Ecological Research with Children and Families Alan R. Pence, 1988 Sourcebook of Family Theories and Methods Pauline Boss, William J. Doherty, Ralph LaRossa, Walter R. Schumm, Suzanne K. Steinmetz, 2008-11-19 Origins We call this book on theoretical orientations and methodological strategies in family studies a sourcebook because it details the social and personal roots i.e. sources from which these orientations and strategies flow Thus an appropriate way to preface this book is to talk first of its roots its beginnings In the mid 1980s there emerged in some quarters the sense that it was time for family studies to take stock of itself A goal was thus set to write a book that like Janus would face both backward and forward a book that would give readers both a perspective on the past and a map for the future There were precedents for such a project The Handbook of Marriage and the Family edited by Harold Christensen and published in 1964 the two Contemporary Theories about the Family volumes edited by Wesley Burr Reuben Hill F. Ivan Nye and Ira Reiss published in 1979 and the Handbook of Marriage and the Family edited by Marvin Sussman and Suzanne Steinmetz then in production

Neighborhood Poverty Jeanne Brooks-Gunn, Greg Duncan, J. Lawrence Aber, 1997-11-13 Perhaps the most alarming phenomenon in American cities has been the transformation of many neighborhoods into isolated ghettos where poverty is the norm and violent crime drug use out of wedlock births and soaring school dropout rates are rampant Public concern over these destitute areas has focused on their most vulnerable inhabitants children and adolescents How profoundly does neighborhood poverty endanger their well being and development Is the influence of neighborhood more powerful than that of the family Neighborhood Poverty approaches these questions with an insightful and wide ranging investigation into the effect of community poverty on children's physical health cognitive and verbal abilities educational attainment and social adjustment This two volume set offers the most current research and analysis from experts in the fields of child development social psychology sociology and economics Drawing from national and city based sources Volume I reports the empirical evidence concerning the relationship between children and community As the essays demonstrate poverty entails a host of problems that affects the quality of educational recreational and child care services Poor neighborhoods usually share other negative features particularly racial segregation and a preponderance of single mother families that may adversely affect children Yet children are not equally susceptible to the pitfalls of deprived communities Neighborhood has different effects depending on a child's age race and gender while parenting techniques and a family's degree of community involvement also serve as mitigating factors Volume II incorporates empirical data on neighborhood poverty into discussions of policy and program development The contributors point to promising community initiatives and suggest methods to strengthen neighborhood based service programs for children Several essays analyze the conceptual and methodological issues surrounding the measurement of neighborhood characteristics These essays focus on the need to expand scientific insight into urban poverty by drawing on broader pools of ethnographic epidemiological and quantitative data Volume II explores the possibilities for a richer and more well rounded understanding of neighborhood and poverty issues To grasp the human cost of poverty we must clearly understand how living in distressed neighborhoods impairs children's ability to function at every level Neighborhood Poverty explores the multiple and complex paths between community family and childhood development

Approaches to Navigating Immigrant Ecologies Hui Chu, Barbara Thelamour, 2020-12-07 This book compiles a series of empirical and conceptual chapters based on Bronfenbrenner's ecological theory as the framework for understanding the overlapping and intersecting contexts that influence different populations of migrants in the United States and Canada. According to Bronfenbrenner's model, individuals engage in activities and relationships that directly impact them, including families, schools, and jobs (microsystems); the interrelations among microsystems like family, school, and work (mesosystems); contexts that have an impact on the individual through indirect influences (exosystems); and the overarching cultural milieu in which members share values, beliefs, and lifestyles (macrosystems). Within this edited volume, family, school, work, media, policies, culture, and sociohistorical contexts are examined to understand their influence on immigrant groups. This edited volume also considers immigrants across development and ethnic groups to provide a comprehensive resource on the issues that currently affect immigrant groups.

Evaluating Family-Based Services Peter J. Pecora, 2018-02-06 Family-based service (FBS) programs have been developing rapidly across the country at a time of increasingly scarce human resources and in a politically volatile climate. Such a context has made evaluation of such programs imperative. The present volume reviews basic elements of evaluation in the light of current knowledge and then highlights the most useful research instruments for measuring changes in child and family functioning. Chapters focus on evaluation methods that can be employed to determine the success of existing policy and to influence the development of new policy. The authors assume that their readers will have a basic familiarity with research methods and program evaluation. They discuss the challenges they have encountered in conducting extensive research on family preservation, family support, and other related programs and pose practical solutions for administrators, practitioners, and evaluators confronted with similar difficult issues. Each chapter presents a brief conceptual framework for understanding issues related to assessment. Essential elements are reviewed while research design, measurement variables, and qualitative and quantitative analyses are discussed in turn. The book concludes with a review of the limitations of evaluations.
