Fogging Of Basic Values:

A Fogging of Basic Values , A Fogging of Basic Values Jan Alan Eglen,2004-09-01 Among all of the accounts of World War II that I have read I have not found one that told of the experiences of a young husband and father who in spite of a classification of 4F unsuited for military service found himself in Army uniform and under enemy fire as he landed on the invasion beaches of Normandy Although this is my personal story it is told with humor and honesty without heroes or majestic sweeps of the big story The intent has been to tell of the seldom reported wartime duty of guarding protecting and moving prisoners of war from the battlefield My outfit the 595th Military Police Escort Guard Company consisting of 125 men built a most impressive record during twelve months of combat zone activity The unit handled 426 641 prisoners of war earned five battle stars and was awarded the French Croix de Guerre with Palm by a grateful French government Quite a testimonial to the abilities of American G I s even though they were supposedly as they put it 4F s in a 4F outfit More than the combat experience the story attempts to create a feeling for the times the draft and classification of personnel induction and basic training It gives indication of the individual circumstances that shape the civilian s situation in the military I have also tried to tell of personal contacts with the British French and Belgian people and both the German soldier and the German civilian It is a G rated story told in an easy conversational style Utech 94 David Reed,Carole Lee,1994 A
