Enormous Changes at the Last Minute Susan Rice, John Sayles, 1985 Short Story Index, 1974 Literary Sisterhoods Deborah Heller, 2005 In literary works by women authors ranging from Mme de Stael George Eliot and Anna Banti to contemporary writers Alice Munro and Grace Paley Deborah Heller examines how women writers over the past two centuries have represented the challenges of being both a woman and an artist Literary Sisterhoods examines the untold connections between the woman author and her subject between woman authors and among women artists the world over Heller teases out a convincing assertion of sisterhoods for a diverse range of authors and works despite the differences of the cultures and eras they represent Heller's book builds on feminist criticism and scholarship that has helped make us aware of the distinctive perspectives on female experience revealed in women's writing Literary Sisterhoods explores how women authors construct their female protagonists' quests for creative self expression Situating these narrative journeys in their own times and cultures Heller shows how they contribute to a common tradition that speaks to readers today Middle

Grounds Alan Wilde, 1987-11-29 Alan Wilde identifies and defends what he calls midfiction which rejects both the extremes of realism and experimental self reflexive fiction He offers as examples the best works of Apple Berger Barthelme Pynchon and Paley Teaching Genius Barbara Lourie Sand, 2005-11-01 Amadeus Itzhak Perlman Kennedy Midori and Sarah Chang were among Dorothy DeLay's students during her five decades as a violin teacher at Juilliard For more than ten years the author was granted access to DeLay's classes and lessons at Juilliard and the Aspen Music Festival and School and this book reveals DeLay's deep intuition of each student's needs An exploration of the mysteries of teaching and learning it includes a feast of anecdotes about an extraordinary character A Reader's Companion to the Short Story in English Erin Fallon, R.C. Feddersen, James Kurtzleben, Maurice A. Lee, Susan Rochette-Crawley, 2013-10-31 Although the short story has existed in various forms for centuries it has particularly flourished during the last hundred years Reader's Companion to the Short Story in English includes alphabetically arranged entries for 50 English language short story writers from around the world. Most of these writers have been active since 1960 and they reflect a wide range of experiences and perspectives in their works. Each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes biography, a review of existing criticism, a lengthier analysis of specific works, and a selected bibliography of primary and secondary sources. The volume begins with a detailed introduction to the short story genre and concludes with an annotated bibliography of major works on short story theory.

Network Nations Michele Hilmes, 2012-05-23 In Network Nations Michele Hilmes reveals and re-conceptualizes the roots of media globalization through a historical look at the productive transnational cultural relationship between British and American broadcasting. Though frequently painted as opposites, the British public service tradition contrasting with the American commercial system, in fact they represent two sides of the same coin. Neither could have developed without the constant presence of the other in terms not only of industry and policy but of aesthetics, culture, and creativity despite a long history of oppositional rhetoric. Based on primary research in British and American archives, Network Nations argues for a new transnational approach to media history, looking across the traditional national boundaries within which media is studied to encourage an awareness that media globalization has a long and fruitful history. Placing media history in the framework of theories of nationalism and national identity, Hilmes examines critical episodes of transnational interaction between the US and Britain, from radio's amateurs to the relationship between early network heads, from the development of radio features and drama to television spy shows and miniseries, as each other's largest suppliers of programming and as competitors on the world stage, and as a network of creative business and personal relationships that has rarely been examined but that shapes television around the world. As the global circuits of television grow and as global regions, particularly Europe, attempt to define a common culture, the historical role played by the British-US media dialogue takes on new significance. Budapest

Diary: In Search of the Motherbook Susan Rubin Suleiman, 2019-08-10 Can you forget the place you once called home? What does it take to make you recapture it? In this moving memoir, Susan Rubin Suleiman describes her return to the city of her birth, where she speaks the language like a native but with an accent. Suleiman left Budapest in 1949 as a young child with her parents fleeing communism; thirty-five years later, she returned with her two sons for a brief vacation and began to remember her childhood. Her earliest memories of Nazi persecution in the final year of World War II came back to her in fragments, as did memories of her first school years after the war and of the stormy marriage between her father, a brilliant Talmudic scholar, and her mother, a cosmopolitan woman from a more secular Jewish family. In 1993, after the fall of communism and the death of her mother, Suleiman returned to Budapest for a six-month stay. She recounts her ongoing quest for personal history, interweaving it with the stories of present-day Hungarians struggling to make sense of the changes in their individual and collective lives. Suleiman's search for documents relating to her childhood, the lives of her parents, and their families, and the Jewish communities of Hungary and Poland, takes her on a series of fascinating journeys within and outside Budapest Emerging from this eloquent often suspenseful diary is the portrait of an intellectual who recaptures her past and comes into contact with the vital troubling world of contemporary Eastern Europe Suleiman s vivid descriptions of her encounters with a proud old city and its people in a time of historical change remind us that every life story is at once unique and part of a larger history I recommend this autobiographical narrative because it is grave and beautiful Better still it is shatteringly truthful Elie Wiesel Susan Rubin was a little girl when her parents fled through darkened fields to escape the Communist regime in Hungary in 1949 This is a poignant piece of self revelation sprinkled with some trenchant observations on the way the dead hand of history has weighed down the former Warsaw Pact countries Kirkus A fascinating revealing journal brutally honest Publishers Weekly This pensive forthright journal records Suleiman s efforts to reconnect with a long forgotten homeland Booklist Suleiman lyrically describes her quest and the complex interaction of the Eastern Europe of the past and present Boston Globe A tale of survival adaptation and pure luck whose darker side reveals the linguistic and emotional cost of emigration and exile the feeling of permanent displacement of being nowhere at home Forward This story must speak to all those who have fled and who have ever dreamed of a return Independent Jewish Women s Magazine A thoughtful and sophisticated memoir You don t have to be Hungarian or Jewish to appreciate writing like this Montreal Gazette

Contemporary American Women Writers Catherine Rainwater,Willliam J. Scheick,2021-05-11 Ann Beattie Annie Dillard Maxine Hong Kingston Toni Morrison Cynthia Ozick Grace Paley Marge Piercy Anne Redmon Anne Tyler and Alice Walker all seem to be especially concerned with narrative management The ten essays in this book raise new and intriguing questions about the ways these leading women writers appropriate and transform generic norms and ultimately revise literary tradition to make it more inclusive of female experience vision and expression The contributors to this volume discover diverse narrative strategies Beattie Dillard Paley and Redmon in divergent ways rely heavily upon narrative gaps surfaces and silences often suggesting depths which are lamentably absent from modern experience or which mysteriously elude language For Kingston and Walker verbal assertiveness is the focus of narratives depicting the gradual empowerment of female protagonists who

learn to speak themselves into existence Ozick and Tyler disrupt conventional reader expectations of the anti novel and the family novel respectively Finally Morrison s and Piercy s works reveal how traditional narrative forms such as the Bildungsroman and the soap opera are adaptable to feminist purposes In examining the writings of these ten important women authors this book illuminates a significant moment in literary history when women s voices are profoundly reshaping American literary tradition
