Hothouse Earth The Greenhouse Effect And Gaia:

Hothouse Earth John R. Gribbin,1990 Hothouse Earth John Gribbin,1990 Hothouse Earth John Gribbin,1992-01-28 Examines global warming as a result of human activities against a broader background of natural climatic processes British science writer Gribbin explains why the world is getting warmer what the change in temperature and rainfall patterns will mean for human society and what can and must be done to slow the pace of these changes Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Hothouse Earth John Gribbin,1990-10 Life in the Hothouse Melanie Lenart,2010-05-15 In this insightful compelling and highly readable work Melanie Lenart an award winning journalist and science writer who holds a PhD in Natural Resources and Global Change examines global warming with the trained eye of a professional scientist And she presents the science in a clear straightforward manner Why does the planet s warming produce stronger hurricanes rising seas and larger floods Simple says Lenart The Earth is just doing what comes naturally Just as humans produce sweat to cool off on a hot day the planet produces hurricanes floods wetlands and forests to cool itself off Life in the Hothouse incorporates Lenart s extensive knowledge of climate science including the latest research in climate change and the most current scientific theories including Gaia theory which holds that the Earth has some degree of climate control built in As Lenart points out scientists have been documenting stronger hurricanes and larger floods for many years There is a good reason for this she notes Hurricanes help cool the ocean surface and clear the air of carbon dioxide the main greenhouse gas responsible for global warming From the perspective of Gaia theory these responses are helping to slow the ongoing global warming and Lenart expounds upon this in a clear and understandable fashion There is hope Lenart writes If we help sustain Earth s natural defense systems including wetlands and forests perhaps Mother Earth will no longer need to rely as much on the cooling effects of what we call natural disasters many of which carry a human fingerprint At a minimum she argues these systems can help us survive the heat A Feminist Companion to the Apocalypse of John Amy-Jill Levine,Maria Mayo Robbins,2010-07-05 An examination of New Testament Apocalyptic literature through the categories of post colonial thought deconstruction ethics Roman social discourse masculinisation virginity and violence

Pettenger, 2016-02-24 Individuals international organizations and states are calling for the world to confront climate change Efforts such as the Kyoto Protocol have produced intractable disputes and are deemed inadequate This volume adopts two constructivist perspectives norm centred and discourse to explore the social construction of climate change from a broad theoretical level to particular cases The contributors contend that climate change must be understood from the context of social settings and that we ignore at our peril how power and knowledge structures are generated They offer a greater understanding of why current efforts to mitigate climate change have failed and provide academics and policy makers with a new understanding of this important topic

Risk John Adams, 2002-09-11 Risk compensation postulates that everyone has a risk thermostat and that safety measures that do not affect the setting of the thermostat will be circumvented by behaviour that re-establishes the level of risk with which people were originally comfortable It explains why for example motorists drive faster after a bend in the road is straightened Cultural theory explains risk taking behaviour by the operation of cultural filters It postulates that behaviour is governed by the probable costs and benefits of alternative courses of action which are perceived through filters formed from all the previous incidents and associations in the risk taker's life Risk should be of interest to many readers throughout the social sciences and in the world of industry business engineering finance and public administration since it deals with a fundamental part of human behaviour that has enormous financial and economic
