Londons Lea Valley:

Londons Lea Valley Home of Britains Growing Food and Drink Industry and a Little Bit More LEWIS,2019-09-30 The post war years saw a massive decline in the Lea Valley s industrial base This was particularly marked by the collapse in furniture electronics and electrical manufacturing that had been affected by cheap imports from countries abroad who had developed and streamlined their industries during the war years Also affecting the collapse was a reluctance by some British manufacturers to invest and update their businesses in the light of the increasing overseas competition However in recent years the Lea Valley has seen a marked increase in the manufacture development and distribution of food and drink products within the region This upsurge has in a way complemented the work of earlier food and drink producers several of whom have increased their product range and are now not only supplying and sustaining the British consumer markets but also a number of markets overseas

London's Olympic Legacy Gillian Evans,2016-08-12 This book provides a unique perspective on the behind the scenes planning of London s Olympic legacy The author had unprecedented access to the legacy organisations institutions and individuals involved with the 2012 Games This has allowed her in a highly accessible and engaging style to capture a sense of the unfolding drama as attempts were made in London to harness the juggernaut of Olympic development and its commercial imperative to the broader cause of meaningful post industrial regeneration in East London The book argues that London will become the test case city against which the legacies of all future Olympic Games and other sporting mega events will be judged The author provides the first in depth case study of a mega event legacy planning operation and sets out a constructive conclusion which details the lessons to be learnt from London s experience Exploring the relationship between mega event planning and post industrial urban regeneration this book will appeal to scholars across Sociology Sport and Olympic studies Anthropology Urban Studies and Geography as well as policymakers and practitioners in urban and sport planning

London (Re)generation David Littlefield,2012-04-30 A lively thought provoking exploration of the contemporary regeneration of London Plans to regenerate East London and transform the capital are integral to the vision of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games This title brings into focus notions of regeneration within the specific context of London what does the term actually mean how has it been applied and is it being applied Historical overviews of large scale interventions from the past are combined with case studies of new and planned schemes and explorations of how change and rejuvenation can retain or enhance the city s unique sense of place and identity Looking beyond the Games the title will look at the direction in which regeneration is going in a post recession economy How can a long established highly protected and even cherished city like London continue to renew and expand Unlike Chinese or Middle Eastern cities London is constrained by a wide range of factors from heritage protection and geography to finance and democratic accountability yet the city continues to grow change and develop either incrementally or through big dramatic leaps like the Olympic Park and King's Cross In this way London provides a fascinating case study of how a developed Western city can negotiate and greet the pressures for change Contributors Michael Batty Peter Bishop Matthew Carmona Murray Fraser Matthew Gandy Robert Harbison Peter Murray and Austin Williams Architects Sir Terry Farrell Richard McCormac Projects King's Cross the London 2012 Games and the Shard Industries of London Since 1861 P.G. Hall, 2013-11-05 This book is a study in economic geography treated historically Its primary purpose is to describe and explain the industrial geography of London since 1861 using the most recent statistics available for that purpose noting that this work was originally published in 1962

