lifetime Achievement Award. Horton Foote is one of America's most respected writers for stage and screen. The deep compassion he shows for his characters, the moral vision that infuses his social commentary, and the kindness and humanity that Foote himself radiates have also made him one of our most revered artists: the father figure who understands our longings for home, for human connections, and for certainty in a world largely bereft of these. This literary biography thoroughly investigates how Horton Foote's life and worldview have shaped his works for stage, television, and film. Tracing the whole trajectory of Foote's career from his small town Texas upbringing to the present day, Charles Watson demonstrates that Foote has created a fully imagined mythical world from the materials supplied by his own and his family's and friends' lives in Wharton, Texas, in the early twentieth century Devoting attention to each of Foote's major works in turn he shows how this world took shape in Foote's writing for the New York stage Golden Age television Hollywood films and in his nine play masterpiece The Orphan's Home Cycle Throughout Watson's focus on Foote as a master playwright and his extensive use of the dramatist's unpublished correspondence make this literary biography required reading for all who admire the work of Horton Foote

The History of Southern Drama Charles S. Watson, 2021-12-14 Mention southern drama at a cocktail party or in an American literature survey and you may hear cries for Stella or laments for gentleman callers Yet southern drama depends on much more than a menagerie of highly strung spinsters and steel magnolias Charles Watson explores this field from its eighteenth and nineteenth century roots through the southern Literary Renaissance and Tennessee Williams's triumphs to the plays of Horton Foote winner of the 1994 Pulitzer Prize Such well known modern figures as Lillian Hellman and DuBose Heyward earn fresh looks as does Tennessee Williams's changing depiction of the

Orphans' Home Laurin Porter, 2003-04-01 A Pulitzer Prize winning playwright an Emmy winning television writer and an Oscar winning screenwriter of such notable films as To Kill a Mockingbird Tender Mercies and A Trip to Bountiful the amazingly versatile Horton Foote has been a force on the American cultural scene for more than fifty years By critical consensus Foote's foremost achievement is The Orphans Home Cycle a course of nine independent yet interlocking plays that traces the transformation over twenty six years of a small town southern orphan Horace Robedaux into a husband father and patriarch Drawing on a wide range of sources including interviews with Foote Laurin Porter demonstrates why the author's masterpiece is a unique accomplishment not only in his personal oeuvre but also in the canon of American drama Set in and near Harrison Texas the fictitious counterpart to Foote's native Wharton and based partly on his father's childhood and his parents courtship and marriage the plays introduce two extended families those of Horace and his wife Eliazbeth across three generations as well as numerous townspeople whose lives intertwine with theirs The result is a wide ranging intricate work of interconnected stories reminiscent of William Faulkner's Yoknapatawpha saga Porter shows how the small town southern culture speaks through Horace while she examines the functions of family and community in identity formation She explains that Foote's signature style which replaces stage directions poetic language and suspense driven narratives with sparse restrained dialogue and seemingly actionless plots creates a simmering power by stressing subtext over text a strategy more often associated with the novel than drama Similarly Foote uses recurring character types and motifs interrelated images and symbols and parallel and inverted events that reverberate within and among the plays employing language and structure in innovative ways In comparing the cycle with the works of William Faulkner and Eugene O'Neill Porter positions Foote at the intersection of southern literature and American drama Foote's emphasis Porter concludes is not so much on returning home as on leaving it and building a new family contending that for Foote home is not a place but a geography of the heart Her definitive Orphans Home shines much needed light on an understudied talent and proves Foote's to be a vital American voice

The World Is Our Home Jeffrey J.
