London Buses And The Second World War:

London Buses Oliver Green, 2019-09-15 The red double decker bus is part of London's personality and is famous all round the world as an icon of a great city Tracing nearly 200 years of history this book places the classic Routemaster in its context

The Second World War and the 'Other British Isles' Daniel Travers, 2018-06-28 What is often held to be Britain's finest hour the Second World War was not experienced so uniformly across the British Isles On the margins the war was endured in profoundly different ways While D Day or Dunkirk is embedded in British collective memory how many Britons can recall that Finns were interned on the Isle of Man that enemy soldiers developed British infrastructure in Orkney or that British subjects were sent to concentration camps from Guernsey Such experiences tangential to the dominant British war narrative are commemorated elsewhere in the other British Isles In this remarkable contribution to British Island Studies Daniel Travers pursues these histories and their commemoration across numerous local sites of memory museums heritage sites and public spaces He examines the way these island identities assert their own distinctiveness over the British wartime story and ultimately the way they fit into the ongoing discourse about how the memory of the Second World War has been constructed since 1945

Today's London Buses Reiss O'Neill, 2021-04-28 Filled with color photos a look at the variety of London's buses in recent years Today's London Buses covers the London bus scene of recent years including pictures of bus types used in the capital on its major services This volume looks at various routes across London during this period and the variety of vehicles that have been used in that time frame Some of the services depicted in this book have already changed or ceased to operate during the period covered The author has set out to illustrate in broad terms the color and variety of London bus operation during this time of great change to bus services

London Buses in the 1970s Jim Blake, 2018-05-30 Using photographs from Jim Blake's extensive archives this book examines the turbulent period in the history of London's buses immediately after London Transport lost its Country Buses and Green Line Coaches to the recently formed National Bus Company under their new subsidiary company London Country Bus Services Ltd The new entity inherited a largely elderly fleet of buses from London Transport notably almost 500 RT class AEC Regent double deckers of which replacement was already under way in the shape of new AEC MB and SM class Swift single deckers London Transport itself was in the throes of replacing a much larger fleet of these At the time of the split it was already apparent that the 36ft long MB class single deckers were not suitable for London conditions particularly in negotiating suburban streets cluttered with cars and were also mechanically unreliable The shorter SM class superseded them but they were equally unreliable January 1971 saw the appearance of London Transport's first purpose built one man operated double decker the DMS class All manner of problems plagued these too Both operators were also plagued with a shortage of spare parts for their vehicles made worse by the three day week imposed by the Heath regime in 1973 4 London Transport and London Country were still closely related with the latter's buses continuing to be overhauled at LT's Aldenham Works Such were the problems with the

MB SM and DMS types that LT not only had to resurrect elderly RTs to keep services going but even repurchased some from London Country In turn the latter operator hired a number of MB types from LT now abandoned as useless from 1974 onwards in an effort to cover their own vehicle shortages Things looked bleak for both operators in the mid 1970s This book contains a variety of interesting and often unusual photographs illustrating all of this most of which have never been published before     Sources for the History of London 1939-45 Heather J. Creaton,1998     London Buses and the Second World War Ken Glazier,1986     The London Leylands Jim Blake,2018-03-30 LONDON S FAMOUS RT TYPE BUSES were an iconic symbol of our Capital city in the 1950s before being superseded by the Routemasters Most were built between 1947 and 1954 to replace worn out pre war and wartime buses as well as our remaining trams More than 7 000 were built in all and although London Transport favored A E C chassis which the first batches of RTs had so pressing was the need for new buses that not enough could be supplied by that manufacturer to match demand Therefore Leyland Motors were contracted to adapt their Leyland Titan PD2 chassis to fit bodies that for the most part were identical with those on RTs The result was the 1 631 strong RTL class together with the 500 RTWs which had bodies also built by Leyland to the same general design were built between 1948 and 1954 Always in a minority compared to the 4 825 strong RT class these Leyland buses had a character all of their own perhaps personified by their louder engine note They also had a reputation for being heavier on their steering than the RTs making them unpopular with staff and therefore general withdrawal of them commenced in 1958 taking almost ten years to complete in November 1968 whereas the RTs soldiered on until April 1979 During the RTL and RTW class buses final years Jim Blake was out and about photographing them throughout London A selection of his photographs of them most previously unpublished is presented here Nearly fifty years after their demise from London s streets the RTLs and RTWs still have a firm following amongst bus enthusiasts and preservationists alike and it is to them that this book is dedicated     The Colours of London Buses 1970s Kevin McCormack,2016-02-29 This is a colour album of London Buses concentrating mainly on the 1970s which was the first decade since London Transport s inception in 1933 to feature a large number of buses on London streets which were not painted in the mainly all red or in a few c

