

HEAVY PAYLOADS

... at passenger speeds

The Nickel Plate's fleet of fifty-five Lima-built 2-8-4s enables them to maintain the necessarily fast schedules required by today's freight demands. During the past five years, this railroad has been building up its motive power to enable it to handle maximum payloads at a maximum of efficiency and economy.

Freight train schedules are rapidly approaching the speeds of passenger schedules. Keep abreast of the times with power that is capable of meeting today's ever increasing demands.

Grant, 2010-11-23 Jonathan A Grant has written a highly original study of the Putilov works the most famous industrial conglomerate in the Russian Empire during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries With the emergence of a capitalist system in the Russian federation in the 1990s scholarly debate over the nature of Russian capitalism has been revived and with this study Grant issues a major challenge to the conventional wisdom on the nature of the Russian economy in the years before the Bolshevik revolution Grant argues that the Putilov Company which manufactured arms for the Russian state and a wide range of heavy industrial equipment for civilian use adopted business practices that resembled the experiences of large machinery and armaments manufacturers in Britain France the Austro Hungarian Empire and Germany This interpretation runs directly counter to the traditional and widely held view that Russian capitalism was shaped by the tsarist state s orders and subsidies and that the tsarist system was incompatible with the development of modern capitalism Grant makes direct comparisons between Putilov and the famous western firm of Krupp and Vickers illustrating similar business decisions made by both companies in terms of diversification of the product line and a penchant for private as opposed to state markets for primary income Grant has gone beyond Soviet works on the Putilov plant examining archival documents of the company and offering critical comments on both Soviet and Western scholarship on Russian economic and social history from the perspective of this important industrial enterprise Grant not only repeatedly demonstrates that the Putilov firm responded effectively to the changing market for its wide range of industrial products but also shows that the tsarist regime provided far more of the systemic regularity needed for capitalist development than generally believed Grant's work is a significant contribution to this ongoing debate offering a much needed case study of Russian business history and a comparative study that extends across national boundaries Big Business in Russia is essential reading for graduate students in Russian and European history and will also appeal to American and European business leaders eager to understand the historical background of the current economic challenges facing Russia     Engineering News-record ,1897     Manufacturers' Record ,1903     Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record ,1918     A History of the American Locomotive John H.
