Franks And Alamanni In The Merovingian Period An Ethnographic Perspective:

Franks and Alamanni in the Merovingian Period Ian N. Wood, 1998 The Alamans were early victims of post Roman expansion of the Frankish empire These studies consider both races from historical archaeological and linguistic perspectives from the 3rd to the 6th centuries The Scandinavians : from the Vendel period to the tenth century ; an ethnographic perspective Judith Jesch, 2002 Power and Religion in Merovingian Gaul Yaniv Fox, 2014-09-18 This study is the first to attempt a thorough investigation of the activities of the Columbanian congregation which played a significant role in the development of Western monasticism This was a new form of rural monasticism which suited the needs and aspirations of a Christian elite eager to express its power and prestige in religious terms Contrary to earlier studies which viewed Columbanus and his disciples primarily as religious innovators this book focuses on the political economic and familial implications of monastic patronage and on the benefits elite patrons stood to reap While founding families were in a privileged position to court royal favour monastic patronage also exposed them to violent reprisals from competing factions Columbanian monasteries were not serene havens of contemplation but rather active foci of power and wealth and quickly became integral elements of early medieval statecraft Regna and Gentes Hans-Werner Goetz, Jörg Jarnut, Walter Pohl, 2003 This book is the first comprehensive and comparative study of the difficult relationship between ethnic identities and political organisation in the post Roman and early medieval kingdoms 16 authors historians archaeologists and linguists deal with ten important kingdoms of this period and with its political and legal context Empires of Faith Peter Sarris, 2011-10-27 A panoramic account of the history of Europe the Mediterranean and the Near East from the fall of Rome to the rise of Islam Warfare and Society in the Barbarian West 450-900 Guy Halsall, 2008-01-28 Guy Halsall relates warfare to many aspects of medieval life economy society and politics This book recovers its distinctiveness looking at warfare in a rounded context in the British Isles and Western Europe between the end of the Roman Empire and the break up of the Carolingian Empire Examining the raising and organization of early medieval armies and looks at the conduct of campaigns the survey also includes a study of the equipment of warriors and the horrific experience of battle as well as an analysis of medieval fortifications and siege warfare Warfare and Society in the Barbarian West uses historical and archaeological evidence in a rigorous and sophisticated fashion It stresses regional variations but also places Anglo Saxon England in the mainstream of the military developments in this era and in the process provides an outstanding resource for students of all levels The Mirror of the Medieval K. Patrick Fazioli, 2017-05-01 Since its invention by Renaissance humanists the myth of the Middle Ages has held a uniquely important place in the Western historical imagination Whether envisioned as an era of lost simplicity or a barbaric nightmare the medieval past has always served as a mirror for modernity This book gives an eye opening account of the ways various political and intellectual projects from nationalism to the discipline of anthropology have appropriated the Middle Ages for their own ends Deploying an interdisciplinary toolkit author

K Patrick Fazioli grounds his analysis in contemporary struggles over power and identity in the Eastern Alps while also considering the broader implications for scholarly research and public memory Social Mobility in Late Antique Gaul Allen E. Jones, 2009-07-20 Barbarian Gaul Evidence and control Social structure I hierarchy mobility and aristocracies Social structure II free and servile ranks The passive poor prisoners The active poor pauperes at church Healing and authority I physicians Healing and authority II enchanters

Race and Ethnicity in Anglo-Saxon Literature Stephen Harris, 2004-06-01 What makes English literature English This question inspires Stephen Harris's wide ranging study of Old English literature From Bede in the eighth century to Geoffrey of Monmouth in the twelfth Harris explores the intersections of race and literature before the rise of imagined communities Harris examines possible configurations of communities illustrating dominant literary metaphors of race from Old English to its nineteenth century critical reception Literary voices in the England of Bede understood the limits of community primarily as racial or tribal in keeping with the perceived divine division of peoples after their languages and the extension of Christianity to Bede's Germanic neighbours was effected in part through metaphors of family and race Harris demonstrates how King Alfred adapted Bede in the ninth century how both exerted an effect on Archbishop Wulfstan in the eleventh and how Old English poetry speaks to images of race

Landscape with Two Saints Lisa M. Bitel, 2009-05-19 Lisa Bitel uses the history of two unique holy women Genovefa of Paris ca 420 509 and Brigit of Kildare ca 452-524 to reveal how ordinary Europeans lived through Christianization at the dawn of the Middle Ages. Most converts did not have a sudden epiphany. Bitel argues. Instead they learned and lived their new religion in continuous conversation with preachers, saints, rulers, and neighbors. Together they built their faith over many years, brick by brick, into their churches and shrines, cemeteries, houses, and even their markets and farms.

