Last Supper A Musical Enactment:

The Last Supper Gary William Friedman, Thomas Mitz, 1999 The Last Supper has been thrilling audiences with its original theatrical approach of combining actors with a contemporary choir It is the story of Leonardo da Vinci's struggle to complete his famous mural Actors portray Leonardo Jesus the twelve Apostles an Angel and two women while singers express the meaning and emotion of the action through song The climax of the piece is a stunning moment where the mural is re-created on the stage Publisher

The Sacramentality of Music Christina Labriola, 2024-08-19 Steeped in the Catholic spiritual tradition The Sacramentality of Music argues that musical experience in its appeal to the entirety of the human person can serve as a locus of encounter with the divine and an occasion of God's self-revelation in love with spiritually nurturing ultimately transformative ends Christina Labriola contends that this dynamic might most aptly be understood as sacramental an all-encompassing perspective of the cosmos permeated by the divine creative salvific sustaining presence Through its participation in the mysteries of beauty and creativity its bodily and affective engagement and impact on the inner life music operates sacramentally manifesting divine realities through the tangible stuff of human experience In a thematic theological exploration that interweaves pastoral theology theological aesthetics and mysticism the reader is invited to contemplate music's sacramental potentiality and to engage the sacramentally charged music of Beethoven Bartok MacMillan Messiaen Mozart Envalds Bach Part and Hildegard In attending to musical ways of relating to God this book invites readers into a deepening awareness of the sacramental nature of reality itself as that in which the spiritual resonance of music is grounded and reveals afresh taking musical beauty seriously in the spiritual order with repercussions for Christian living

An Ethnomusicologist's Last Lecture Steven Loza, 2023-12-07 An Ethnomusicologist's Last Lecture Music and Globalism Philosophy and Religion explores the frustration of many scholars and artists with the content and directions of studies on music which continue to be mostly based on Western thought methods theories and even the modes of communicating ideas and mostly through written published works Steven Loza argues that this pattern has pervaded both philosophy and ethnomusicology fields which should be much more globally based in terms of intellectual analysis culturally diverse points of view and the recognition of multiple ways of thinking and doing He criticizes what he perceives as an intellectual hegemony and biased approach to studying music including the standards to which academics are held responsible the manner in which we and our students have had to study music and the forms by which we are pressured to present our findings many times adapting theories and ideas that have nothing to do with the cultures we are examining through a one-way microscope and often a distorted lens Loza takes the reader through an assortment of historical and contemporary global examples of musical expression creative artists and thinkers looking for ways that we can assess how music both reflects and enacts culturally diverse peoples' beliefs thoughts and world views

Music William Smythe Babcock Mathews,1900 Early Music History: Volume 19 Iain Fenlon,2001-04-19 Early Music History is devoted to the study of music from the early Middle Ages to the end of the seventeenth century The scope is exceptionally broad and includes manuscript studies textual criticism iconography studies of the relationship between words and music and the relationship between music and society Articles in volume 19 include Ritual and Ceremony in the Spanish Royal Chapel c 1559 c 1561 Urban Minstrels in Late Medieval Southern France Mapping the Soundscapes Church Music in English Towns 1450 1550 A New Look at Old Roman Chant Learning in a Musical Key Lisa M. Hess,2011-09-15 Learning in a Musical Key examines the multidimensional problem of the relationship between music and theological education Lisa Hess argues that in a delightful and baffling way musical learning has the potential to significantly alter and inform our conception of the nature and process of theological learning In exploring this exciting intersection of musical learning and theological training Hess asks two probing questions First What does learning from music in a performative mode require Classical modes of theological education often founder on a dichotomy between theologically musical and educational discourses It is extremely difficult for many to see how the perceivedly nonmusical learn from music Is musicality a universally human potential In exploring this question Hess turns to the music learning theory of Edwin Gordon which explores music s unique mode of teaching learning its primarily aural oral mode This challenge leads to the study s second question How does a theologian in the disciplinary sense integrate a performative mode into critical discourse Tracking the critical movements of this problem Hess provides an inherited transformational logic as a feasible path for integrating a performative mode into multidimensional learning This approach emerges as a distinctly relational embodied multidimensional and non correlational performative mode theology that breaks new ground in the contemporary theological landscape As an implicitly trinitarian method rooted in the relationality of God this non correlational method offers a practical theological contribution to the discipline of Christian spirituality newly claimed here as a discipline of transformative teaching learning through the highly contextualized and self implicated scholar into relationally formed communities and ultimately into the world Music ,1900 Music and the Mass David Haas,2013
