Virgil, David Ferry, 2005 John Dryden called Virgil's Georgics written between 37 and 30 B C E the best poem by the best poet The poem newly translated by the poet and translator David Ferry is one of the great songs maybe the greatest we have of human accomplishment in difficult and beautiful circumstances and in the context of all we share in nature The Georgics celebrates the crops trees and animals and above all the human beings who care for them It takes the form of teaching about this care the tilling of fields the tending of vines the raising of the cattle and the bees There's joy in the detail of Virgil's descriptions of work well done and ecstatic joy in his praise of the very life of things and passionate commiseration too because of the vulnerability of men and all other creatures with all they have to contend with storms and plagues and wars and all mischance The Georgics Virgil, 1982 The Georgics is the production of Virgil's mid to late thirties He began writing it between 38 and 36 B C and read the finished poem to Octavian in 29 B C when the Emperor had just returned from his successful eastern campaign Though peace and good husbandry are celebrated in the poem the pressure of events affected Virgil and much of the matter of The Georgics bears oblique reference to the immediate and recurrent theme of war and civil strife In this new translation of a classic poem which has marked English poetry deeply by its example Robert Wells has chosen a plain carefully paced and resonant language He respects the matter of the poem its actual content and Virgil's more than literary understanding of his theme and the poem has particular authority in Wells' English because of his familiarity with Virgil's landscape and the rural disciplines that inform Virgil's poem In his introduction Wells attempts a revaluation of the poem and describes its perennial power Front cover book flap Virgil's Georgics Virgil, 2003-01-01
