deer, homesteaders, potatoes, loggers, trees, fisherman, salmon, & other living things in the backwoods of Northern California, 1974    An everyday history of somewhere: being the true story of Indians ... of Northern California

Ray Raphael, 1974    Down by the Bay Matthew Booker, 2020-06-09 San Francisco Bay is the largest and most productive estuary on the Pacific Coast of North America It is also home to the oldest and densest urban settlements in the American West Focusing on human inhabitation of the Bay since Ohlone times Down by the Bay reveals the ongoing role of nature in shaping that history From birds to oyster pirates from gold miners to farmers from salt ponds to ports this is the first history of the San Francisco Bay and Delta as both a human and natural landscape It offers invaluable context for current discussions over the best management and use of the Bay in the face of sea level rise    City of Wood James Michael

Buckley, 2024 In City of Wood architectural historian James Buckley explores San Francisco's rapid urban development as a product of the physical and economic transformation of the natural environment of the American West San Francisco is best known as a product of the gold and silver that were mined from California's mountains and streams but as Buckley shows the city's growth was in fact fueled by a wide range of natural resources that could be converted into marketable commodities City of Wood investigates the architecture of a typical Western resource industry redwood lumber to determine how the exploitation of California's natural resources shaped the built environment of both San Francisco and its broader hinterland
