DeRoo, 2006-01-09 This book provides an in depth account of the protests that shook France in 1968 and which served as a catalyst to a radical reconsideration of artistic practice that has shaped both art and museum exhibitions up to the present Rebecca DeRoo examines how issues of historical and personal memory the separation of public and private domains and the ordinary objects of everyday life emerged as central concerns for museums and for artists as both struggled to respond to the protests She argues that the responses of the museums were only partially faithful to the aims of the activist movements Museums in fact often misunderstood and misrepresented the work of artists that was exhibited as a means of addressing these concerns Analyzing how museums and critics did and did not address the aims of the protests DeRoo highlights the issues relevant to the politics of the public display of art that have been central to artistic representation in France as well as in North America

Collective and Collaborative Drawing in Contemporary Practice Helen Gørrill, Jill Journeaux, 2018-01-23 Whilst both collective and collaborative drawing is being widely explored internationally both within and beyond educational institutions there is surprisingly little serious research published on the topic This realisation led to the first international Drawing Conversations Symposium accompanied by the Drawn Conversations Exhibition at Coventry University UK in December 2015 The two events drew a strong and global response and brought together a wide range of participants including academics artists researchers designers architects and doctoral students This book considers what happens and how when people draw together either in the form of a collaboration or through a collective process The contributions here serve to establish the field of collective and collaborative drawing as distinct from the types of drawing undertaken by artists designers and architects within a professional context The volume covers conversations through the act of drawing collaborative drawing drawing communities and alternative drawing collaborations
