Learning Strategies And Learning Styles:

Learning Strategies and Learning Styles Ronald R. Schmeck, 2013-11-11 A style is any pattern we see in a person's way of accomplishing a particular type of task. The task of interest in the present context is education learning and remembering in school and transferring what is learned to the world outside of school. Teachers are expressing some sort of awareness of style when they observe a particular action taken by a particular student and then say something like "This doesn't surprise me. That's just the way he is." Observation of a single action cannot reveal a style. One's impression of a person's style is abstracted from multiple experiences of the person under similar circumstances. In education, if we understand the styles of individual students, we can often anticipate their perceptions and subsequent behaviors, anticipate their misunderstandings, take advantage of their strengths and avoid or correct their weaknesses. These are some of the goals of the present text. In the first chapter, I present an overview of the terminology and research methods used by various authors of the text. Although they differ a bit with regard to meanings ascribed to certain terms or with regard to conclusions drawn from certain types of data, there is nonetheless considerable agreement, especially when one realizes that they represent three different continents and five different nationalities.

Cognitive Styles and Learning Strategies Richard Riding, Stephen Rayner, 2013-10-23 First Published in 1998 This book deals with what may well turn out to be the missing element in the study of individual differences: cognitive style. Its intention is to distinguish between and integrate the research attempts, particularly over the past half century, to make sense of style differences. In several respects, this book is unique in that it contains material that is not covered in any other and draws together the various aspects of psychology relevant to the study of individual differences. It is in this sense both a textbook and a source of reference for many professionals working in a range of contexts. The content of the book has relevance for a language acquisition Alphonse Michael, 2017-06-29 Literature Review from the year 2017 in the subject American Studies Linguistics grade 76 2 Kenyatta University language English abstract Student learning styles and second language acquisition is a sensible process where one learns of another language than of his or her first language This process takes place after one has already gained the first language Therefore when studying the second language the learner can also find the language to be the third fourth or fifth in his or her studies The first language is the first language a person learns immediately after he or she is born Caregivers or parents that surround an individual when he or she is born mostly teach this language Like the second language learning one can also have more than one language at the same time The author gives a brief overview on 11 recent studies on the subject Spotlight on Learning Styles : teacher strategies for learner success Marjorie Rosenberg, 2012-12 Spotlight on Learning Styles focuses on how we learn rather than what we learn It sheds light on our individual learning preferences and what we can do to learn and to teach more successfully teachers recognise the characteristics of their own teaching styles and learners recognise the characteristics of their own learning styles The book also provides opportunities for us all to step outside our comfort zones and multiply our possibilities for success Spotlight on Learning Styles contains three distinctive parts which focus in turn on theory practice and development part A explains the importance and influence of our preferred learning styles revealing how as teachers we can create a more inclusive classroom integrating and motivating all our students each with their individual strengths and weaknesses part B concentrates on activities we can employ to teach more comprehensively and enable all our students to become successful learners We discover our own preferred learning styles and those of our students and activate the Visual Auditory and Kinaesthetic sensory channels the Global Analytic cognitive processes and the Mind Organisation model of perception Part C introduces further approaches points to further activities beyond the purely linguistic and suggests further reading thus widening the spotlight and providing a springboard for opening up new horizons of discovery and development of learning and of teaching What You Should Know about Teaching and Learning Styles Claudia E.
