Climate Change Adaptation and Development John Carstensen, 2018-04-19 Climate change is real and it is man made We have put so many greenhouse gas pollutants into the atmosphere that we will see significant and long term change that we need to adapt and adjust to It is important for development practitioners to understand these impacts and the challenge of how and when to adapt to climate change There are plenty of grim presentations of what the extremes of the possible climate scenarios will throw at us over the next 100 years but not all change will be disastrous some change will be beneficial but much of the change will happen at an unprecedented rate that will require the best possible analysis and understanding of how and when we should adapt to climate change This is important for development practitioners as we invest in ensuring that poverty is reduced and eliminated and the well being of everyone is improved Many countries and communities around the world are vulnerable to the impacts of climate change but developing economies may on one hand be less resilient to the impact but could on the other hand be in a better position to make their development climate smart by making the most efficient use of their economic resources The chapters in this book shine a light on the complexity and the multi dimensional aspects of climate change adaptation They gather some of the experiences of addressing climate change impacts in a development context This book was previously published as a special issue of Development in Practice

International Aid and China's Environment Katherine Morton, 2006-05-17 Rapid economic growth in the world s most populous nation is leading to widespread soil erosion desertification deforestation and the depletion of vital natural resources The scale and severity of environmental problems in China now threaten the economic and social foundations of its modernization Using case studies Morton analyzes the relationship between international and local responses to environmental problems in China challenging the prevailing wisdom that weak compliance is the only constraint upon local environmental management in China It advances two interrelated discussions first it constructs a conceptual framework for understanding the key dimensions of environmental capacity This is broadly defined to encompass the financial institutional technological and social aspects of environmental management Second the book presents the results of an empirical inquiry into the implementation of donor funded environmental projects in both China s poorer and relatively developed regions By drawing upon extensive fieldwork it seeks to explain how and under what conditions international donors can strengthen China s environmental capacity especially at the local level It will be of interest to those studying Chinese politics environmental studies and international relations
