Anu Bajaj, The Case for Mark Composed in Performance Antoinette Wire, 2011-01-01 Is it possible to make a case that the Gospel of Mark was not composed by a single man from scattered accounts but in a process of people's telling Jesus story over several decades And what can we say about the tellers who were shaping this story for changing audiences After an introduction showing the groundwork already laid in oral tradition research the case begins by tracing the Mark we know back to several quite different early manuscripts which continue the flexibility of their oral ancestors The focus then turns to three aspects of Mark its language which is characterized as speech with special phrases and rhythms its episodes characterized by traditional forms and its overall story pattern that is common in oral reports of the time Finally several soundings are taken in Mark to test the thesis of performance composition two scenarios are projected of possible early tellers of this tradition and a conclusion summarizes major findings in the case Mark's writer turns out to be the one who transcribes the tradition probably adhering closely to it in order to legitimate the new medium of writing

Impersonations Sheryl Hamilton, 2013-06-17
 Personhood is considered at once a sign of legal political status and of socio cultural agency synonymous with the rational individual subject or citizen Yet in an era of life extending technologies genetic engineering corporate social responsibility and smart technology the definition of the person is neither benign nor uncontested Boundaries that previously worked to secure our place in the social order are blurring as never before What does it mean then to be a person in the twenty first century In Impersonations Sheryl N Hamilton uses five different kinds of persons corporations women clones computers and celebrities to discuss the instability of the concept of personhood and to examine some of the ways in which broader social anxieties are expressed in these case studies She suggests that our investment in personhood is greater now than it has been for years and that our ongoing struggle to define the term is evident in law and popular culture Using a cultural studies of law approach the author examines important issues such as whether the person is a gender neutral concept based on individual rights the relationship between personhood and the body and whether persons can be property Impersonations is a highly original study that brings together legal philosophical and cultural expressions of personhood to enliven current debates about our place in the world

Restless Ambition Cathy Curtis, 2015-02-17 This first ever biography of American painter Grace Hartigan traces her rise from virtually self taught painter to art world fame her plunge into obscurity after leaving New York to marry a scientist in Baltimore and her constant efforts to reinvent her style and subject matter Along the way there were multiple affairs four troubled marriages a long battle with alcoholism and a chilly relationship with her only child Attempting to channel her vague ambitions after an early marriage Grace struggled to master the basics of drawing in night school classes She moved to New York in her early twenties and befriended Willem de Kooning Jackson Pollock and other artists who were pioneering Abstract Expressionism Although praised for the coloristic brio of her abstract paintings she began working figuratively a move that was much criticized but ultimately vindicated when the Museum of Modern Art purchased her painting The Persian Jacket in 1953 By the mid fifties she freely combined abstract and representational elements Grace who signed her paintings Hartigan was a full fledged member of the men's club that was the 1950s art scene Featured in Time Newsweek Life and Look she was the only woman in MoMA's groundbreaking 12 Americans exhibition in 1956 and the youngest artist and again only woman in The New American Painting which toured Europe in 1958 1959 Two years later she moved to Baltimore where she became legendary for her signature tough love counsel to her art school students Grace continued to paint throughout her life seeking for better or worse something truer and fiercer than beauty
