Gresley And Stanier:

Gresley and Stanier John Bellwood, D. Jenkinson, 1986 The Turbomotive: Stanier's Advanced Pacific Tim Hillier-Graves, 2017-03-30 Turbomotive was unique in Britain's railway history and an experimental engine that proved successful but came too late to effect the direction of steam development or deflect the onset of diesel and electric locomotives. It was the brainchild of two of the most influential engineers of the twentieth century: William Stanier of the LMS and Henry Guy of Metropolitan Vickers. They hoped that turbine power, which had already revolutionized ships' propulsion and power stations, would do the same for the railways. When Turbomotive appeared in 1935, she became a PR phenomenon at a time when commercial rivalry between the LMS and the LNER was reaching its height. Its launch at Euston in June was accompanied by a great fanfare and much publicity. Such was the interest in this revolutionary idea that the engine would attract attention all her life. Although producing good but not remarkable performances, she remained in service, plying her trade between London and Liverpool for longer than anyone predicted. Most expected a quick rebuild to conventional form, but the coming of war and lack of resources meant that she carried on until 1950 in turbine form. Inevitably, change came when maintenance costs seemed likely to escalate and rebuilding seemed unavoidable. She reappeared in August 1952, part Princess and part Coronation, but her new life was cut short by the disaster at Harrow in October. Although many thought her repairable, she was scrapped to make way for another experimental steam engine. This book presents the compulsive and fascinating story of this remarkable locomotive, drawn from a wide variety of sources, many previously untapped and unpublished, including memories of the designers, the crew who drove her, accountants and hardheaded business men, PR teams, the press, the passengers, and many more. Gresley's Silver Link Tim Hillier-Graves, Ronald Hillier, 2023-03-23 Gresley's A4 Pacifics are arguably the most famous locomotives ever built, a status cemented by Mallard's record-breaking run on the 3rd July 38. And yet only a year later the glamorous streaks seemed likely to be cast into obscurity by the coming of another world war. So for only four exhilarating years they were allowed to flourish as their creator had intended, and in that time captured the imagination of railwaymen and public alike. With the help of previously unpublished material, the author analyses the complex evolution of the A4s, a project that began in 1911 when Gresley was appointed as Locomotive Superintendent of the Great Northern Railway. It is a story with many strands to consider: war, peace, and war again; engineering and art; politics and business; recession and social change; the growth of the media and consumerism; the struggle for professional reputations; and a growing, deeply damaging international rivalry. All these elements are captured in the story of the A4s in the heady days before conflict ended their brief golden age, and Gresley's life came to an end. Flying Scotsman, and the Story of Gresley's First Pacific Locomotives Tim Hillier-Graves, 2023-12-30 Herbert Nigel Gresley's first Pacifics, though notable in their day, were made universally famous by one of their number, 4722 Flying Scotsman. Throughout her life, she has been feted and glamorised far more than any of her sisters, and yet when appearing from the LNER Works at

Doncaster in 1923 she was just another member of the class but at some stage early in her career she acquired star status and to this day has not lost it But why is this so and why do people care so deeply about this locomotive even though her deeds were easily exceeded by Gresley's A4 Pacifics Was it her styling her name her performance or simply the work of very talented purveyors of slick PR Or was it an amalgam of all these issues As Flying Scotsman reaches 100 not out it is fascinating to reflect on these questions But to do so we must consider how the Class came about how they were developed the impact they made on society as it was then how they were sold to a waiting public and much more From all this we may be able to understand why 4472 rose above the others and became an icon that still graces our lives today It is the author believes a story without parallel in railway history The Complete Encyclopedia of Locomotives Mirco De Cet, Alan Kent, 2006 Just like today with high specification computers being used to design even higher specification models for the next generation the making of machines to make machines was one of the most important aspects of the Industrial Revolution The lathe for example is the oldest known machine tool and dates back to antiquity but it wasn't until the late 17th century that such industries as clock making the building of scientific instruments furniture and gun makers began to convert from woodworking lathes to ones that were capable of machining metal Craftsmen needed precise machines that could shape metal gears cut metal screws and stamp shapes out of metal thus enabling others to assemble their products