London's Buses: The independent era, 1922-1934 Ken C. Blacker,Ron S. Lunn,R. G. Westgate,1977     Buses Built Before 1950 Royston Morris,2021-08-15 Royston Morris shares some of his photographs documenting surviving examples of buses built before 1950     London Transport Buses, Trams and Trolleybuses in Preservation Malcolm Batten,2023-08-15 Marking 90 years of London Transport this selection of images celebrates its buses trams and trolleybuses in preservation     The London Mini and Midi Bus Types David Beddall,2024-06-06 London Passenger Transport Board inherited a number of small buses from various independent operators during the early 1930s followed by the introduction of the Leyland Cub around the same period The introduction of the big bus policy saw many of the small buses withdrawn from service The 1950s saw the introduction of the GS class Guy Special for use on the lightly trafficked country routes More smaller buses entered the London Transport fleet in the form of the Ford Transit and Bristol LH LHS saloons The mid 1980s saw a resurgence in small bus operation as a cost cutting exercise Many new types entered service with London Buses Limited and other independent operators The introduction of these minibuses saw a number of new services introduced to serve previously unserved areas of London However the success of these small buses led to their replacement by the larger Dennis Dart midibus while the introduction of varying lengths of Darts catered for many of London s needs other types of mini and midibuses were taken into stock by London based operators for fill in gaps London s Mini and midibuses takes a look at the various types of mini and midibuses that have operated on routes in the Greater London area

London Transport Buses in the 1960s Jim Blake,2022-10-21 Just as life in Britain generally changed dramatically during the 1960s so did London Transport s buses and their operations Most striking was the abandonment of London s trolleybuses once the world s biggest system and their replacement by motorbuses Begun in 1959 using surplus RT types it was completed by May 1962 using new Routemasters designed specifically to replace them They then continued to replace RT types too Traffic congestion and staff shortages played havoc with London Transport s buses and Green Line coaches during the 1960s one man operation was seen as a remedy for the latter shortening routes in the Central Area for the former Thus the ill fated Reshaping Plan was born introducing new O M O bus types These entered trial service in 1965 and after much delay the plan was implemented from September 1968 onwards Sadly new MB types also introduced in the Country Area soon proved a disaster Unfortunately owing to a government diktat Routemaster production ended at the start of 1968 forcing LT to buy off the peg vehicles unsuited to London operation and their in house overhaul procedures The decade ended with the loss of LT s Country Area buses and Green Line coaches to the National Bus Company Photographer Jim Blake began photographing London s buses towards the end of the trolleybus conversion program in 1961 and continued dealing with the changing scene throughout the decade He dealt very thoroughly with the Reshaping changes and many of the photographs featured herein show rare and unusual scenes which have never been published before

London in the Twentieth Century Jerry White,2009-11-10 Jerry White s London in the Twentieth Century Winner of the Wolfson Prize is a masterful account of the city s most tumultuous century by its leading expert In 1901 no other city matched London in size wealth and grandeur Yet it was also a city where poverty and disease were rife For its inhabitants such contradictions and diversity were the defining experience of the next century of dazzling change In the worlds of work and popular culture politics and crime through war immigration and sexual revolution Jerry White s richly detailed and captivating history shows how the city shaped their lives and how it in turn was shaped by them

A People's History of London Lindsey German, John Rees, 2012-06-19 In the eyes of Britain's heritage industry London is the traditional home of empire monarchy and power an urban wonderland for the privileged where the vast majority of Londoners feature only to applaud in the background Yet for nearly 2000 years the city has been a breeding ground for radical ideas home to thinkers heretics and rebels from John Wycliffe to Karl Marx It has been the site of sometimes violent clashes that changed the course of history the Levellers doomed struggle for liberty in the aftermath of the Civil War the silk weavers match girls and dockers who crusaded for workers rights and the Battle of Cable Street where East Enders took on Oswald Mosley's Black Shirts A People's History of London journeys to a city of pamphleteers agitators exiles and revolutionaries where millions of people have struggled in obscurity to secure a better future

British Policy and Strategy towards Norway, 1941-45 C. Mann, 2012-11-19 After the German occupation of 1940 Britain was forced to reassess its relationship with Norway a country largely on the periphery of the main theatres of the Second World War Christopher Mann examines British military policy towards Norway concentrating on the commando raids deception planning and naval operations
