Living Spaces For Children:

Living Spaces for Children ,1988-10-01      Spaces for Children T.G. David,C.S. Weinstein,2013-11-11 As a developmental psychologist with a strong interest in children's response to the physical environment I take particular pleasure in writing a foreword to the present volume It provides impressive evidence of the concern that workers in environmental psychology and environmental design are displaying for the child as a user of the designed environment and indicates a recognition of the need to apply theory and findings from developmental and environmental psychology to the design of environments for children This seems to me to mark a shift in focus and concern from the earlier days of the interaction between environmental designers and psychologists that occurred some two decades ago and provided the impetus for the establishment of environmental psychology as a subdiscipline Whether because children though they are consumers of designed environments are not the architect's clients or because it seemed easier to work with adults who could be asked to make ratings of environmental spaces and comment on them at length a focus on the child in interaction with environments was comparatively slow in developing in the field of environment and behavior As the chapters of the present volume indicate that situation is no longer true today and this is a change that all concerned with the well being and optimal functioning of children will welcome

Children, Spaces and Identity Margarita Sánchez Romero,Eva Alarcón García,Gonzalo Aranda Jiménez,2015-10-31 How do children construct negotiate and organize space The study of social space in any human group is fraught with limitations and to these we must add the further limits involved in the study of childhood Here specialists from archaeology history literature architecture didactics museology and anthropology build a body of theoretical and methodological approaches about how space is articulated and organized around children and how this disposition affects the creation and maintenance of social identities Children are considered as the main actors in historic dynamics of social change from prehistory to the present day Notions on space childhood and the construction of both the individual and the group identity of children are considered as a prelude to papers that focus on analyzing and identifying the spaces which contribute to the construction of children's identity during their lives the places they live learn socialize and play A final section deals with these same aspects but focuses on funerary contexts in which children may lose their capacity to influence events as it is adults who establish burial strategies and practices In each case authors ask questions such as how do adults construct spaces for children How do children manage their own spaces How do people adults and children build invisible and or physical boundaries and spaces

children's spaces

Children and Childhood: Practices and Perspectives Chandni Basu, Vicky

Anderson-Patton, 2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2013. Concerns about children and childhood have emerged as part of public debate and discourse in the second half of the twentieth century. Theoretical discourse surrounding childhood has been complemented by various development initiatives taken in different parts of the world and research has emerged as an important component of this focus which would carry forward the intellectual and other engagements concerning children and childhood. This volume brings together diverse theoretical and practical deliberations on children and childhood from various parts of the world. It explores conceptual understandings of childhood extending from historical perspectives to extreme expressions of negativity like childism. An historical perspective illuminates the image and imagination of the child in various art forms. The constructed connotation of childhood is portrayed through its cultural comparisons. The close connection of childhood and institutions is explored through the projection and presence of children in schools and legal structures.

Belonging and Belongings Laura Merla, Bérengère Nobels, 2025-05-23

Available open access digitally under CC BY NC ND licence. Based on in-depth fieldwork with Belgian children aged 10 to 16, this book examines how children in shared physical custody define and negotiate their place within the household of each parent. The authors analyse how family practices within and between each dwelling shape children's sense of home and the strategies and skills children develop to manage and position themselves in these different environments. Challenging common stereotypes and giving voice to children in shared custody, the book provides valuable insights for practitioners and scholars to better understand and support children and their parents.

The understandings which children have of Indigenous identity provide means by which to explore the ways in which Indigenous identity is both projected and constructed in society. These understandings play a powerful part in the ways in which Indigenous peoples are positioned in the mainstream society with which they are connected. The research presented in this edited collection uses children's drawings to illuminate and explore the images children both mainstream and Indigenous have of Indigenous peoples. The data generated by this process allows exploration of the ways in which Indigenous identity is understood globally through a series of locally focussed studies connected by theme and approach. The data serves to illuminate both the space made available by mainstream groups and aspects of modernity accommodated within the Indigenous sense of self. Our aim within this project has been to analyse and discuss the ways in which children construct identity both their own and that of others. Children were asked to share their thoughts through drawings which were then used as the basis for conversation with the researchers. In this way the interaction between mainstream modernity and traditional Indigenous identity is made available for discussion and the connection between children's lived experiences of identity and the wider global discussion is both immediately enacted and located within broader international understandings of Indigenous cultures and their place in the world

Housing Development Andrew Golland, Ron Blake, 2004 Brings together information on housing production housing provision and the housing environment highlighting the theoretical and policy contexts in which housing development takes place as an integrated process

Mindfulness for Child and Adolescent Well-Being Kevin Ka Shing Chan, Elsa Ngar Sze Lau, John Chi-Kin Lee, 2024-02-29 Providing a comprehensive overview of the benefits of mindfulness for children and adolescents this edited collection offers an in depth exploration of research theory and practice from international perspectives The book written by academics and clinicians from the East and the West first introduces mindfulness and its roots in spirituality and psychology and then discusses its potential for enhancing the well being of children and adolescents It covers a wide range of topics related to the impact of mindfulness on children and adolescents including its effects on cognitive development academic performance school adjustment emotion regulation mental health and social functioning The chapters also examine how mindfulness related concepts such as self compassion can benefit children with and without special needs as well as the importance of mindful family communication and parenting for the well being of children and adolescents The volume offers valuable insights to researchers educators and practitioners who wish to help young people cultivate mindfulness and enhance well being The insights will also be useful for young people and parents who want to learn about the healing power and health benefits of mindfulness

Cultural Psychology Uwe Wolfradt, Lars Allolio-Näcke, Paul Sebastian Ruppel, 2024-12-17 The introductory book presents the current state of cultural psychology in terms of theoretical approaches and methods comprehensively It also demonstrates how deeply it is anchored in various fields of action Cultural psychology is an interdisciplinary field of research that aims less to objectively and causally explain human behavior and experience but rather seeks to understand psychological phenomena in their respective sociocultural context. In doing so it follows a theoretical understanding of humans as actively acting beings. Compared to the prevailing nomothetic oriented psychology it emphasizes different theoretical and methodological approaches particularly highlighting intentionality meaning structuring and ultimately the cultural aspects of human existence. Cultural psychology incorporates both hermeneutic approaches from psychology philosophy sociology and ethnology as well as qualitative methods for studying human behavior and experience.

Understanding Research with Children and Young People Alison Clark, Rosie Flewitt, Martyn Hammersley, Martin Robb, 2013-12-10 How do views about children shape research concerned with their lives? What different forms can research with children take? What ethical issues does it involve? How does it impact on policy and practice and on the lives of children themselves? This book helps you to understand how research is designed and carried out to explore questions about the lives of children and young people. It tackles the methodological practical and ethical challenges involved and features examples of actual research that illustrate different strategies for carrying out research. Common challenges that arise in the research process. Varying modes of engagement that researchers can adopt with participants and audiences and The impact that research can have on future studies policy and practice.

The Anthropology of Welfare Iain Edgar, Andrew Russell, 2002-03-11 The Anthropology of Welfare provides an overview of what anthropology has to offer welfare studies and vice versa. Case studies from anthropologists in the field examine different branches of welfare and community care for example Maternity services Children with learning difficulties Children's homes Mothers centres People with HIV Mental health centres Housing Care and provision for the elderly. Contributors focus on comparative welfare systems examples are taken from urban and rural areas of the UK USA Sweden Germany Portugal and New Zealand. In each case the theoretical and methodological appropriateness of social anthropology for the study of welfare and the insights gained by bringing anthropology and welfare together are examined. The Anthropology of Welfare will be essential reading.
