Sunderlin, 2003 Does human population growth threaten the environment or does it guarantee we will safeguard it Is economic growth the key ecological problem or is it in fact the solution What will be the leading force to save the planet civil society government or private enterprise This book shows that these polemical debates are governed not so much by access to facts as they are by the political ideology of the expert advancing a particular argument Moreover the thoughts of these experts tend to be based largely in just one of three competing streams of political thought the left the center or the right Drawing on social theory the author explains the philosophical origins of this tendency to rely on just one of three traditions and why this poses a serious obstacle to conceptualizing the cause nature and resolution of environmental problems Sunderlin argues that laying the foundation for a livable world involves giving conscious and dedicated attention to the core tenets of all three political traditions action against class inequality and advocacy of social justice within and among countries reformation of laws and policies emanating from the halls of power and technological innovation in centers of research and wholesale cultural change and promotion of individual initiative responsibility and creativity

Advances in Social Theory and Methodology Karin Knorr Cetina, A.V. Cicourel, 2014-08-21 After a period in which sociology was torn apart by the polarized claims of micro and macro methodology an increasing number of sociologists are now attempting a fusion of the two approaches. In this volume some of the most distinguished sociologists set out possible resolutions of the debate. Each of the chapters placed in perspective by the editors prologue approaches the problem from a unique angle. Aaron Cicourel argues for a macro basis of social interaction. Randall Collins shows how the macro consists of an aggregate of micro episodes. Troy Duster presents a methodological model for generating a systematic data base across different contexts of social action through his examination of the procedures governing screening for inherited disorders. Rom Harr launches a philosophical attack on what he sees as a spurious bifurcation of micro and macro levels. Anthony Giddens explores the problem of unintended consequences and Gilles Fauconnier through a depiction of Jesuitical casuistry shows how vital clues to macro structure can be elicited from the micro phenomenon of language. Victor Lidz continues the language theme in his chapter on the implications of advances in linguistic theory for macro systems theory. Niklas Luhmann illustrates the micro macro problem by the communication about law in interaction systems. The theory of historical materialism is reassessed by Jürgen Habermas. Taking the example of Renault and electric vehicles Michel Callon and Bruno Latour investigate how micro actor status is attained and the sociologists involvement in this transformation. Finally Pierre Bourdieu writing on men and machines analyses the historical imperatives that create the complex relation between man and his environment.
