Interpretation Of Caste:

The Interpretation of Caste Declan Quigley, 1993 This book provides a radical alternative to prevailing theories of caste which either build on indigenous rationalizations of the Brahman's supremacy or reduce hierarchy to material factors Drawing on a wide range of historical and ethnographic sources as well as four years field work Declan Quigley proposes a comparative approach which locates caste organized communities in the context of complex agrarian societies generally At the heart of caste he argues there is a tension between the centralizing forces of kingship with its associated ritual and the decentralizing forces of kinship Dr Quigley believes that it is this tension rather than Brahminical ideology which generates the characteristic patterns of hierarchy and the preoccupation with purity and pollution In making kingship central to the explanation of caste this book calls for a considered reexamination of the theory of caste proposed by A M Hocart over half a century ago and offers an elegant and wide ranging comparative interpretation of facts which have until now eluded satisfactory explanation

The Expository Times James Hastings, Ann Wilson Hastings, Edward Hastings, 1904

Thaipusam in Malaysia Carl Vadivella Belle, 2018-02-14 This book explores the festival of Thaipusam in terms of its own inner dynamics the traditions and belief structures which ensure the festival's continuing relevance to Malaysian Hindus It argues that Thaipusam reflects a growing sense of Hindu identity in Malaysia and an as yet inchoate unity It contends that while the kavadi ritual provides profound meaning at the individual and group level Thaipusam furnishes a public arena for and gives expression to a powerful Hindu resurgence largely though not exclusively fuelled by Dravidian assertiveness In situating the festival within the context of a Malaysia dominated by Malay and Islamic power brokers a society in which both the Indian community and Hinduism are relegated to the margins the book explores the festival of Thaipusam as a vehicle for mobilization of religious symbols and values which not only simultaneously articulate ethnicity and thus resist the forces which threaten cultural and religious integrity but which also ultimately signal wider allegiances to the broader politico cultural world of an imagined immeasurably rich and enduring Indo Hindu civilization

Changing Identities Joachim Heidrich, 2021-10-11 No detailed description available for Changing Identities

Ethcaste Douglas V. Davidson, 2001 Ethcaste is a theoretical analysis and interpretation of one of the most complex and controversial groups in U S society the black middle class While this group has received accolades from the liberal journalistic press as well as academia it has also been highly criticized and oftentimes ridiculed by radical black political activists and intellectuals This analysis represents an effort to clarify the larger black community as an oppressed group constrained by the capitalist racial dynamics of the dominant white society In so doing it summarizes and critiques the major theoretical approaches to the study of social class in U S sociology as well as the dominant theories of race and ethnic relations Noting that most of this preceding scholarship has studied the black community from the perspective that blacks constitute a racial thus non cultural group as opposed to an ethnic distinct cultural group the author presents compelling evidence of the vitality of black American culture and argues persuasively that any analysis of the black middle class must locate it within the cultural dynamics of the larger black community The core argument in the text is that the so called racial struggle must be re defined as a cultural struggle where the core values norms and beliefs of the black community have been and continue to be in an intense struggle for dominance with the core values norms and beliefs of the white community In essence the book offers an alternative model for describing and interpreting the historical and contemporary racial dynamics between the black and white communities

Social Ontology, Sociocultures, and Inequality in the Global South Benjamin Baumann, Daniel Bultmann, 2020-05-07

Challenging the assumption that the capitalist transformation includes a radical break with the past this edited volume traces how historically older forms of social inequality are transformed but persist in the present to shape the social structure of contemporary societies in the global South Each social collective comprises an interpretation of itself including the meaning of life the concept of a human person and the notion of a collective This volume studies the interpretation that various social collectives have of themselves This interpretation is referred to as social ontology All chapters of the edited volume focus on the relation between social ontology and structures of inequality They argue that each society comprises several historical layers of social ontology that correspond to layers of inequality which are referred to as sociocultures Thereby the volume explains why and how structures of inequality differ between contemporary collectives in the global South even though all of them seem to have similar structures institutions and economies The volume is aimed at academics students and the interested public looking for a novel theorization of social inequality pertaining to social collectives in the global South
