Finally Truffaut Don Allen, 1985 New Novel, New Wave, New Politics Lynn A. Higgins, 1998-03-01 Until now writings on the celebrated movements in literature and film that emerged in France in the mid 1950s the New Novel and New Wave have concentrated on their formal innovations not on their engagement with history or politics New Novel New Wave New Politics overturns this traditional approach Lynn A Higgins argues that the New Novelists e g Alain Robbe Grillet Claude Simon Marguerite Duras and New Wave filmmakers e g Claude Chabrol Francois Truffaut Jean Luc Godard Alain Resnais engage in a kind of historiography They enact the conflicts the double binds of postwar history and representation Higgins claims that what art historian Serge Guilbaut has said of American Abstract Expressionism is equally true of the New Novel and New Wave that its aesthetic innovations provided a way for avant garde artists to preserve their sense of social commitment while eschewing the art of propaganda and illustration It was in a sense a political apoliticism Higgins shows how the New Novel and New Wave are related developments While their individual styles and themes remain distinctive she writes they share an ecriture that can be described as alternately or interconnectedly filmic and novelistic New Wave filmmakers borrowed novelistic devices and made frequent literary allusions while the vision of the novelists is distinctly cinematic A lively account that takes us to the crossroads where culture and politics meet New Novel New Wave New Politics dramatically revises our view of a whole generation of important influential artists Where the Boys are Murray Pomerance, Frances K. by distinguished scholars from various disciplines addresses the central question Was Enlightenment a force for emancipation Their responses working from within and frequently across the disciplinary lines of history political science economics music literature aesthetics art history and film reveal unsuspected connections and divergences even between well known figures and texts In their turn the essays suggest the need for further inquiry in areas that turn out to be very far from closed The volume considers major writings in unusual juxtaposition highlights new figures of importance and demonstrates familiar texts to embody strange implications Publisher s website

Argent de poche auteur ideology and individual style the films of Jean Luc Godard and Agnes Varda the representation of recent French history Lacombe Lucien and Au revoir les enfants transnational production practices Le Pacte des loups and popular cinema comedy and gender issues e.g. Le Diner de cons Each film is embedded in its cultural and political context Together the historical discussions provide an overview of post war French history to the present Useful suggestions are made as to studies of related films both those discussed within the book and outside momentum the Cinema Novo movement of the 1960s and early 70s and the film revival from the mid 1990s onwards What makes them especially strong this book argues is their utopian impulse By adopting Utopia as a theme as well as a method of film analysis Lucia Nagib unveils organises and interprets a fascinating wealth of recurrent images which are a bridge between a cinema strongly concerned with the national project and another informed by global culture Outstanding recent films such as Central Station Perfumed Ball Hans Staden Orfeu City of God and The Trespasser are illuminated by Nagib's sharp analysis which detects utopian anti utopian and even dystopian impulses in them They are at once representatives of a political arena in constant struggle against underdevelopment and legitimate as well as critical heirs of past cinematic traditions Throwing new light on a large selection of Cinema Novo and contemporary films this book thus presents a national cinema that rejects the end of history and of film history while benefiting from and contributing to a new transnational aesthetics
