John Morley:

A Micro-History of Victorian Liberal Parenting Kevin A. Morrison, 2018-02-14 This book explores the theory and practice of Victorian liberal parenting by focusing on the life and writings of John Morley one of Britain's premier intellectuals and politicians Reading Morley's published works much of which explicitly or implicitly addresses this relationship with and against other writings of the period and in the context of formative circumstances in his own life it explores how living one's life as a liberal extended to parenting Although Victorian liberalism is currently undergoing reappraisal by scholars in the disciplines of literature and history only a handful of studies have addressed its implications for intimate personal relations None have considered the relationship of parent and child Four of the chapters document how John Morley was parented and how he defined himself as a parent based on newly available archival materials Two other chapters analyze his many writings on or concerned with parenting and parenthood Empire and Imperial Ambition Mira Matikkala, 2010-11-01 The late nineteenth century is generally thought of as a period of imperial enthusiasm and fervour however beneath the surface there were currents of disquiet and discontent In this book Mira Matikkala examines the modes of thought that were described as anti imperialist in the period 1878-1901 She argues that the common ground between the various critics of imperialism was that they all declared to represent true Englishness in contrast to what they regarded as a distorted imperial identity Previous research has largely embraced the imperialist conception and definition of British imperialism as empire patriotism and general empire pride This has led to a failure to understand the fact that late Victorian anti imperialists comprehended imperialism differently They drew a clear distinction between the empire and imperialism the empire signifying mainly emigration colonisation and the spontaneous spread of English liberal values in the form of the settler empire whereas imperialism as British authoritarian rule in the dependencies was regarded as the negation of the same liberal spirit which the colonies propounded Unlike colonisation imperialism was seen as a new departure in British politics representing anti constitutionalism distorted imperial patriotism militarism aggression and irrational jingoism In contrast to these imperialist manifestations the anti imperialists emphasised the long line from 1688 liberty and constitutional rights in the form of industry and freedom at home and peace fair dealing and moderation abroad In their view these traditional English values constituted true Englishness and any true patriotism would be founded on them The late Victorian debate on imperialism can be loosely grouped into three main categories discussed in the three main parts of the book economy and imperial expansion ethics and the nature of progress and practical politics Empire and the Imperial Ambition will be a significant contribution to the fields of British intellectual history and political thought County Genealogies William Berry, 1830 West Riding Election West Riding of Yorkshire (England), 1849 The Parliamentary Debates Great Britain. Parliament, 1886 Progress and Pessimism Jeffrey Paul Von Arx, 1985 Faith in progress is a characteristic we often associate with the Victorian era Victorian intellectuals and free thinkers who believed in progress and wrote history from a progressive point of view men such as Leslie Stephen John Morley W E H Lecky and James Anthony Froude are usually thought to have done so because they were optimistic about their own times Their optimism has been seen as the result of a successful Liberal campaign for political reform in the sixties and seventies carried out in alliance with religious dissenters a campaign that removed religion from the arena of public debate Jeffrey Paul von Arx challenges this long standing view of the Victorian intellectual aristocracy He sees them as preoccupied with and even fearful of a religious resurgence throughout their careers and demonstrates that their loss of confidence in contemporary liberalism began with their disillusionment over the effects of the Franchise Reform Act of 1867 He portrays their championing of the idea of progress as motivated not by optimism about the present but by their desire to explain away and reverse if possible contemporary religious and political trends such as the new mass politics in England and Ireland This is the first book to explore how pessimism could be the psychological basis for the Victorians progressive conception of history Throughout von Arx skillfully interweaves threads of religion politics and history showing how ideas in one sphere cannot be understood without reference to the others

Speculative Biography Donna Lee Brien, Kiera Lindsey, 2021-09-30 While speculation has always been crucial to biography it has often been neglected denied or misunderstood This edited collection brings together a group of international biographers to discuss how and why each uses speculation in their work whether this is to conceptualise a project in its early stages work with scanty or deliberately deceptive sources or address issues associated with shy or stubborn subjects After defining the role of speculation in biography the volume offers a series of work in progress case studies that discuss the challenges biographers encounter and address in their work In addition to defining the speculative spectrum within the biographical endeavour the collection offers a lexicon of new terms to describe different types of biographical speculation and more deeply engage with the dynamic interplay between research subjectivity and that which Natalie Zemon Davis dubbed informed imagination By mapping the field of speculative biography the collection demonstrates that speculation is not only innate to biographical practice but also key to rendering the complex mystery of biographical subjects be they human animal or even metaphysical
