Philosophers have long suspected that thought and discourse about what we ought to do differ in some fundamental way from statements about what is But the difference has proved elusive in part because the two kinds of statement look alike Focusing on judgments that express decisions judgments about what is to be done all things considered Allan Gibbard offers a compelling argument for reconsidering and reconfiguring the distinctions between normative and descriptive discourse between questions of ought and is Gibbard considers how our actions and our realities emerge from the thousands of questions and decisions we form for ourselves The result is a book that investigates the very nature of the questions we ask ourselves when we ask how we should live and that clarifies the concept of ought by understanding the patterns of normative concepts involved in beliefs and decisions An original and elegant work of metaethics this book brings a new clarity and rigor to the discussion of these tangled issues and will significantly alter the long standing debate over objectivity and factuality in ethics Table of Contents I Preliminaries 1 Introduction A Possibility Proof 2 Intuitionism as Template Emending Moore II The Thing to Do 3 Planning and Ruling Out The Frege Geach Problem 4 Judgment Disagreement Negation 5 Supervenience and Constitution 6 Character and Import III Normative Concepts 7 Ordinary Oughts Meaning and Motivation 8 Normative Kinds Patterns of Engagement 9 What to Say about the Thing to Do The Expressivistic Turn and What it Gains Us IV Knowing What
