American history as evidence of flaws in the founding vision In his nonfiction works Segregation and Who Speaks for the Negro Warren depicted the civil rights movement as a struggle for identity and individualism Ruppensburg traces the development of Warren's attitudes arguing that his support of the civil rights movement paradoxically stemmed from agrarianism which by the 1950s meant something very different to him from the agrarianism of I'll Take My Stand In addition Warren hoped that the civil rights movement would restore some of the nation's original revolutionary ardor and idealism The book closes with an examination of Warren's views on the future of democracy and the individual in a world dominated and threatened by science and technology Looking particularly at The Legacy of the Civil War Democracy and Poetry and the poem New Dawn Ruppensburg concludes that Warren was skeptical about our prospects for survival Still through his advocacy of the arts and the primacy of the individual Warren affirmed the values that he believed would help Western culture to endure Robert Penn Warren sought to explore the meaning of the American experience to validate the promise and the dangers of American ideals and to urge the nation to take stock of itself and struggle for control of its fate in history Through this obsessive search for America's identity Ruppensburg demonstrates Warren affirmed his own position as one of the most accomplished and significant of modern American writers California Wildlife and Their Habitats, 1980