Archaeology of Frankish Church Councils, AD 511-768 Gregory I. Halfond, 2010. Despite growing scepticism concerning the evidentiary value of normative legal sources, scholars continue to mine the legislative acts of ecclesiastical councils for insight into political, religious, and quotidian life in Frankish Gaul. Between the reigns of Clovis and Charlemagne (AD 511-768), at least eighty councils assembled, often on royal command, to discuss issues of concern to the episcopal and clerical attendees. Their published canons were intended to communicate ecclesiastical policy in the Frankish regnum. However, scholars have paid comparatively slight attention to the institution responsible for this body of legislation. This book remedies this lacuna by delineating the functions and modus operandi of the Frankish church council as an administrative body.

Early Medieval Europe 300-1050 David Rollason, 2018-03-29. Early Medieval Europe 300-1050: A Guide for Studying and Teaching empowers students by providing them with the conceptual and methodological tools to investigate the period. Throughout the book, major research questions and historiographical debates are identified, and guidance is given on how to engage with and evaluate key documentary sources as well as artistic and archaeological evidence. The book's aim is to engender confidence in creative and independent historical thought. This second edition has been fully revised and expanded and now includes coverage of both Islamic and Byzantine history, surveying and critically examining the often radically different scholarly interpretations relating to them. Also new to this edition is an extensively updated and closely integrated companion website, which has been carefully designed to provide practical guidance to teachers and students, offering a wealth of reference materials and aids to mastering the period and lighting the way for further exploration of written and non-written sources. Accessibly written and containing over 70 carefully selected maps and images, Early Medieval Europe 300-1050 is an essential resource for students studying this period for the first time as well as an invaluable aid to university teachers devising and delivering courses and modules on the period.

The Construction of Communities in the Early Middle Ages Richard Corradini, Max Diesenberger, Helmut Reimitz, 2002-12-01. This volume offers a comparative study of the ways in which the new communities that developed in the course of the transformation of the Roman world (4th-8th centuries) were pulled together. In understanding the political, social, religious, and ethnic formations in the early medieval West as communities under construction, the various contributions attempt an exemplary discussion of the various forms in which significance and cohesion could be achieved. Case studies include the terminology of ethnicity, population movements, evacuees and refugees, treasures in their material and symbolic aspects, early kingship, cities, and ethnic survivals of the Visigoths, Merovingian identities and hairstyles, Christian communities, and historiography in the Frankish kingdoms.

Building Legitimacy Isabel Alfonso, María Isabel Alfonso Antón, Hugh (Hugh N.) Kennedy, Julio Escalona, 2004 This volume provides relevant insights into medieval political legitimation and its impact on political competition and notions of power With a main focus on medieval Castile the political discourses purporting to legitimate practices of power are discussed both as pieces of textual material and in their wider historical context

Urban Transformations in the Late Antique West: Materials, Agents, and Models André Carneiro, Neil Christie, Pilar Diarte Blasco, 2020 This volume is the fruit of a highly productive international research gathering academic and professional field and museum colleagues to discuss new results and approaches recent finds and alternative theoretical assessments of the period of transition and transformation of classical towns in Late Antiquity Experts from an array of modern countries attended and presented to help compare and contrast critically archaeologies of diverse regions and to debate the qualities of the archaeology and the current modes of study While a number of papers inevitably focused on evidence available for both Spain and Portugal we were delighted to have a spread of contributions that extended the picture to other territories in the Late Roman West and Mediterranean The emphasis was very much on the images presented by archaeology rescue and research works recent and past but textual data were also brought into play by various contributors
