Changing Contours of Criminal Justice Mary Bosworth, Carolyn Hoyle, Lucia Zedner, 2016-11-03 Celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Oxford Centre for Criminology this edited collection of essays seeks to explore the changing contours of criminal justice over the past half century and to consider possible shifts over the next few decades The question of how social science disciplines develop and change does not invite any easy answer with the task made all the more difficult given the highly politicised nature of some subjects and the volatile evolving status of its institutions and practices A case in point is criminal justice at once fairly parochial much criminal justice scholarship is now global in its reach and subject areas that are now accepted as central to its study victims restorative justice security privatization terrorism citizenship and migration to name just a few were topics unknown to the discipline half a century ago Indeed most criminologists would have once stoutly denied that they had anything to do with it Likewise some central topics of past criminological attention like probation have largely receded from academic attention and some central criminal justice institutions like Borstal and corporal punishment have at least in Europe been abolished Although the rapidity and radical nature of this change make it quite impossible to predict what criminal justice will look like in fifty years time reflection on such developments may assist in understanding how it arrived at its current form and hint at what the future holds The contributors to this volume have been invited to reflect on the impact Oxford criminology has had on the discipline providing a unique and critical discussion about the current state of criminal justice around the world and the origins and future implications of contemporary practice All are leading internationally renowned criminologists whose work has defined and often re defined our understanding of criminal justice policy and literature

Encyclopedia of Social Work, 1965 Critique and Praxis Bernard E. Harcourt, 2020-08-11 Critical philosophy has always challenged the division between theory and practice At its best it aims to turn contemplation into emancipation seeking to transform society in pursuit of equality autonomy and human flourishing Yet today's critical theory often seems to engage only in critique These times of crisis demand more Bernard E Harcourt challenges us to move beyond decades of philosophical detours and to harness critical thought to the need for action In a time of increasing awareness of economic and social inequality Harcourt calls on us to make society more equal and just Only critical theory can guide us toward a more self-reflexive pursuit of justice Charting a vision for political action and social transformation Harcourt argues that instead of posing the question What is to be done we must now turn it back onto ourselves and ask and answer What more am I to do Critique and Praxis advocates for a new path forward that constantly challenges each and every one of us to ask what more we can do to realize a society based on equality and justice Joining his decades of activism social justice litigation and political engagement with his years of critical theory and philosophical work Harcourt has written a magnum opus

Servants of Globalization Rhacel Parreñas, 2015-08-26 Servants of Globalization offers a groundbreaking study of migrant Filipino domestic workers who leave their own families behind to do the caretaking work of the global economy Since its initial publication the book has informed countless students and scholars and set the research agenda on labor migration and transnational families With this second edition Rhacel Salazar Parreñas returns to Rome and Los Angeles to consider how the migrant communities have changed Children have now joined their parents Male domestic workers are present in significantly greater numbers And perhaps most troubling the population has aged presenting new challenges for the increasingly elderly domestic workers New chapters discuss these three increasingly important constituencies The entire book has been revised and updated and a new introduction offers a global comparative overview of the citizenship status of migrant domestic workers Servants of Globalization remains the defining work on the international division of reproductive labor

Youth 'At the Margins' Sheri Bastien, Halla B. Holmarsdottir, 2015-06-25 This volume comes at a critical juncture as global commitments transition from the Millennium Development Goals to

Sustainable Development Goals and the wider post 2015 development agenda is being discussed and debated In these discussions children and youth have been recognized as one of the nine major groups of civil society whose participation in decision making is essential for achieving sustainable development There is also a concomitant need for action innovative evidence based approaches to addressing entrenched global challenges or wicked problems and engaging youth in those efforts Within academic discourse the perspectives and active participation of youth in research has long been debated It is widely believed that their participation can result in better policy responses and contribute to the development of more relevant and effective interventions and programs to address their needs However the engagement of youth in research processes is not without critique issues such as how to move from tokenism towards authentic participation and empowerment have been critically discussed and many question if youth can or should even be expected to make change happen Youth At the Margins Critical Perspectives and Experiences of Engaging Youth in Research Worldwide brings together a range of critical and empirical contributions from emerging scholars and seasoned academics alike Each contribution provides a unique perspective on the potentialities and challenges associated with youth engaged research The chapters presented in this volume strive to critically interrogate and debate important foundational issues to consider when engaging youth in the research process such as epistemological and methodological considerations Important insights into the ethical pedagogical and practical aspects one must contend with can be gleaned from the selection of chapters here some of which are primarily theoretical and descriptive whilst others present empirical data with case examples from around the world This volume is devoted to showcasing high quality contributions to the scholarly literature on youth engaged research in order to spur further critical debate on the various epistemological methodological and ethical issues associated with engaging youth in research processes and in addressing intractable global issues The audience for this volume includes students researchers and academics within a broad range of fields who are interested in understanding the range of approaches being used worldwide to include youth in research endeavors on issues of global importance including poverty social exclusion structural violence un and under employment education and health
