Kentucky River:

The Kentucky River William Elliott Ellis, 2000 During the Civil War John Singleton Mosby led the Forty third Battalion Virginia Cavalry better known as Mosby's Rangers in bold and daring operations behind Union lines Throughout the course of the war more than 2000 men were members of Mosby's command some for only a short time Mosby had few confidants he was described by one acquaintance as a disturbing companion but became close friends with one of his finest officers Samuel Forrer Chapman Chapman served with Mosby for more than two years and their friendship continued in the decades after the war Take Sides with the Truth is a collection of more than eighty letters published for the first time in their entirety written by Mosby to Chapman from 1880 when Mosby was made U S consul to Hong Kong until his death in a Washington D C hospital in 1916 These letters reveal much about Mosby's character and present his innermost thoughts on many subjects At times Mosby's letters show a man with a sensitive nature however he could also be sarcastic and freely derided individuals he did not like His letters are critical of General Robert E Lee's staff officers there was a lying concert between them and trace his decades long crusade to clear the name of his friend and mentor J E B Stuart in the Gettysburg campaign Mosby also continuously asserts his belief that slavery was the cause of the Civil War a view completely contrary to a major portion of the Lost Cause ideology For him it was more important to take sides with the Truth than to hold popular opinions Peter A Brown has brought together a valuable collection of correspondence that adds a new dimension to our understanding of a significant Civil War figure

The Kentucky River is formed in eastern Kentucky at Beattyville where the North Middle and South Forks join together The river then flows 260 miles to the Ohio River at Carrollton The river drains much of the central region of the state With the appearance of the early steamboats on the Kentucky River in the 1820s the river became the primary artery for economic growth with trade with the lower south This dominance lasted until the Civil War when the railroads surpassed the packetboats with freight traffic After the war river traffic shifted to towboats pushing barges of bulk commodities However steam packetboats and later gasboats continued to service the isolated river communities along the lower river until the Great Depression In 1836 1842 the Commonwealth of Kentucky constructed five locks and dams from Carrollton to Tyrone These dams created pools of water which allowed year round slackwater navigation The state operated these locks until after the Civil War River Towns of Central Kentucky Melissa C.