Engineer of Revolutionary Russia Prof Dr Anthony Heywood, 2013-07-28 This book is the first substantial study in any language of one of revolutionary Russia's most distinguished and controversial engineers Iurii Vladimirovich Lomonosov 1876-1952 Not only does it provide an outline of his remarkable life and career it also explores the relationship between science technology and transport that developed in late tsarist and early Soviet Russia Lomonosov's importance extends well beyond his scientific and engineering achievements thanks to the rich variety and public prominence of his professional and political activities His generation Lenin's generation was inevitably at the forefront of Russian life from the 1910s to the 1930s and Lomonosov took his place there as one of the country's best known and ultimately notorious engineers As well as an innovative engineer who campaigned to enhance the role of science he played a major role in shaping and administering the Russian railways and undertook several diplomatic and scientific missions to the West during the early years of the Revolution Falling from political favour during an assignment in Germany 1923-1927 he achieved notoriety in Russia as a non returner by apparently declining to return home Thereby escaping probable arrest and execution he began a new life abroad 1927-1952 which included a research post at the California Institute of Technology in 1929-1930 collaborative projects with the famous physicist P L Kapitsa in Cambridge a long time association with the Institution of Mechanical Engineers in London and work for the British War Office during the Second World War From Marxist revolutionary to American academic this study reveals Lomonosov's extraordinary life Drawing on a wide variety of official Russian sources as well as Lomonosov's own diaries and memoirs a vivid portrait of his life is presented offering a better understanding of how science technology and politics interacted in early twentieth century Russia Gresley's Master Engineer, Bert Spencer Tim Hillier-Graves, 2023-11-23 The great and the good rarely if ever accomplish all they wish to achieve without the able assistance of many skilled men and women To have a very capable person beside you acting as guide confidant and adviser is essential Even better when it is someone with a depth of knowledge equal to or even better than your own If all these skills can be combined in one trusted assistant so much the better To a leader such a person may be valued beyond rubies because they have the ability to take ideas add something and help make them a reality For Herbert Nigel Gresley CME of the LNER Bert Spencer was just such a man As Gresley triumphed his faithful introverted and highly talented assistant remained resolutely in the background playing an unsung yet key role in the development of Gresley's outstanding Pacifics and his many other memorable locomotives For sixteen vibrant years Spencer sat beside his greatly admired leader witnessing and participating in all that happened adding much to an emerging legend that still resounds with us today Here for the first time is Spencer's fascinating story much of it in his own words This was made possible by the thoughts and memories he recorded in letters to friends papers he wrote for the Institution of Locomotive Engineers official documents and much more All this has been edited together to produce a unique and important personal narrative of his life and work Mallard Don Hale, 2019-09-02 Just over eighty years ago on the East Coast main line the streamlined A4 Pacific locomotive Mallard reached a top speed of 126mph a world record for steam locomotives that still stands Since then millions have seen this famous locomotive resplendent in her blue livery on display at the National Railway Museum in York Here Don Hale tells the full story of how the record was broken from the nineteenth century London Scotland speed race and surprisingly traces Mallard's futuristic design back to the Bugatti car and the influence of Germany's nascent Third Reich which propelled the train into an instrument of national prestige He also celebrates Mallard's designer Sir Nigel Gresley one of Britain's most gifted engineers Mallard is a wonderful tribute to one of British technology's finest hours The Locomotives of Robert Riddles Colin Boocock, 2023-11-09 The Locomotives of Robert Riddles guides the reader in the quest to understand how Robert Riddles' career on the LMS and in war service shaped his knowledge and character and led to him becoming the obvious choice for leading the locomotive engineering function within the newly formed Railway Executive The book outlines the substantial impact Riddles had on the design and supply of locomotives that were to support the Allied military campaigns in the second world war including useful analysis of the types of locomotives specifically designed for that work The bulk of the book outlines the decision making processes that led to the twelve designs of standard steam locomotives that were intended to be the future stop gap before electrification and the political and practical reasons for successive policy changes that led to their unexpectedly short lives Those events include the 1955 Modernization Plan with its emphasis on dieselization and the subsequent railway rationalizations that reduced the need not only for new steam locomotives but also made relatively new diesels redundant Each BR standard locomotive type is described in its own chapter The performance of each class is given its rightful emphasis The book is comprehensively illustrated with largely unpublished pictures that cover a wide range of locations and locomotive duties Fire and Steam Christian Wolmar,2008-05-01 Now in paperback Fire and Steam tells the dramatic story of the people and events that shaped the world's first railway network one of the most impressive engineering achievements in history The opening of the pioneering Liverpool and Manchester Railway in 1830 marked the beginning of the railways vital role in changing the face of Britain Fire and Steam celebrates the vision and determination of the ambitious Victorian pioneers who developed this revolutionary transport system and the navvies who cut through the land to enable a country wide network to emerge The rise of the steam train allowed goods and people to circulate around Britain as never before stimulating the growth of towns and industry as well many of the facets of modern life from fish and chips to professional football From the early days of steam to electrification via the railways magnificent contribution in two world wars the checkered history of British Rail and the buoyant future of the train Fire and Steam examines the social and economical importance of the railway and how it helped to form the Britain of today

