Lobbying For Higher Education:

Lobbying for Higher Education Constance Ewing Cook, 1998 Historically many faculty and administrators in higher education have regarded themselves as above the fray part of the national interest not a special interest and considered lobbying a dirty business unworthy of their lofty enterprise Now that academia no longer enjoys all the respect and good will that federal policy makers once afforded it that attitude has changed The Republican sweep of the 1994 Congressional elections served as a wake up call for the higher education community In response it made a spirited effort to gain attention for its own policy preferences Lobbying for Higher Education is about how the major higher education associations and the constituent American colleges and universities try to influence federal policy especially congressional policy In clear prose Cook explains how the higher education community organizes itself in Washington how it lobbies and how its major interest groups are perceived both by their own members and by public officials The book focuses on the crucial development in 1995 1996 of a new lobbying paradigm which included the greater use of campus based resources and ad hoc coalitions The most engrossing part of its story is higher education s creative response to the policy turmoil and disruption of the status quo that resulted from the shift in congressional party control The author Constance Cook uses sources unique to this project over 1 500 survey responses from college and university presidents a 62% return rate and nearly 150 interviews with institutional and association leaders Fortuitously the 1994 electoral upheaval provided her with an opportunity to capture analyze and interpret the responses of her subjects in a period of unusually sweeping change Lobbying for Higher Education is a timely book with an interesting and important story at its core

Tingley, 2017 This study sought a better understanding of lobbying tactics used in higher education at the state level Given the economic recession the United States experienced in recent years it is now more important than ever for public higher education to maintain its current funding levels and effectively communicate needed policy changes To advance all public institutions there must be communication with legislative officials and state level higher education governing board members The primary research question for this study was What strategies and tactics are used in higher education lobbying at the state level and how do these strategies influence the decisions made by legislative decision makers Through semi structured interviews in North Carolina and South Carolina the researcher coded and analyzed information using the framework for public policy development established by the work of Gabel and Scott The researcher developed a case study for each state extracted common themes compared them through a cross case analysis and then used triangulation to help validate the results mostly using newspapers and periodicals to back up what was discovered during the interviews The analysis revealed the common strategies and tactics that guide lobbying activities in North Carolina and South Carolina The researcher also conducted interviews with campus based lobbyists at public institutions elected officials and higher education governing board members in North Carolina and South Carolina This study identifies the most important state priorities in public higher education This study went beyond previous studies as it examined two states with differing higher education governing structures Further this study involved interviews with elected officials campus based lobbyists and higher education governing board members The strategies and tactics identified will help higher education institutions advocate for funding and policy changes and increase the body of knowledge of public higher education lobbying at the state level American Higher Education John R.

