Linguistic Archaeology Edo Nyland, 2016-05-16 Edo Nyland shares with us his research on the evolution of European and other languages and his conclusions offer fresh perspectives to challenge traditional views entertained by the linguistic establishment Nyland's research was inspired by a CBC presentation by historian Edward Furlong who suggested that Odysseus may not at all have been travelling in the Mediterranean but rather in Scotland and Ireland where the climate and topography fit far better the descriptions in the Odyssey Nyland set off on an odyssey of his own visiting the proposed locations and while he found much to support Furlong's thesis he felt more evidence was needed to confirm it He began by examining place names mentioned in the Odyssey and he began to wonder if they might be telling a story But from what language were they derived Greek Latin and Gaelic dictionaries were no help He discovered a clue in the work of geneticist Luigi Cavalli Sforza who had suggested that there might have been early migrations of the peoples living along the Atlantic coast from Morocco to Scotland and Ireland even Arctic Norway Of these only the Basques still spoke their original Neolithic language and in choosing a Basque dictionary to translate coastal place names Nyland found that they did indeed yield remarkably fitting descriptions In visiting Bronze Age ruins Nyland came on the Ogam inscriptions carved into standing stones of Ireland These had not been deciphered but Nyland began to suspect they might encode elements of the Basque language Cracking the code became his mission and in this volume he describes how he did it After applying his method successfully to such languages as Spanish or German Sanskrit or Sumerian Nyland concludes that Basque is the core language from which so many more were derived

The Archaeological and Linguistic Reconstruction of African History Christopher Ehret, Merrick Posnansky, 2023-11-15 This title combines archaeology and linguistics to explore Africa's early history especially where written records are scarce or absent By pairing the physical evidence of past societies with insights from language evolution the book reveals a fuller picture of Africa's cultural and historical development Archaeology provides tangible data on material culture and timelines while linguistics offers clues about past social structures beliefs and migrations through language relationships Together these fields offer complementary perspectives on Africa's past allowing scholars to reconstruct societal links and movements across time and space The book's contributors experts in archaeology and linguistics present case studies from four major regions Nubia and northern Sudan equatorial Africa eastern Africa and Ghana Each section begins with a regional overview that synthesizes existing archaeological and linguistic findings framing the case studies within broader historical patterns For example in Nubia where evidence is relatively complete the section discusses correlations that extend into northeastern Africa In equatorial Africa linguistic data is more robust while archaeological evidence is still emerging showing intriguing alignment with linguistic patterns Eastern Africa focuses on the impacts of Bantu expansion and early agricultural practices while the West African section despite limited data centers on recent insights from Ghana illustrating both progress and research gaps By presenting these regions the book demonstrates the significant potential of combining archaeological and linguistic methods to uncover Africa's past While some areas such as West Africa still require further exploration the integration of these two disciplines reveals a complex dynamic historical landscape and raises new questions for future research The collection shows that archaeology and linguistics together provide a powerful framework for understanding Africa's early societies and lays a foundation for deeper investigations into the continent's history This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1982

Linguistic and Genetic (mtDNA) Connections between Native Peoples of Alaska and California Cecil H. Brown, Kent G.

Lightfoot, Nancy J. Turner, Dana Lepofsky, 2024-11-05 Linguistic and Genetic mtDNA Connections between Native Peoples of Alaska and California Ancient Mariners of the Middle Holocene traces the linguistic and biological connections between contemporary Aleut people of southwest Alaska and historic Utian people of central California During the Middle Holocene Period Aleut and Utian languages diverged from their common parent language Proto Aleut Utian PAU spoken by people who resided on or near Kodiak Island in coastal southwest Alaska Around the time of divergence Utians departed the PAU homeland migrating by watercraft along the eastern Pacific coast to the San Francisco Bay Area The affiliation between Aleut and Utian languages is strongly supported by comparative linguistics and by the genetic link mtDNA of groups speaking these languages On their migration Utians encountered coastal groups speaking languages different from their own Through these prolonged and intimate interactions words were borrowed from Utian into the languages of these native coastal communities Other significant findings explored in this book are the lack of compelling evidence for the kinship of Eskimo and Aleut peoples despite scholarship s long term acceptance of this proposal and the discovery of language structure features shared by Yeniseian and Na Dene indicating an historical connection for these circumarctic languages General Register University of Michigan, 1955 Announcements for the following year included in some vols Speaking with Substance Kathryn M. de Luna, Jeffrey B. Fleisher, 2018-06-27 This volume proposes a supplemental approach to interdisciplinary historical reconstructions that draw on archaeological and linguistic data The introduction lays out the supplemental approach situating it in the broader context of similar interdisciplinary research methods in other world regions Reflecting the arguments of the volume and its goal to document the process rather than the outcome of interdisciplinary collaboration the volume is organized into two two chapter case studies Within each case study the non specialist develops an historical interpretation using their own research findings and published data from the other discipline This chapter is followed by critical commentary from the specialist a dialogue clarifying the commentary and specialists methods and a second short historical interpretation that deploys insights from the supplemental approach The conclusion reflects on the challenges of disciplinary conventions to interdisciplinary research and the contribution of the supplemental approach to efforts to know the history of oral societies in Africa and beyond The Routledge Handbook of Historical Linguistics Claire Bowern, Bethwyn Evans, 2015-03-24 The Routledge Handbook of Historical Linguistics provides a survey of the field covering the methods which underpin current work models of language change and the importance of historical linguistics for other subfields of linguistics and other disciplines Divided into five sections the volume encompass a wide range of approaches and addresses issues in the following areas historical perspectives methods and models language change interfaces regional summaries Each of the thirty two chapters is written by a specialist in the field and provides a introduction to the subject an analysis of the relationship between the diachronic and synchronic study of the topic an overview of the main current and critical trends and examples from primary data The Routledge Handbook of Historical
