Learning Through Language In Early Childhood:

Learning Through Language in Early Childhood Clare Painter, 2005-03-01 Language is a child's major tool for learning about the world. Through the taken-for-granted interactions of everyday conversation a child not only learns the mother tongue but uses it as a resource for thinking and reasoning. This book presents a rich naturalistic case study of one child's use of language from two and a half to five years, drawing on systemic functional theory to argue that cognitive development is essentially a linguistic process and offering a new description and interpretation of linguistic and cognitive developments during this period. The case study examines the child's changing language in terms of its role in interpreting four key domains of experience: the world of things, the world of events, the world of semiosis (including the inner world of cognition) and the construal of cause and effect. It shows how new linguistic possibilities constitute developments in cognitive resources and prepare the child for later learning in school.

Written by leading academics in the field, it explores how children learn to talk, play, use language, become literate and make meaning from birth through to the pre-school years. Emphasising the importance of imagination and the arts in language learning, this book addresses a wide range of contemporary issues, highlights the impact of diverse socioeconomic language and cultural backgrounds on young children's language and literacy development and shows how early childhood teachers can effectively partner with parents and caregivers to help children learn through and about language. Case studies, interviews, reflective questions, clear links to the Early Years Learning Framework and the Australian Curriculum and a rich array of practical and creative activities for use in early childhood environments help students connect theory and current research to practice.
