second Friederike Unger's Julchen Grunthal brings to the Frauenroman or women's novel the use of irony to portray a heroine's emotions during her coming of age. The next novels add lyricism to their prose to capture sensual emotions. Sophie Mereau's Blutenalter der Empfindung (The Blossoming of Feeling) imagines women's affinity for the philosophical sublime while Caroline Wolzogen depicts female desire in her Agnes von Lilien. The fifth novel Die Honigmonathe (The Honeymoon) by Karoline Fischer explores the agony that extreme emotions cause not only for women but also for men. The last novel Caroline Pichler's Frauenwurde (The Dignity of Women) expands the focus from a young heroine to multiple mature characters while maintaining the centrality of women's talents and emotions. Finally, this study accords honorable mention to some other women's novels before concluding that the influence of these six works was in no way trivial either in portraying women's lives and emotions or in the history of German literature.

Alain Stalder, 2018-06-03. This book presents the website exactphilosophy.net as of 2017. Written by a Swiss physicist, it contains lots of beautiful novel ideas inspired by nature and physics, ancient and modern philosophy as well as by astrology, the I Ching and more. Please note that this book does not yet present these ideas in a way and format suitable for most readers. That will follow in other books by the same author. Instead, this book addresses anyone with a mind free enough to think outside of some of the usual boxes paired with imagination and also a more scientifically critical mind. In the end, as it implies, the exact in exactphilosophy. In essence, first elements are tentatively defined from first principles inspired mostly by Kant; then some correlations between these abstractly defined elements and the ancient Greek elements are revealed, as well as with the 8 trigrams of the Chinese I Ching and more.

Questioning the Canon Christine Meyer, 2021-07-05. To what extent do minority writers feel represented by the literary canon of a nation and its body of great works? To what extent do they adhere to or contest the supposedly universal values conveyed through those texts and how do they situate their own works within the national tradition? Building on Edward W. Said's contrapuntal readings and Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak's reflections on the voice of the subaltern, this monograph examines the ways in which Rafik Schami, Emine Sevgi Zaimoglu and Feridun Zaimoglu have re-read, challenged and adapted the German canon. Similar to other writers in postcolonial contexts, their work on the canon entails an inquiry into history and a negotiation of their relation to the texts and representations that define the host nation. Through close analyses of the works of these non-native German authors, the book investigates the intersection between politics, ethics and aesthetics in their work, focusing on the appropriation and re-evaluation of cultural legacies in
