Environmental Ethics And Process Thinking:

Environmental Ethics and Process Thinking Clare Palmer, 1998 In this study Clare Palmer challenges the belief that the process thinking of writers like A N Whitehead and Charles Hartshorne has offered an unambiguously positive contribution to environmental ethics She compares process ethics to a variety of other forms of environmental ethics as well as deep ecology and reveals a number of difficulties associated with process thinking about the environment

Environmental Ethics and Process Thinking Clare Palmer, 1998 Here Palmer challenges the belief that the process thinking of writers like A N Whitehead Charles Hartshorne has offered an unambiguously positive contribution to environmental ethics She compares process ethics to a variety of other forms Handbook of Whiteheadian Process Thought Michel Weber, 2013-04-30 Gathering 115 entries written by 101 internationally renowned experts in their fields the Handbook of Whiteheadian Process Thought aims at canvassing the current state of knowledge in Whiteheadian scholarship and at identifying promising directions for future investigations through internal cross elucidation and external interdisciplinary development Two kinds of entries are weaved together in order to interpret Whitehead secundum Whitehead and to read him from the vantage point of interdisciplinary and crossdisciplinary research The thematic entries provide i a broad contextualisation of the issue at stake ii a focus on Whitehead's treatment if any or of a possible Whiteheadian treatment of the issue iii a history of relevant scholarship iv a personal assessment by the Author The biographical entries provide i a brief vita of the targeted thinker ii a sketch of his/her categories relevant to the Whiteheadian scholarship iii a personal assessment of the actual or possible Whiteheadian semantic transfer to or from the thinker

Environmental Ethics, Ecological Theology, and Natural Selection Lisa H. Sideris, 2003 Lisa Sideris proposes a new way of thinking about the natural world an environmental ethic that incorporates the ideas of natural selection and values the processes rather than the products of nature Such an approach encourages us to take a minimally interventionist approach to nature Only when the competitive realities of evolution are faced squarely Sideris argues can we generate practical environmental principles to deal with such issues as species extinction and the relationship between suffering and sentience Environmental Ethics David R. Keller, 2010-03-15 Through a series of multidisciplinary readings Environmental Ethics: The Big Questions contextualizes environmental ethics within the history of Western intellectual tradition and traces the development of theory since the 1970s Includes an extended introduction that provides an historical and thematic introduction to the field of environmental ethics Features a selection of brief original essays on why to study environmental ethics by leaders in the field Contextualizes environmental ethics within the history of the Western intellectual tradition by exploring anthropocentric human centered and nonanthropocentric precedents Offers an interdisciplinary approach to the field by featuring seminal work from eminent philosophers biologists ecologists historians economists sociologists anthropologists nature writers business writers and others Designed to be used with a web site which contains a continuously updated archive of case studies environmental ethics info Beyond the Bifurcation of Nature Dan Dombrowski, Brianne Donaldson, 2014-10-21 Environmental destruction animal abuse and widespread indifference toward plants and elemental systems demand that a human centric view of the world be permanently dismantled But once it is what functional hierarchies take its place if any This volume brings Alfred North Whitehead's process relational worldview into conversation with deeper empirical perspectives on science and religion with activist and deconstructive philosophies with South Asian and indigenous traditions and with Bioregionalism and Global Ethics Richard Evanoff, 2010-09-13 While a number of schools of environmental thought including social ecology ecofeminism ecological Marxism ecoanarchism and bioregionalism have attempted to link social issues to a concern for the environment environmental ethics as an academic discipline has tended to focus more narrowly on ethics related either to changes in personal values or behavior or to the various ways in which nature might be valued What is lacking is a framework in which individual social and environmental concerns can be looked at not in isolation from each other but rather in terms of their interrelationships In this book Evanoff aims to develop just such a philosophical framework one in which ethical questions related to interactions between self society and nature can be discussed across disciplines and from a variety of different perspectives The central problem his study investigates is the extent to which a dichotomized view of the relationship between nature and culture perpetuated in ongoing debates over anthropocentric vs ecocentric approaches to environmental ethics might be overcome through the adoption of a transactional perspective which offers a more dynamic and coevolutionary understanding of how humans interact with their natural environments Unlike anthropocentric approaches to environmental ethics which often privilege human concerns over ecological preservation and some ecocentric approaches which place more emphasis on preserving natural environments than on meeting human needs a transactional approach attempts to create more symbiotic and less conflictual modes of interaction between human cultures and natural environments which allow for the flourishing of both