Brighton Atlantics James S. Baldwin,2017-08-30 The Brighton Atlantic locomotives were some of the most handsome machines ever constructed at Brighton Works They were signed by the D Earl Marsh Locomotive Superintendent of the London Brighton and South Coast Railway and produced as two classes the H1 introduced in 1905 1906 and the H2 introduced in 1911 1912 The Brighton Atlantic type has had a following among enthusiasts and model engineers for over a century with many fine examples of models of these machines being constructed in all scales both as live steam and electric powered Great interest is still there today with many models of these fine locomotives on show at model engineering exhibitions and on smaller scale Brighton or Southern layouts The Bluebell Railway in East Sussex is currently constructing a full size replica of the last H2 Atlantic Beachy Head in a workshop at Sheffield Park using some parts from the original locomotive and a rescued Great Northern Atlantic boiler The project to construct a replica machine has aroused a great deal of public interest in this design of locomotive At this time there are no books available on the market for anyone who would like to construct a model on or take an interest in the replica project on the Bluebell Railway Government Publications

Issued During ... Great Britain. Her Majesty's Stationery Office,1976 British Locomotive Design Graham Glover,2023-10-09 First published in 1967 British Locomotive Design is a review of British locomotive practice during the century and a quarter of steam's ascendancy The author shows how the Stephenson basic plan while remaining essentially unchanged was adapted over the years to meet the increasing demands made upon it in terms of haulage power and speed The subject's widespread appeal is derived largely from the enormous variety of practical examples furnished by the products of the former companies the groups and nationalisation and in the description of these by one who has a lifelong predilection for the steam engine in all its manifestations readers will find due recognition accorded to the machines which had won their favour and with others have exercised a fascination as unquestionable as it is difficult to account for in set terms This book will be of interest to students of engineering technology design and history Steam Locomotive Development Kevin Philip Jones,1969 Biography of British Train Travel Don Benn,2017-05-19 Railway Anthology is a collection of mainly previously unpublished articles and short stories covering a lifelong interest in railways It spans a wide spectrum over the years from the early days in Kent in 1960 through the many hours on the lineside on the Surrey Hills line and the South Western main line to the last frantic years of steam on the Southern and the current steam scene as well as the privileged and exciting times spent riding on the footplate of steam locomotives It majors on the authors main railway passions of steam locomotives train running performance including modern motive power and all matters Southern Locomotive performance in Europe and a tramway are also included as is a fascinating minor and little visited narrow gauge railway in Southern England plus heritage traction on the London Underground The book comprises approximately 350 illustrations many in colour as well as contemporary timetable extracts and copies of notebook pages which cover shed visits in Scotland Fifty train running logs are included together with some detailed records of days spent by the linesides of railways when steam was still the predominant motive power in parts of the south Subject Catalog Library of Congress,1977 *Historical Records of the King's Own Stafford Rifles, (3rd K.O.
