Environmental Archaeology: Meaning and Purpose Umberto Albarella, 2013-04-17 Despite the fact that the human life of the past cannot be understood without taking into account its ecological relationships environmental studies are often marginalised in archaeology This is the first book that by discussing the meaning and purpose we give to the expression environmental archaeology investigates the reasons for such a problem This is achieved through the use of theoretical considerations and the aid of a number of case studies which by taking us from Anglo Saxon England to pre Columbian Venezuela and from Classical Greece to late Antique Egypt emphasise the potential of an integrated approach The book is written by archaeologists with different backgrounds and is addressed to all researchers who care about the past relationship between people and the rest of Nature Despite the complexity of some of the issues tackled the book is written in an accessible manner and should be of interest to all students who want to understand the essence of archaeology beyond the boundary of the individual sub disciplines

Piecing Together Sha Po Mick Atha,Kennis Yip,2016-10-01 Hong Kong boasts a number of rich archaeological sites behind sandy bays Among these backbeaches is Sha Po on Lamma Island a site which has long captured the attention of archaeologists However until now no comprehensive study of the area has ever been published Piecing Together Sha Po presents the first sustained analysis framed in terms of a multi period social landscape of the varieties of human activity in Sha Po spanning more than 6 000 years Synthesising decades of earlier fieldwork together with Atha and Yip's own extensive excavations conducted in 2008-2010 the discoveries collectively enabled the authors to reconstruct the society in Sha Po in different historical periods The artefacts unearthed from the site some of them unique to the region reveal a vibrant past which saw the inhabitants of Sha Po interacting with the environment in diverse ways Evidence showing the mastery of quartz ornament manufacture and metallurgy in the Bronze Age suggests increasing craft specialisation and the rise of a more complex competitive society Later on during the Six Dynasties Tang period Sha Po turned into a centre in the region's imperially controlled kiln-based salt industry Closer to our time in the nineteenth century the farming and fishing communities in Sha Po became important suppliers of food and fuel to urban Hong Kong Ultimately this ground-breaking work tells a compelling story about human beings' ceaseless reinvention of their lives through the lens of one special archaeological site A singular effort in the field of Hong Kong archaeology Piecing Together Sha Po adopts a social landscape approach to chart the development of a single site over millennia of occupation revealing as it does the untapped potential which careful field investigations hold for generating a better understanding of the region's rich past

Francis Allard Department of Anthropology Indiana University of Pennsylvania This volume is the best overview of the early history of Hong Kong that I know The authors have articulated patterns of human settlement at Sha Po in a masterly way that informs us not only of Lamma Island or greater Hong Kong but of Lingnan as a whole I welcome it as the key source for specialists and the interested public alike

Charles Higham Department of Anthropology and Archaeology University of Otago New Zealand It is rare indeed for a multi-period study of a region to not only synthesise a vast range of archaeological material but also include incisive points of theory alongside that narrative such as the need to understand evidence at a landscape level and questioning the utility of Neolithic and Bronze Age categories This is such a book

Steve Roskams Department of Archaeology University of York Handbook of Archaeological Theories R. Alexander Bentley, Herbert D. G. Maschner, Christopher Chippindale, 2008 This handbook a companion to the authoritative Handbook of Archaeological Methods gathers original authoritative articles from leading archaeologists on all aspects of the latest thinking about archaeological theory It is the definitive resource for understanding how to think about archaeology

Forensic Approaches to Buried Remains John Hunter, Barrie Simpson, Caroline Sturdy Colls, 2013-08-28 The field of forensic archaeology has developed over recent years from being a branch of conventional archaeology into a well-established discipline in its own right Forensic Approaches to Buried Remains takes an innovative approach to the subject by placing the role of the forensic archaeologist within the wider forensic environment it identifies new areas of interdisciplinary research and practice and evaluates practical difficulties The authors see this book as a reflection of the subject's development and as a knowledge base for the next generation of forensic archaeologists Areas covered include Search logistics integration and specialist search scenarios Levels of confidence in site search and elimination Urban and rural landscape reconstruction in both short and long term cases The integration of cadaver dogs and earth moving machinery The recovery of multiple evidence types Sampling strategies spatial relevance and dating Multiple burial scenarios As part of the Essential Forensic Science book series this book will provide students and practitioners alike with an invaluable resource outlining both the major developments in the discipline as well as original approaches to the search for and recovery of buried remains

Contested Landscapes Barbara Bender, Margot Winer, 2020-05-27 Landscapes are not just backdrops to human action people make them and are made by them How people understand and engage with their material world depends upon particularities of time and place These understandings are dynamic variable contradictory and open ended Landscapes are thus always evolving and are often volatile and contested They are also always on the move people may or may not be rooted but they have legs From prehistoric times onwards people have travelled but the process of people on the move as tourists or on global business as migrant workers or political or economic refugees has vastly accelerated How and why do people who share the same landscape have different and often violently opposed ways of understanding its significance How do people on the move make sense of the unfamiliar How do they create a sense of place How do they rework the memories of places left behind There is nothing easeful about the landscapes discussed in this book which are often harsh edged and troubled both socially and politically The contributors tackle contested notions of landscape to explain the key role it plays in creating identity and shaping human behaviour This landmark study offers an important contribution towards an understanding of the complexity of landscape
