London Bus Handbook 2002 Edition:

The London LS Matthew Wharmby, 2018-03-30 Dissatisfied with the reliability of its AEC Merlin and Swift single deck buses London Transport in 1973 purchased six Leyland Nationals for evaluation Liking what it saw of this ultimate standard product where even the paint swatch was of Leylands choice LT took up an option to buy fifty more from a canceled export order and then bought further batches of 110 30 and 140 to bring the LS class to 437 members by the middle of 1980 A year later the last MBAs and SMSs were replaced on Red Arrow services by sixty nine new Leyland National 2s Straightforward but reliable the LS satisfied London Transports single deck needs for a decade and a half often standing in for double deckers when needed and then going on to help hold the fort during the tough years of early tendering during which some innovative LS operations introduced several new liveries and identities The type served the ten years expected out of it with few worries only starting to disappear when minibuses came on strength at the end of the 1980s Although the LS was formally retired by 1992 refurbishment programs gave survivors an extended lease of life bringing us the National Greenway the ultimate development of the Leyland National Most of the Red Arrow National 2s thus became GLSs and lasted until 2002 Matthew Wharmby is an author photographer and editor specializing in London bus history His published books include London Transports Last Buses Leyland Olympians L 1 263 Routemaster Requiem and Routemaster Retrospective with Geoff Rixon London Transport 1970 1984 with R C Riley The London Titan and The London Metrobus He has also written many articles for Buses Bus Coach Preservation Classic Bus and London Bus Magazine Current British Directories, 2003 Buses in the Border Towns of London Country 1969-2019 (South of the Thames) Malcolm Batten, 2024-04-30 London Transport was created in 1933 with monopoly powers Not only did it have exclusive rights to run bus and tram and trolleybus services in the Greater London area it also ran services in a Country Area all around London Green Line express services linked the country towns to London and in most cases across to other country towns the other side of the metropolis This country area extended north as far as Hitchin east to Brentwood south to Crawley and west to Windsor But what of the towns at the edge of the country area Here the green London Transport buses would meet the bus companies whose operations extended across the rest of the counties of Berkshire Surrey Kent etc In some cases the town was at a node where more than one company worked in Elsewhere such as at Guildford there were local independent operators who had a share in the town services It would all change from 1970 when the London Transport Country Area was transferred to the National Bus Company to form a new company named London Country Bus Services This would later be split into four separate companies Deregulation in 1985 and privatisation in the 1990s led to further changes in the names and ownership of bus companies Consolidation since then has seen the emergence of national bus groups Stagecoach First Group Arriva and Go Ahead replacing the old names and liveries But retrenchment by these companies has given an opportunity for new independent companies to fill the gaps This book takes the form of an anti clockwise tour around the perimeter of the London Country area south of the Thames featuring a number of key towns starting at Slough and Windsor and ending at Gravesend illustrating some of the many changes to bus companies that have occurred

The London DMS Matthew Wharmby, 2016-11-30 Vilified as the great failure of all London Transport bus classes the DMS family of Daimler Fleetline was more like an unlucky victim of straitened times Desperate to match staff shortages with falling demand for its services during the late 1960s London Transport was just one organization to see nationwide possibilities and savings in legislation that was about to permit double deck one man operation and partially fund purpose built vehicles However prohibited by circumstances from developing its own rear engined Routemaster FRM concept LT instituted comparative trials between contemporary Leyland Atlanteans and Daimler Fleetlines The latter came out on top and massive orders followed The first DMSs entering service on 2 January 1971 In service however problems quickly manifested Sophisticated safety features served only to burn out gearboxes and gulp fuel The passengers meanwhile did not appreciate being funnelled through the DMS s recalcitrant automatic fare collection machinery only to have to stand for lack of seating Boarding speeds thus slowed to a crawl to the extent that the savings made by laying off conductors had to be negated by adding more DMSs to converted routes Second thoughts caused the ongoing order to be amended to include crew operated Fleetlines DMs noise concerns prompted the development of the B20 quiet bus variety and brave attempts were made to fit the buses into the time honored system of overhauling at Aldenham Works but finally the problems proved too much After enormous expenditure the first DMSs began to be withdrawn before the final RTs came out of service and between 1979 and 1983 all but the B20s were sold as is widely known the DMSs proved perfectly adequate with provincial operators once their London features had been removed OPO was to become fashionable again in the 1980s as the politicians turned on London Transport itself breaking it into pieces in order to sell it off Not only did the B20 DMSs survive to something approaching a normal lifespan but the new cheap operators awakening with the onset of tendering made use of the type to undercut LT and it was not until 1993 that the last DMS operated

London Transport's Last Buses Matthew Wharmby,2016-02-29 The Olympian was Leyland s answer to the competition that was threatening to take custom away from its second generation OMO double deck products Simpler than the London Transportcentric Titan but unlike that integral model able to respond to the market by being offered as a chassis for bodying by the bodybuilder of the customer s choice the Olympian was an immediate success and soon replaced both the Atlantean and Bristol VRT as the standard double decker of the NBC It wasn t until 1984 that London Transport itself dabbled with the model taking three for evaluation alongside trios of contemporary double deckers The resulting L class spawned an order for 260 more in 1986 featuring accessibility advancements developed by LT in concert with the Ogle design consultancy but the rapid changes engulfing the organisation meant that no more were ordered During the 1990s company ownerships shifted repeatedly as the ethos of competition gave way to the cold reality of big business an unstable situation which even saw London s bus operations broken up The L class was split between three new companies but the backlog of older vehicles to replace once corporate interests released funding ensured the buses up to a further decade in service Finally as low floor buses swept into the capital at the turn of the century Olympian operation at last declined and the final examples operated early in 2006 This profusely illustrated book describes the diversity of liveries ownerships and deployments that characterised the London Leyland Olympians two decades of service

Public Procurement and the EU Competition Rules Albert Sánchez Graells,2015-06-25 Public procurement and competition law are both important fields of EU law and policy intimately intertwined in the creation of the internal market Hitherto their close connection has been noted but not closely examined This work is the most comprehensive attempt to date to explain the many ways in which these fields often considered independent of one another interact and overlap in the creation of the internal market This process of convergence between competition and public procurement law is particularly apparent in the 2014 Directives on public procurement which consolidate the principle of competition in terms very close to those advanced by the author in the first edition This second edition builds upon this approach and continues to ask how competition law principles inform and condition public procurement rules and whether the latter in their revised form are adequate to ensure that competition is not distorted The second edition also deepens the analysis of the market behaviour of the public buyer from a competition perspective Proceeding through a careful assessment of the general rules of competition and public procurement the book constantly tests the efficacy of these rules against a standard of the proper functioning of undistorted competition in the market for public procurement It also traces the increasing relevance of competition considerations in the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Union and sets out criteria and recommendations to continue influencing the development of EU Economic Law

Sustainability and Human Resource Management Ina Ehnert, Wes Harry, Klaus J.
