Financial Management With Electronic Spreadsheet:

Financial Management with the Electronic Spreadsheet Cecilia L. Wagner, 1995-01-01 This text responds to the growing need for marketable skills beyond electronic spreadsheet literacy Financial managers and anyone else who uses and or produces financial information must be able to organize and manipulate data in meaningful ways Problem solving requires choosing the right tool for the job customizing a tool for a certain task or building one from the beginning Knowledge of a particular software programme isn't enough finance practitioners require an understanding of the underlying design techniques This book aims to instill student confidence in integrating electronic spreadsheets into the identification analysis solution and reporting steps of a financial problem It builds the electronic spreadsheet skills needed not just to solve financial problems but to understand spreadsheet modelling both conceptually and practically Students will require a basic knowledge of Lotus

Financial Management Information Systems David K. Morris, 1995 The focus of this thesis is to examine the extent of electronic spreadsheet software usage in Navy budgeting to discuss who is using electronic spreadsheets and how they are being used and to evaluate the adequacy of spreadsheet training in the Financial Management Curriculum at the Naval Postgraduate School Results of this study indicate that spreadsheets are used extensively by Budget Analysts at every organizational level to track and monitor vast quantities of numbers and in an analysis of 23 spreadsheets it was found that all were designed using relatively simple formulas This showed that the analytical capabilities of the software were not being used suggesting that spreadsheets are being used as a labor saving device to collect hold and consolidate data rather than as an analytical tool It appears that the Financial Management curriculum at NPS is deficient in providing an adequate level of spreadsheet exposure to its students since out of 28 required or optional courses in the Financial Management curriculum only two used spreadsheets by design and two others used them at the instructor's discretion
