Hospice Jack McKay Zimmerman, 1981

Nutritional Care of the Terminally Ill Charlette R. Gallagher-Allred, 1989

Abstract This book is an authoritative and complete text on the nutritional needs of dying persons in palliative care settings. The information is intended for dietitians on palliative care teams. Topics include specific appropriate nutritional techniques, effective counseling skills, and how to participate in interdisciplinary team meetings. The objective of this document is to define the roles and responsibilities of dietitians working with terminally ill patients.

Stress and Burnout Among Providers Caring for the Terminally Ill and Their Families Lenora F Paradis, 2014-02-04. Written primarily by individuals with hands-on hospice experience, this crucial volume identifies sources of stress among hospice workers and provides workers and managers with strategies to cope with those stressors. It is an enlightening examination of diverse theoretical perspectives and a much-needed investigation on stress and burnout for hospice providers and caregivers. Readers will find concrete suggestions for the alleviation of stress and burnout in their work with the terminally ill, as well as theoretical and research discussions. The authors explore a wide range of subjects and problems faced by nurses, physicians, social workers, caregivers, hospice directors, and volunteers. They also discuss the many factors in hospice care that may foster unfavorable stress reactions and eventual burnout among hospice professionals. Current literature on job stress and burnout among those who care for the terminally ill is examined, and a model of stress and burnout specific to hospice caregivers is presented. The authoritative chapters also identify theories of stress and burnout and the distinction between the two. Anyone who deals with chronic and terminal illness should read Stress and Burnout Among Providers Caring for the Terminally Ill and Their Families. Hospice caregivers and volunteers, social workers, clergy, and health care professionals who work with cancer, renal dialysis, and heart and stroke patients will appreciate the attention given to a subject that has received little study.

Social Work Theory and Practice with the Terminally Ill Joan K Parry, 2014-04-08. Social Work Theory and Practice with the Terminally Ill second edition takes a compassionate look at ways that social workers can help dying people and their families. The social workers who work most effectively with terminally ill patients and their families are the ones who best understand the multifaceted nature of the dying process and its impact on the patient, the family, and even on the health care professionals who work with patients at the end of life. Dr. Parry, who specializes in dying and bereavement, offers astute observations on the stages of dealing with the diagnosis of a terminal illness and the impending death that patients and their families confront. This updated second edition provides valuable new information on ways that social workers can help those with AIDS and their families on traumatic death from any cause, and on the grieving processes of parents. Social Work Theory and Practice with the Terminally Ill second edition also includes stimulating discussions on the interdisciplinary health team, the grieving process, professional burnout, how social workers adapt to working with dying patients, euthanasia, and physician-assisted dying, living wills, and patients' rights. In touching case studies, this volume illustrates the particular needs and concerns of the terminally ill and their families impending losses financial worries job concerns pain unfinished business and spiritual needs and reviews successful interventions used by social workers to help patients and their families work through the dying process