Applied Process Thought Mark Dibben, Thomas Kelly, 2013-05-02 Concentrating mainly on the process philosophy developed by Alfred North Whitehead this series of essays brings together some of the newest developments in the application of process thinking to the physical and social sciences These essays by established scholars in the field demonstrate how a wider and deeper understanding of the world can be obtained using process philosophical concepts how the distortions and blockages inevitably inherent in substantivist talk can be set aside and how new and fertile lines of research in the sciences can be opened as a result Freedom and Environment Michael Hannis, 2015-10-05 Must freedom be sacrificed to achieve ecological sustainability or vice versa Can we be genuinely free and live in sustainable societies This book argues that we can if we recognise and celebrate our ecological embeddedness rather than seeking to transcend it But this does not mean freedom can simply be redefined to fit within ecological limits Addressing current unsustainability will involve significant restrictions and hence will require political justification not just scientific evidence

Drawing on material from perfectionist liberalism capabilities approaches human rights relational ethics and virtue theory Michael Hannis explores the relationship between freedom and sustainability considering how each contributes to human flourishing He argues that a substantive and ecologically literate conception of human flourishing can underpin both capability based environmental rights and a eudaimonist ecological virtue ethics With such a foundation in place public authorities can act both to facilitate ecological virtue and to remove structural incentives to ecological vice Freedom and Environment is a lucid addition to existing literature in environmental politics and virtue ethics and will be an excellent resource to those studying debates about freedom with debates about ecological sustainability Environmental Ethics

,2006 Divinanimality Stephen D. Moore,2014-09-15 A turn to the animal is underway in the humanities most obviously in such fields as philosophy literary studies cultural studies and religious studies One important catalyst for this development has been the remarkable body of animal theory issuing from such thinkers as Jacques Derrida and Donna Haraway What might the resulting interdisciplinary field commonly termed animality studies mean for theology biblical studies and other cognate disciplines Is it possible to move from animal theory to creaturely theology This volume is the first full length attempt to grapple centrally with these questions It attempts to triangulate philosophical and theoretical reflections on animality and humanity with theological reflections on divinity If the animal human distinction is being rethought and retheorized as never before then the animal human divine distinctions need to be rethought retheorized and retheologized along with it This is the task that the multidisciplinary team of theologians biblical scholars philosophers and historians assembled in this volume collectively undertakes They do so frequently with recourse to Derrida s animal philosophy and also with recourse to an eclectic range of other relevant thinkers such as Haraway Giorgio Agamben Emmanuel Levinas Gloria Anzaldua Helene Cixous A N Whitehead and Lynn White Jr The result is a volume that will be essential reading for religious studies audiences interested in ecological issues animality studies and posthumanism as well as for animality studies audiences interested in how constructions of the divine have informed constructions of the nonhuman animal through history discusses the way in which the law promotes the conservation of species of animal bird and plant and how it protects natural habitats for protected species Using an interdisciplinary approach the book sets nature conservation in its economic and scientific context It explains how the law reconciles the public interest in promoting biodiversity and the conservation of species and habitats on the one hand and the private property rights of landowners and other resource appropriators on the other The book offers an illuminating new interpretation of this area of environmental regulation using a resource allocation model of property rights to explain how legal and economic instruments for promoting nature conservation work in practice The analysis covers all recent legislation and case law including the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 the Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010 and the 2012 National Planning Policy Framework The book will serve as a critical guide to UK nature conservation law for those working in the system and a valuable reference point on the UK s approach to the area for environmental lawyers and policy makers overseas The Oxford Handbook of Religion and Ecology Roger S.