F. Forest, Kevin

Kinser,2002-06-21 Surveys the changing landscape of American higher education from academic freedom to virtual universities from campus crime to Pell Grants from the Student Privacy Act to student diversity In the years following World War II college and university enrollment doubled students revolted faculty unionized and community colleges evolved Tuition and technology soared as did the number of first generation minority and women students These changes radically transformed the American system of postsecondary education Today that system is in trouble Its aging professoriate prepares for retirement but low academic salaries can no longer attract the best minds to replace them A flood of corporate dollars funds commercial research but money for basic research the seedbed of American scientific preeminence has dried up Colleges and universities also face heated competition with for profit education providers for students faculty and external financial support along with the costs of providing remedial education to growing numbers of students who are unprepared for postsecondary education Higher Education in the United States provides a comprehensive analysis of these issues and others that scholars and practitioners of higher education study discuss and grapple with on a daily basis The Higher Education Scene in America Abraham Gitlow,Howard Gitlow,2014-10-06 Based on the authors experiences in academe over seventy five years The Higher Education Scene in America Some Observations discusses a number of issues that confront America s higher education scene today Those issue embrace such problems as 1 the missions s of our colleges and universities and the development of critical thinking and or employability 2 the role of for profit academic institutions 3 the impact of online technology 4 diffusion of power and achievement of consensus between administrators and faculty 5 the importance of financial matters embracing budgets fundraising and endowments 6 the insidious problem of conflicts of interest 7 the scandalous impact of big time big money Division 1 sports on academe 8 the growth of non academic functions and 9 the importance of leadership in consensual institutions and how leaders are chosen American Higher Education in the Twenty-First Century Michael N. Bastedo,Philip G. Altbach,Patricia J. Gumport,2023-01-31 First three editions published with Philip G Altbach as the principal editor Comparative Higher Education Politics Jens Jungblut,Martin Maltais,Erik C. Ness,Deanna Rexe,2023-05-12 This volume provides an overview of the state of the art of research on the politics of higher education policy in Canada the US and Western Europe Each thematic chapter combines an extensive literature review with original empirical work that further advances our understanding of policymaking dynamics in higher education The book covers five key aspects of policymaking namely the politics of governance as well as funding reforms the role of interest groups policy diffusion and policy framing These aspects are explored using a unique comparative design that combines comparisons within as well as between regions and among the five key aspects of policymaking The conceptual framework is anchored in approaches from institutional theory namely sociological and historical institutionalism This rare book coherently focuses on the same critical challenges that higher education faces in a changing global and national environment These include vital governance and finance issues and how these are framed and contested by different organizations and interest groups as well as state actors Within a broad institutionalist framework that reflects the tensions between historical university and national legacies on the one hand and regional and global influences on the other the authors focus on policymaking in Western Europe Canada and the US This is an engaging and creative endeavor a must read for scholars and policymakers alike Francisco O Ramirez Graduate School of Education Stanford University This is a real achievement that will contribute to the development of research in politics of higher education policy finance and economic development It is timely in an era when higher learning is increasingly salient to national policy interest groups and supranational bodies such as the EU The focus on Canada the US and Europe frames a comparative approach to a competitive higher educational policy arena that has not received systematic study Sheila Slaughter Louise McBee Institute of Higher Education University of Georgia This fills a gaping hole in research on the politics of higher education In bringing together research perspectives from governance studies with comparative public policy as well as scholars from Europe and Northern America this volume will serve as an important reference point for a rapidly growing research field The exceptionally high quality of editorship is documented by the fact that the chapters are convincingly subsumed under five sub themes In short A must read for any researcher and student interested in understanding the political foundations of higher education Marius R Busemeyer Department of Politics and Public Administration University of Konstanz Higher Education Accountability Robert Kelchen, 2018-02-27 Beginning with the earliest efforts to regulate schools the author reveals the rationale behind accountability and outlines the historical development of how US federal and state policies accreditation practices private sector interests and internal requirements have become so important to institutional success and survival Innovation, Profit and the Common Good in Higher Education J. Harpur, 2010-07-30 University ethics is everyone's business and big business is what the university is all about whether in the US Europe or the rest of the world How this has come about is less important than that it has and is being taken very seriously by global and national forces The important issue confronting higher education is its assumed role in guaranteeing economic prosperity Governments are no longer content to let research leak out serendipitously into the economy The Post Industrial Society Information Society Knowledge Economy and Smart Economy require nothing less than commercially directed research producing innovative products The public interest is reduced to economic measures The political social and moral implications of changing practices in the university are rarely acknowledged in the rise of the New Alchemy This book examines the resulting ambiguities and questionable evidence in favour of current policies Routledge Library Editions: Higher Education Various, 2021-03-29 The volumes in this set originally published between 1964 and 2002 draw together research by leading academics in the area of higher education and provide a rigorous examination of related key issues The volume examines the concepts of learning teaching student experience and administration in relation to the higher education through the areas of business sociology education reforms government educational policy business and religion whilst also exploring the general principles and practices of higher education in various countries This set will be of particular interest to students and practitioners of education politics and sociology Public Funding of Higher Education Edward P. St. John, Michael D. Parsons, 2005-09-23 Much of the twentieth century saw broad political support for public funding of American higher education Liberals supported public investment because it encouraged social equity conservatives because it promoted economic development Recently however the politics of higher education have become more contentious Conservatives advocate deep cuts in public financing liberals want to expand enrollment and increase diversity Some public universities have embraced privatization while federal aid for students increasingly emphasizes middle class affordability over universal access In Public Funding of Higher Education scholars and practitioners address the complexities of this new climate and its impact on policy and political advocacy at the federal state and institutional levels Rethinking traditional rationales for public financing contributors to this volume offer alternatives for policymakers administrators faculty students and researchers struggling with this difficult practical dynamic Contributors M Christopher Brown II Pennsylvania State University Jason L Butler University of Illinois Choong Geun Ching Indiana University Clifton F Conrad University of Wisconsin Madison Saran Donahoo University of Illinois James Farmer JA SIG uPortal James C Hearn Vanderbilt University Janet M Holdsworth University of Minnesota Don Hossler Indiana University John R Thelin University of Kentucky Mary Louise Trammell University of Arizona David J Weerts University of Wisconsin Madison William Zumeta University of Washington