A Contemporary Archaeology of London's Mega Events Jonathan Gardner, 2022-05-16 A Contemporary Archaeology of London's Mega Events explores the traces of London's most significant modern mega events Though only open for a few weeks or months mega events permanently and disruptively reshape their host cities and societies they demolish and rebuild whole districts they draw in materials and participants from around the globe and their organisers self consciously seek to leave a legacy that will endure for decades or more With London as his case study Jonathan Gardner argues that these spectacles must be seen as long lived and persistent rather than simply a transient or short term phenomena Using a novel methodology drawn from the subfield of contemporary archaeology the archaeology of the recent past and present day a broad range of comparative studies are used to explore the long term history of each event These include the contents and building materials of the Great Exhibition's Crystal Palace and their extraordinary afterlife at Sydenham South London how the Festival of Britain's South Bank Exhibition employed displays of ancient history to construct a new post war British identity and how London 2012 as the latest of London's mega events dealt with competing visions of the past as archaeology waste and heritage in creating a vision of the future The Birds of London Andrew Self, 2014-02-27 The first comprehensive avifauna for the London area ever published covering the status distribution and history of every species on the regional list in rich detail The parks reservoirs rooftops and gardens of London here defined as the area within 20 miles of St Paul's Cathedral have a surprisingly rich avifauna including a healthy population of one of Britain's rarest breeders the Black Redstart The region also has a remarkable list of rarities in recent years Canary Wharf has proven to be a magnet for vagrants while one of the very few British records of Tengmalm's Owl hails from Plaistow an unfortunate bird stoned to death by local urchins in 1877 Some species like the Peregrine Falcon Black headed Gull and Ring necked Parakeet have seen their fortunes soar over recent decades others such as House Sparrow have suffered a population collapse While as recently as a century ago the London area had breeding populations of birds such as Wryneck and Red backed Shrike which are now nationally extinct The County Avifauna series provides detailed information on the range and status of bird species at county level Bracket 2 Neeraj Bhatia, 2013-01-15 From soft politics soft power and soft spaces to fluid territories software and soft programming Bracket 2 unpacks the use and role of responsive indeterminate flexible and immaterial systems in design In an era of declared crises economic ecological and climatic among others the notion of soft systems has gained increasing traction as a counterpoint to permanent static and hard systems Acknowledging fluid and indeterminate situations with complex feedback loops that allow for reaction and adaption the possibility of soft systems has reentered the domain of design The examples displayed in Bracket goes soft are offered as nothing more than a short catalog of soft systems some explicitly architectural others geological others entirely metaphorical In all cases these examples explore how the notion of going soft can be iterated across professions disciplines and fields of research The book is divided into the themes sensing feedback interfacing enveloping subverting hijacking formatting distributing contingency resilience diffusing generating Bracket is a book series structured around an open call that highlights emerging critical issues at the juncture of architecture environment and digital culture The editorial board and jury for Bracket 2 includes Benjamin Bratton Julia Czerniak Jeffrey Inaba Geoff Manaugh Philippe Rahm Charles Renfro as well as co editors Neeraj Bhatia and Lola Sheppard Bracket is a collaboration between InfraNet Lab and Archinect

Hertfordshire Garden History Volume 2 Deborah Spring, 2012 This second volume of Hertfordshire garden history considers how Hertfordshire's historic parks and gardens have been influenced by and reflect the social and economic history of their time Beginning with the hunting parks and Renaissance gardens of the Bacons Cecils and Capels in the 16th and 17th centuries and their gradual replacement by designed landscape this book shows how in Hertfordshire individuals have long sought greater space and comfort within easy reach of the capital London With examples from both well known and less visible or vanished gardens from the past 500 years it is sure to delight garden enthusiasts

Why Cities Need Large Parks Richard Murray, 2021-12-06 The large parks and green infrastructure presented here illustrate the diverse uses and many benefits of large urban parks across 30 major cities Demand for large urban parks emerged at the height of the First Industrial Revolution in the mid 1800s when large urban parks represented new ideas of accessible public spaces often established on land previously owned by aristocracy royalty or the army They represented new ideas on how city life could be improved and how large green spaces could enhance urban citizens physical and psychological well being e g Birkenhead Park in Liverpool Bois de Boulogne in Paris Tiergarten in Berlin and Central Park in New York City Today large urban parks are habitats for biodiversity and spaces of climate change adaptation For people living in cities this biodiversity may represent high cultural recreational and aesthetic values but is also important for other aspects of health and well being for example by reducing the urban heat island effect air pollution and risks of flooding At a time when we are seriously reconsidering how we live in cities and our urban quality of life while also grappling with serious challenges of climate change the authors of this book detail the much needed evidence pathways and vision for a future of more liveable resilient cities where large urban parks are at the core This book will help park managers NGOs landscape architects and city planners to develop the green city of the future
