Still Forbidden Planet and Blade Runner among others this book charts cinema's fascination with artificial intelligence and the technological double as well as the historical antecedents of the artificial human Screening the Past Tony Barta, 1998-08-20 Film and television have been accepted as having a pervasive influence on how people understand the world An important aspect of this is the relationship of history and film The different views of the past created by film television and video are only now attracting closer attention from historians cultural critics and filmmakers This volume seeks to advance the critical exploration scholars have recently begun Barta begins by addressing the various ways the past is screened for our understanding and relates the art of film to other media The essays that follow deal primarily with the changing perspectives of political and social developments and changing concepts of ideology gender or culture in films and television programs made for historically shaped reasons Chapters by filmmakers explore issues of context and intent in their own projects Scholars and general readers interested in film and cultural studies will find this an important volume The Men who Made the Monsters Paul M. Jensen, 1996 In the Men Who Made the Monsters Paul Jensen chronicles the careers of five men who made shamelessly scary enjoyable and sometimes classic films James Whale whose films include Frankenstein 1931 and The Invisible Man 1933 Willis O'Brien King Kong 1933 Mighty Joe Young 1949 Ray Harryhausen The 7th Voyage of Sinbad 1958 Jason and the Argonauts 1963 Terence Fisher Dracula 1958 Frankenstein Must Be Destroyed 1969 and Freddie Francis The Skull 1965 Tales That Witness Madness 1973 Usually working within tight budgets and short production schedules these three directors Whale Fisher Francis and two masters of special effects O'Brien Harryhausen turned out films that proved them to be not only skillful craftsmen but artists In the inhuman the unearthly the monstrous they found and explored the depths of our most human fears and fascinations Seventies British Cinema Robert Shail, 2019-07-25 Seventies British Cinema provides a comprehensive re-evaluation of British film in the 1970s The decade has long been written off in critical discussions as a doldrums period in British cinema perhaps because the industry facing near economic collapse turned to unacceptable low culture genres such as sexploitation comedies or extreme horror The contributors to this new collection argue that 1970s cinema is ripe for reappraisal giving serious critical attention to populist genre films they also consider the development of a British art cinema in the work of Derek Jarman and Peter Greenaway and the beginnings of an independent sector fostered by the BFI Production Board and producers like Don Boyd A host of highly individual directors managed to produce interesting and cinematically innovative work against the odds from Nicolas Roeg to Ken Russell to Mike Hodges As well as providing a historical and cinematic context for understanding Seventies cinema the volume also features chapters addressing Hammer horror the Carry On films Bond films of the Roger Moore period Jubilee and other films that responded to Punk rock heritage cinema and case studies of key seventies films such as The Wicker Man and Straw Dogs In all the book provides the final missing piece in the rediscovery of British cinema's complex and protean history Contributors Ruth Barton James Chapman Ian Conrich Wheeler Winston Dixon Christophe Dupin Steve Gerrard
