Francis Ford Coppola:

The Francis Ford Coppola Encyclopedia James M. Welsh, Gene D. Phillips, Rodney F. Hill, 2010-08-27 Francis Ford Coppola's career has spanned five decades from low budget films he produced in the early 1960s to more personal films of recent years. Because of the tremendous popular success of The Godfather and the tremendous critical success of its sequel, Coppola is considered to be one of the best directors of all time. The entries in this encyclopedia focus on all aspects of Coppola's work from his early days with producer Roger Corman to his films as the director of the 1970s. This extensive reference contains material on all of the films Coppola has played a role in from screenwriter to producer to director including such classics as Patton, The Godfather, The Conversation, The Godfather Part II and Apocalypse Now. Each entry is followed by a bibliography of published sources both in print and online making The Francis Ford Coppola Encyclopedia the most comprehensive reference on this director's body of work.

Francis Ford Coppola Michael Schumacher, 1999 So you still want to direct films Coppola wearily asked one of his assistants after a long day of shooting on The Godfather. Always remember three things: Have the definitive script ready before you shoot. There'll always be some changes but they should be small ones. Second, work with people you trust and feel secure with. Remember good crew people you've worked with on other films and get them for your film. Third, make your actors feel very secure so they can do their job well. Pausing for a moment Coppola considered his advice. I've managed to do none of these things on this film, he concluded. Francis Ford Coppola is one of the seminal filmmakers of the generation that changed the way movies are made. Five of the films he's worked on are listed among the American Film Institute's top 100 films ever made. He is a man who's spent his life seeking to realize his own artistic vision even as he acknowledges the force that truly drives Hollywood: box office receipts. Francis Ford Coppola: A Filmmaker's Life is the first complete picture of the flawed cinematic genius who directed the Godfather trilogy, Apocalypse Now, The Conversation, and other distinctive films, some wildly successful, some disastrous. Coppola is on every film aficionado's list of Hollywood's greatest directors. But he is renowned nearly as much for his mistakes as for his masterpieces, for his bluster as for his brilliance, for the money he has lost as for the fortunes he has made. In an era when playing it safe seems to be the credo of the Hollywood Wall Street complex, Coppola is a driven, unpredictable renegade who has repeatedly gambled everything in an effort to bring his ideas to life regardless of the cost. In Francis Ford Coppola we hear the entire story of this man's career covered in more detail than ever before, from his apprenticeship under Roger Corman to his winning a Director's Guild Lifetime Achievement Award. Along the way we learn how he turned a pulp Mafia novel into a cinematic classic, how he almost literally killed himself during the filming of Apocalypse Now, and how he confirmed Hollywood's predictions about him with various flops and follies along the way. In the hands of biographer Michael Schumacher, who gained unprecedented access to Coppola's friends, critics, peers, casts, and crews, the story of Francis Ford Coppola makes for irresistible reading and the first complete picture of this complex, conflicted genius.

Godfather Gene D. Phillips, 2004-04-16 WITH A FOREWORD

BY WALTER MURCH Gene Phillips blends biography studio history and film criticism to complete the most comprehensive work on Coppola ever written The force behind such popular and critically acclaimed films as Apocalypse Now and the Godfather trilogy Coppola has imprinted his distinct style on each of his movies and on the landscape of American popular culture In Godfather Phillips argues that Coppola has repeatedly bucked the Hollywood factory system in an attempt to create distinct films that reflect his own artistic vision often to the detriment of his career and finances Phillips conducted interviews with the director and his colleagues and examined Coppola's production journals and screenplays Phillips also reviewed rare copies of Coppola's student films his early excursions into soft core pornography and his less celebrated productions such as One from the Heart and Tucker The Man and His Dream The result is the definitive assessment of one of Hollywood's most enduring and misunderstood mavericks

Francis Ford Coppola Francis Ford Coppola, 2004 These interviews show how the director of The Godfather and The Godfather Part II evolved from hotshot film maverick to elder statesman of American cinema

Francis Ford Coppola Jeff Menne, 2014-12-15 Acclaimed as one of the most influential and innovative American directors Francis Ford Coppola is also lionized as a maverick auteur at war with Hollywood's power structure and an ardent critic of the postindustrial corporate America it reflects However Jeff Menne argues that Coppola exemplifies the new breed of creative corporate person and sees the director's oeuvre as vital for reimagining the corporation in the transformation of Hollywood Reading auteur theory as the new American business theory Menne reveals how Coppola's vision of a new kind of company has transformed the worker into a liberated and well utilized artist but has also commodified individual creativity at a level unprecedented in corporate history Coppola negotiated the contradictory roles of shrewd businessman and creative artist by recognizing the two roles are fused in a postindustrial economy Analyzing films like The Godfather 1970 and the overlooked Tucker The Man and His Dream 1988 through Coppola's use of opera Menne illustrates how Coppola developed a defining musical aesthetic while making films that reflected the idea of a corporation as family and how his studio American Zoetrope came to represent a new brand of auteurism and the model for post Fordist Hollywood
