Trauma in First Person Amos Goldberg, 2017-11-20 An examination of what can be learned by looking at the journals and diaries of Jews living during the Holocaust What are the effects of radical oppression on the human psyche What happens to the inner self of the powerless and traumatized victim especially during times of widespread horror In this bold and deeply penetrating book Amos Goldberg addresses diary writing by Jews under Nazi persecution Throughout Europe in towns villages ghettos forests hideouts concentration and labor camps and even in extermination camps Jews of all ages and of all cultural backgrounds described in writing what befell them Goldberg claims that diary and memoir writing was perhaps the most important literary genre for Jews during World War II Goldberg considers the act of writing in radical situations as he looks at diaries from little known victims as well as from brilliant diarists such as Chaim Kaplan and Victor Klemperer Goldberg contends that only against the background of powerlessness and inner destruction can Jewish responses and resistance during the Holocaust gain their proper meaning This is a book that deserves to be read well beyond Holocaust studies Goldberg's theoretical insights into life stories and his readings of law language and what he calls the epistemological grey zone provide a stunning antidote to our

Documentation, Disappearance and the Representation of Live Performance M. Reason, 2006-09-22 The documentation of practice is one of the principle concerns of performance studies Focusing on contemporary performance practice and with emphasis on the transformative impact of video photography and writing this book explores the ideological practical and representational implications of knowing performance through its documentations Picturing Thoreau Mark W. Sullivan, 2015-01-14 As we approach the bicentennial in 2017 of the birth of Henry David Thoreau there is considerable debate and confusion as to what he may or may not have contributed to American life and culture Almost every American has heard of Thoreau but only a few are aware that he was deeply engaged with most of the important issues of his day from slavery to Manifest Destiny and the rights of the individual in a democratic society Many of these issues are still affecting us today as we move toward the second quarter of the twenty first century By studying how various American artists have chosen to portray Thoreau over the years since the publication of Walden in 1854 we can gain a clear understanding of how he has been interpreted or misinterpreted throughout the years since his death in 1862 But along the way we might also find something useful for our times in the insights that Thoreau gained as he wrestled with the most urgent problems being experienced by American society in his day

Memories of the Classical Underworld in Irish and Caribbean Literature Madeleine Scherer, 2021-09-20 Classical Memories is an intervention into the field of adaptation studies taking the example of classical reception to show that adaptation is a process that can be driven by and produce intertextual memories I see classical memories as a memory driven type of adaptation that draws on and reproduces schematic and otherwise decontextualised conceptions of antiquity and its cultural exports in broadly speaking the twentieth and twenty first centuries These memory driven adaptations differ often in significant ways from more traditional adaptations that seek to either continue or deconstruct a long running tradition that can be traced back to antiquity as well as its canonical points of reception in later ages When investigating such a popular and widespread set of narratives characters and images like those that remain of Graeco Roman antiquity terms like adaptation and reception could and should be nuanced further to allow us to understand the complex interactions between modern works and classical antiquity in more detail particularly when it pertains to postcolonial or post digital classical reception In Classical Memories I propose that understanding certain types of adaptations as intertextual memories allows us to do just that

The Oxford History of Life-Writing: Volume 1. The Middle Ages

Karen A. Winstead, 2018-04-05 The Oxford History of Life Writing Volume 1 The Middle Ages explores the richness and variety of life writing from late Antiquity to the threshold of the Renaissance During the Middle Ages writers from Bede to Chaucer were thinking about life and experimenting with ways to translate lives their own and others into literature Their subjects included career religious saints celebrities visionaries pilgrims princes philosophers poets and even a few ordinary people They relay life stories not only in chronological narratives but also in debates dialogues visions and letters Many medieval biographers relied on the reader's trust in their authority but some espoused standards of evidence that seem distinctly modern drawing on reliable written sources interviewing eyewitnesses and cross checking their facts wherever possible Others still professed allegiance to evidence but nonetheless freely embellished and invented not only events and dialogue but the sources to support them The first book devoted to life writing in medieval England The Oxford History of Life Writing Volume 1 The Middle Ages covers major life stories in Old and Middle English Latin and French along with such Continental classics as the letters of Abelard and Heloise and the autobiographical Vision of Christine de Pizan In addition to the life stories of historical figures it treats accounts of fictional heroes from Beowulf to King Arthur to Queen Katherine of Alexandria which show medieval authors experimenting with adapting and expanding the conventions of life writing Though

Medieval life writings can be challenging to read we encounter in them the antecedents of many of our own diverse biographical forms tabloid lives literary lives brief lives revisionist lives lives of political figures memoirs fictional lives and psychologically oriented accounts that register the inner lives of their subjects     The Margaret Mitchell Encyclopedia Anita Price Davis, 2014-01-10 Atlanta writer Margaret Mitchell 1900 1949 wrote Gone with the Wind 1936 one of the best selling novels of all time The Pulitzer Prize winning novel was the basis of the 1939 film the first movie to win more than five Academy Awards Margaret Mitchell did not publish another novel after Gone with the Wind Supporting the troops during World War II assisting African American students financially serving in the American Red Cross selling stamps and bonds and helping others usually anonymously consumed her This book reveals little known facts about this altruistic woman The Margaret Mitchell Encyclopedia documents Mitchell s work her life her impact on Atlanta the city s memorials to her her residences details of her death information about her family the establishment of the Margaret Mitchell House against great odds and her relationships with the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Junior League
